Government Orders Beef Price Cuts

Ceilings Will Drop Up To 12 Cents Pound

Reductions Take Effect On Monday

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The government today slashed about 12 cents a pound off the new ceiling prices on some chuck steaks and pot roasts.

An order issued by the Office of Price Stabilization also cut the ceiling price on rump roast by five to six cents a pound.

The reductions are effective next Monday when dollars - and - cents ceiling prices on beef must be posted on meat market counters across the nation.

Today's action has no connection with the projected general rollback which is scheduled to reduce all beef prices by about 10 cents a pound by next Oct. 1.

The order simply amends Monday's ceiling regulations to allow for "inequities" and to provide other adjustments in the original order issued on April 29.

What New Order Does

Here is what the new order does:

It sets the same price for steaks and pot roasts of the varieties known as chuck arm and chuck blade, bone in.

Arm chucks were about 13 cents a pound higher than chuck blades in the original April 29 beef orders. On Monday, the ceiling on arm chucks will drop 12 cents and the ceiling on chuck blades will go up one cent.

OPS officials said the changes were made because most consumers cannot readily distinguish between the two cuts.

The order also cuts five to six cents a pound off the previously announced ceiling price on choice and good grade rump roasts, bone in. Officials said it will sell for about 79 cents a pound instead of 84 cents.

OPA said the price of choice and good boneless rump remains at $1.12 a pound.

Barbers Must Post Prices

"Nothing could please Joe Stalin more than to see runaway inflation in this country," he told the House Banking Committee.

The committee and its Senate counterpart are considering President Truman's program for tighter economic controls to follow expiration of the defense production law in June.

The Office of Price Stabilization today issued a special pricing order requiring barber shops, beauty parlors, laundries, parking lots, etc., to post ceiling prices.

This order, effective May 16, re-

Senator Stricken At GOP Conference

TULSA, Okla., May 11 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) (above) was stricken suddenly tonight as he neared the close of an address to the Republican National Committee meeting here.

Millikin, who heads the conference of all Republican senators, apparently had a fainting spell while addressing a banquet session.

Millikin was assisted away from a microphone by members of the committee seated on the platform. His speech was being broadcast nationally.

He was taken to a side room and revived. Millikin returned later to his hotel room where friends said he was resting.

House Committee Votes To Boost Liquor, Beer Tax

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to raise the federal excise taxes on liquor, beer and wine by $250,500,000, to the highest levels in the annals of American drinking.

The government would collect about two cents more taxes on every jigger of whisky, gin, brandy or rum; a tenth to a fifth of a cent additional on each glass of beer, and a couple of pennies more on a goblet of champagne.

The rate on distilled spirits would rise from $9 per 100-proof gallon to $10.50, making the tax on a fifth of 90-proof liquor $1.89 instead of $1.62. The Treasury had asked for a $12 a gallon rate.

Levy $9 Barrel On Beer

On beer, the levy would be $9 a barrel in place of the current $8. The administration asked $12.

The tax on light table wines would go up from 15 cents a gallon to 17 cents. On wines containing 14 to 21 per cent alcohol the rate would be 67 cents a gallon rather than 60 cents. The fortified wines—port, sherry, tokay and so on—would be taxed $2.25 a gallon in place of $2. The rate on champagne and other naturally fermented sparkling wines would go up from 15 cents a half pint to 17 cents; on artificially carbonated wines from 10 cents to 12 per half pint.

All the wine rates tentatively approved were considerably lower than those the Treasury recommended. The Treasury wanted $90,000,000 additional revenue from this source, and was voted an estimated $8,500,000.

Whisky Tax $2 Gallon In '34

The committee calculated its liquor tax increase would produce an extra $167,000,000. The Treasury had sought $329,000,000. The estimated increase on beer is $68,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 asked by the treasury.

Liquor and beer taxes have mounted steadily since repeal. The rate on whisky in 1934 was $2 a gallon. This rose to $2.25 in 1938, to $3 in 1940, $4 in 1941, $6 in 1942 and $9 in 1943. The rate was only $1.10 a gallon before the First World War.

"Scientist X" Ordered Held For Contempt

Weinberg Refuses To Answer Queries

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg, the "Scientist X" of the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation of atomic espionage, was ordered held under $1,000 bond for contempt of the Federal District Court.

Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff set a hearing for Monday morning on the charge growing out of Weinberg's refusal to answer questions put to him by a federal grand jury.

The bespectacled University of Minnesota professor refused to answer questions pertaining to his place of residence in Berkeley, Calif., and certain acquaintance at the time he was a scientist at the University of California atomic laboratory in 1943.

Judge Holtzoff directed Weinberg to answer the grand jury's questions at an open hearing in the District of Columbia Federal Court.

Weinberg, however, refused on grounds that to do so would incriminate him. He claimed privileges granted by the Constitution permitted a witness in a criminal proceeding to refuse to testify himself.

Weinberg is said by the House Un-American Activities Committee to have passed atom bomb secrets to the Communists during the war years while a physicist at the University of California Radiation Laboratory.

Judge Holtzoff remanded Weinberg into custody of the U. S. marshall on recommendation of Assistant U. S. District Attorney William Hitz.

Myron Ehrlich, Weinberg's attorney, asked that Weinberg be released on his own cognizance for appearance Monday. To hold him in jail, Ehrlich contended, would mean loss of Weinberg's job on the Minnesota faculty.

Judge Holtzoff said he didn't believe in treating professors differently than anyone else, and ordered Weinberg to post bond.

Ehrlich told newsmen he would arrange it.

Judge Throws Book At Moran

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Ambassador William O'Dwyer's longtime pal, James J. Moran, drew a five-year prison sentence today for lying to the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee.

Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey, adding a $2,000 fine to the penalty, threw the book at Moran—courtroom slang for punishing him to the limit of the law.

Moran flushed and bobbed his head at the sentence. Then, grimly and silently, he strode from the courtroom to launch an appeal from last Tuesday's conviction.

His freedom on $25,000 bond was continued pending the outcome of the appeal.

The 49-year-old Moran was convicted of perjury for telling Senate crime probers March 16 that he met Brooklyn Numbers Racketeer Louis Weber no more than half a dozen times.

Millions of persons for the first time in history watched the actual commission of the crime on television and heard the words that branded Moran a liar.

His conviction and sentence was the first growing out of the dramatic cross-country series of Senate crime hearings that ended last March.

Congressman Says Atomic Test At Eniwetok Finished

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — A new atomic test has been completed at the Eniwetok Proving Ground in the Pacific, a member of Congress said tonight.

The individual, a member of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee, said "the test has been finished."

He said he had no immediate information on the exact nature of the test, adding that results hadn't been evaluated yet.

This individual, who declined use of his name, said May 7 was the target date for the main and final test at Eniwetok.

The Atomic Energy Commission would only say, a "test program is underway" at Eniwetok.

A spokesman for the commission made the statement in answer to questions.

However, there was some uncertainty whether the latest series of atomic tests were still proceeding or had been concluded. Congressmen who were scheduled to witness the concluding tests had indicated that before leaving Washington that they expected the final explosion to have occurred by this time.

The commission spokesman said he could say no more than that the test was underway.

The expectation here was that the concluding explosion of the current series would be the biggest nuclear fission blast yet set off.

Truman Warned MacArthur Jan.13 Against Widening War

Now her mother, stricken much later with the same ailment, is at her side.

President Told General Russia "Main Threat"

Letter Is Held Reply To 'No Policy' Charge

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman told Gen. Douglas MacArthur last Jan. 13 that Soviet Russia was the "main threat" and that any spread of the Korean war might involve Japan and Western Europe in a large-scale struggle.

The Chief Executive wrote a letter to the five-star General outlining the aims of the American government in Korea and saying:

"Steps which might in themselves be justified and which might lend some assistance to the campaign in Korea would not be beneficial if they thereby involved Japan or Western Europe in large-scale hostilities.

"x x x In reaching a final decision about Korea, I shall have to give constant thought to the main threat from the Soviet Union and to the need for rapid expansion of our armed forces to meet this great danger."

The letter—in paraphrased form—was read to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees by Secretary of Defense Marshall in the fifth day of his defense of administration policies in Asia.

It was written by the President after Gen. MacArthur had advised Washington that he might have to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea unless he were permitted to bomb Red China, blockade the Red-held coast, and use Chinese Nationalist troops.

Reply To "No Policy" Change

His program was rejected but the Joint Chiefs of Staff prepared on Jan. 12 a list of possible military actions to be taken in certain circumstances and the Truman letter was written the next day to supplement the military views with the political thinking at the time.

MacArthur has said the administration had "no policy" in the Korean conflict except one of endless stalemate—and Marshall produced the letter, with Mr. Truman's approval, as a reply to that charge.

Mr. Truman declared that war moves in Korea must be taken in a manner to bind together the United Nations members, whom he said "we would desperately need to count on as allies in the event the Soviet Union moves against us."

This letter was written against the dark background of a possible evacuation of U. N. forces from Korea in face of the first great Chinese Red offensive.

The President spoke of the possibility of withdrawing entirely from Korea. He said:

"We recognize, of course, that continued resistance might not be militarily possible x x x. In the worst case, it would be important that if we must withdraw from Korea, it be clear to the world that course is forced upon us by military necessity and that we shall not accept the result politically or militarily until the aggression has been rectified."

Saturday Session Scheduled

Marshall testified for almost six hours—the longest questioning he has undergone—and he will return tomorrow at 9 a. m., EST, for an extraordinary Saturday session.

After the hearing, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) told reporters he wanted to find out whether the U. S. government has switched its stand on the fate of Formosa and the entry

French Election Certain; Assembly Votes To End Life

PARIS, Saturday, May 12 (AP)—The French National Assembly voted early today to end its own life July 4, thereby making certain that a general election will be held next month.

The vote for terminating parliament, part of the government's program, was reported unofficially as 361 for to 229 against.

The date for the election is expected to be June 17.

The Assembly's action was the last of a series of votes of confidence which Premier Henri Queuille has demanded in support of his coalition of middle-of-the road parties. Queuille had asked and received eight other such votes in the last three weeks as part of his campaign to change the electoral laws in order to whittle down Communist strength and to push the election date ahead.

Next month's balloting will be the first general election in France since Oct. 13, 1946.

Normally this year's election would have come in the fall. Queuille predicted that if the voting were not held soon, the country would be virtually without a responsible government until the end of the year.

The 186 Communist deputies — largest bloc in the Assembly—continued their efforts to obstruct the Premier's program right to the end. They failed to find an issue on which the cabinet could be defeated, although they missed twice yesterday by only six votes. The Reds are expected to lose their No. 1 political party standing under the new electoral law.

Secretary Marshall Hickenlooper Agree

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Secretary Marshall and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), at odds on many phases of the MacArthur controversy, found one thing they could agree on today — Russian honor.

They were discussing Russia's mutual assistance treaty with China.

Hickenlooper asked whether the Russians would precipitate a third world war "merely on the theory of supporting a treaty obligation which they had, as a matter of honor?"

"Not as a matter of honor, sir," Marshall replied.

Chiang To Congress?

SEATTLE, May 11 (AP)—Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said today he will propose that Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese Nationalist leader, be invited to address a joint sessions of Congress.

Plant Blasts End After Silk Panties And Bras Banned

LA PORTE, Ind., May 11 (AP) — Troubles ranged from shell powder explosions to a sellout of cotton panties here this week.

Kingsbury Ordnance Works officials were pretty sure the little firecracker-like explosions on their shell-loading lines were caused by static electricity. But what was causing that?

Not shoenails, they found, nor buckles, nor hairpins, nor rings.

But one foreman's homework disclosed that women's silk lingerie could generate sparks.

So the order went out to Kingsbury's 1,200 women—bras, panties and slips must be cotton.

That stopped the little blasts, but LaPorte and Michigan City stores ran out of cotton panties. A run on men's shorts even started.

Hungarian Steel Shipment Halted

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 11 (AP)—Cracking down on German shipments of strategic goods to Communist countries, American and German authorities today turned back 4,000 tons of steel rails headed for Hungary.

The action was announced only a few hours after United States senators had demanded that U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy explain why he had not stopped "Russia and her satellites from freely and openly draining war potential materials from West Germany."

The rails—325 carloads—had been legally licensed for export by German authorities. However, they were halted "because the shipment was deemed inadvisable," a U. S. High Commission announcement said. They will be returned to the West German shipper.

Halting the shipment is believed here to signal the opening of an intensified drive to plug the German border leaks through which an estimated $1,000,000,000 worth of strategic goods have slipped behind the iron curtain since World War II.

Korea Vets Medical Benefits Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman today signed a bill giving veterans of the undeclared Korean war all the medical benefits previously granted survivors of other wars.

Congress hurriedly passed the bill yesterday to remedy a legal situation which found Korean veterans denied treatment at veterans' hospitals. Mr. Truman asked for the bill even as Congress was considering it.

Dawson's Denials Of RFC Influence Meet Skepticism

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — White House Aide Donald Dawson today encountered sharp senatorial skepticism as he denied wielding political influence on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, government lending agency.

When Dawson wound up his testimony, he told newsmen that he felt the hearing "clearly demonstrates there has been no impropriety on my part."

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate inquiry committee, disagreed.

"That's only his opinion," Fulbright said. "There's quite a difference of views on what is proper and improper."

Before Dawson left the witness chair, Fulbright told him point-blank that his repeated denials of influence were "a little beyond my belief."

Bluntly, Fulbright told the dapper White House official:

"Whether you sought to do it, whether you intended to do it, you did influence them. You had the power of life and death in the economic sense."

As Dawson concluded his two-day testimony, Fulbright announced that the long-drawn investigation would recess until an indefinite later date.

Committee aides said there was no immediate intention to call William M. Boyle, Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, whose name was figured in testimony about an alleged "web of influence" linked with multi-million dollar RFC loans.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a member of Fulbright's Senate Banking subcommittee, withheld judgment on Dawson's claim of being vindicated.

Allied Forces Camouflaging Key Buildings

Enemy Planes May Back Coming Push

TOKYO, Saturday, May 12. (AP)—Chinese Reds massed troops today in West and Central Korea under cover of man-made smoke screens, one 35 miles long.

Allied front line commanders in the west said they expected the second round of the Communist spring offensive to begin within two weeks.

There was belief that it might be backed by the long withheld Red air force. Allied forces for the first time used camouflage extensively.

Similar smoke screens preceded the first round of the Red drive, which opened April 22. It was stalled 10 days later after the Reds had suffered more than 75,000 casualties.

The longest wall of smoke stretched for 35 miles from Kumhwa to a point north of Inje. The two towns are north of the 38th parallel in Central Korea.

Air observers, however, managed to spot Red troop movements southward in the area, particularly around Hwachon. It is 18 miles southeast of Kumhwa and seven miles north of the 38th parallel.

Another Red force gathered under cover of smoke on the western front about 12 miles south of 38. It was massing southeast of Munsan, a highway town 27 miles northwest of Seoul.

The Reds' fires burned across ridge tops. Smudge pots sent up white blankets.

The Communists appeared to be concentrating their power north of Seoul in the west and north of Chunchon in the center.

Chunchon, a no-man's land town, is seven miles south of the 38th on a highway leading down from Kumhwa and Hwachon. It is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

Allied fliers said they saw Reds moving down the highway toward the western edge of Hwachon reservoir in groups of two, spaced about 50 yards apart.

"They were coming down the road from as far to the north as the pilots could see," a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman told AP Correspondent Robert Eunson.

Two other Red buildup points had been reported Friday. One was at Pupyong, 15 miles northeast of Seoul. The other was near Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

An Allied tank-infantry patrol was set upon by a Red force west of Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul. The Reds hurled hand grenades at the tanks. The Reds hold a mine-rimmed arc north of Uijongbu.

On the eastern front, a Republic of Korea force counterattacked a Red battalion which had punched a hole in the U. N. lines near Inje. The Red battalion was routed.

Inje is in East-Central Korea, four miles north of the 38th parallel and 75 miles northeast of Seoul.

On the east coast, Allied warship guns broke up a Red attack on ROK units south of Kansong, 26 miles north of 38.

Poland Informs U. S. Bishop Padewski Dead

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP)—The Polish Communist government has informed the United States that Bishop Joseph Padewski, an American citizen, died in a Polish prison after four months internment.

Bishop Padewski was a prelate of the Polish National Catholic Church of the United States.

He was arrested January 19, by Polish security police on a charge of violating Polish currency regulations.

1952 GOP Convention To Be Held In Chicago

TULSA, Okla., May 11 (AP)—The Republican National Committee voted 88-11 today to hold its 1952 presidential nomination convention in Chicago the week of July 7.

The approval of Chicago came after Philadelphia had lost a lengthy fight to bring the convention to that city where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was nominated a second time in 1948.

Before the final vote a motion by Fred C. Scribner, Jr., Maine Republican committeeman to hold the convention in Chicago the week of June 23 was voted down 88-9.

Sen. Millikin of Colorado was the main speaker at the committee meeting called principally to pick a convention site and date.

In a fighting political speech Millikin told the Republicans Korea was the last straw and the people are going to throw out the "foul gang" now in office in Washington.

"Our people are through with them. They are going to kick them out of office in 1952 and they would like to see a quicker way of doing it," he said.

He listed what he called efforts of "spurious peacemakers" since World War II, condemning the Democrats and saying they "want to swindle themselves into another term of office as peacemakers."

"By this time close to seventy thousand casualties among our boys in Korea attest to the fact that they lie," he said. "It's their last big lie. They have gone too far. They have irretrievably offended the deepest emotions of our people."

Millikin urged that "true Democrats," veterans and women be rallied to the GOP banner.

It was a throw-the-rascals-out attack that Millikin launched against the Truman administration. His prepared text was studded with such phrases as:

Enthroned evil, imposters, immoral filth, wastrels and economic idiots, betrayers, deceptionists, spurious peacemakers, empty heads and congenital bunglers.

Executions, Fund Scandal Create S. Korean Crisis

TAEGU, Korea, Saturday, May 12 (AP)—A cabinet crisis, brought about by a financial scandal and a mass execution, is threatening the South Korean government while Allied forces battle to defend the republic against the Reds.

There is some informal talk of impeaching Dr. Syngman Rhee, 76-year-old first president of the U. N.-sponsored republic, but he appears strong enough to stay in the saddle.

Rhee fired three cabinet ministers recently as an aftermath of the execution of 187 villagers at Kochang. Charged with Communist sympathies, the villagers were convicted by a military court and shot Feb. 12.

The opposition party, the National Democrats, charged meanwhile that $2,000,000 in defense department funds had disappeared. During an Assembly debate on this matter one Delegate sank his teeth into a colleague's cheek.

In the most recent development, the republic's 82-year-old vice president—Lee See Yung—tried to quit. He said he had no powers under the constitution.

of Red China into the United Nations.

He said Marshall had made it clear he, personally, is opposed to giving Formosa—the island stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists—to the Reds or permitting Communist China to enter the U. N. but Knowland indicated there was doubt about the administration's position.

The Californian wants to know, also, what peace proposals the administration had in mind to be announced by President Truman. Marshall has said that MacArthur's March 24 offer to talk peace with the Red commander had destroyed the chances of any war settlement at that time.

"Obviously the administration must have had some specific peace terms for the negotiation which it claims MacArthur knocked into a cocked hat," Knowland said. He has said he will try to get a copy of these terms from the administration.

Marshall also testified that last January Washington offered to send MacArthur enough small arms for 200,000 to 300,000 South Koreans—after the South Koreans government asked for more weapons.

He said MacArthur was notified there were available 160,000 rifles, 70,000 submachine guns, 150,000 carbines and 8,000 automatic rifles. MacArthur indicated, Marshall added, that the weapons could better be used to arm Japanese police reserves.

Marshall declared that correspondence with MacArthur on this subject had been made public by the White House because the General had indicated in January that "a matter involving foreign policy" prevented more South Koreans from being armed.

Boy Is Arrested For Threatening Vanderbilt's Life

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—A blue-jeaned, 'teen-aged boy was accused today of demanding $10,000 or the life of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, one of the nation's wealthiest race horse owners.

The boy, 15 years old, was arrested last night outside of gate six at Belmont race track, the FBI said, when he showed up to collect the money.

He carried a toy cap pistol.

"I just got an idea," the youngster was quoted by agents. "I wanted money. I don't know what I was going to do with it, though."

The FBI couldn't decide at once what to do with him. He was placed in his parents' custody pending possible court action. His name was not revealed.

Malayan Rubber Prices Tumble

SINGAPORE, May 11 (AP)—Malayan rubber prices tumbled today to their lowest point in six months under the impact of Britain's embargo on rubber shipments to Red China, then recovered slightly.

Traders expected Malaya and the crown colony of Singapore to fall in line within 36 hours with Britain's request that her colonial governments "insure that there shall be no further exports of rubber to China from Malaya or the other British territories involved this year." Nearly all forecast still lower prices.

The market for first grade rubber closed today at the equivalent of 48 U. S. cents a pound, a two-cent drop from Thursday and eight cents below the ceiling fixed by the United States government for its purchases here. Only three months ago, rubber was selling at 78 cents. The Straits dollar is used in Singapore trade. It is valued at 32.75 U. S. cents.

The British request yesterday to stop rubber shipments to China was directed to Malaya, Singapore and Borneo. A Colonial Office spokesman said all three governments will comply "as a matter of course."

Wilson Urges Industry Support Of Controls

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 11 (AP)—The government today made a bid to 90 leaders of industry for support of a two-year extension and tightening of controls over prices, wages and production.

In coming months, Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson reported, civilian goods producers who now find slack demand and overloaded stocks will face an upsurge of buying power and severe shortages of materials.

His address was delivered to a closed meeting here of the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce. Persons attending the three-day meeting at the Homestead Hotel here gave an account to reporters.

Five Filipino Reds Sentenced To Death

MANILA, May 11. (AP)—Death sentences were given today to five leaders of the Philippines Communist Party and a field commander of the Communist-led Huk guerrillas—all convicted of rebellion, murder and arson.

Judge Oscar Castelo imposed the sentences after a six-month trial of 29 defendants. Nine were sentenced to life imprisonment. Eleven got lesser prison terms, and three were acquitted.

Three Girl Hitchhikers Are Jailed After Forcing Love-Making On Man

WESTERLY, R. I., May 11 (AP)—Everett F. Amaral, handsome, curly-haired and 21, told today how three girls "terrified" him with a long bladed knife—and forced him into intimacy with "the short dumpy one."

The three girls, their identity in question, were held in $1,000 bail each, charged with being lewd and lascivious and with disorderly conduct.

Amaral, whose home is in Cranston, described the other two of the amorous trio as "very pretty—one with red hair, the other a brunette."

They were hitchhikers he picked up last night as he headed for fishing at Narragansett pier, he said.

When he stopped to let them out, he told reporters, one of the girls drew the knife and forced him into the back seat.

The "short dumpy one," he said, "jumped on me" while the knife girl held the weapon "almost at my face." The third girl drove the car southward to a lonely road in Charleston, R. I., where he said he was forced to submit to sexual intercourse.

After the compulsory dalliance, said Amaral, the girls drove him to Pawcatuck, Conn.

They stopped there, he said, and sent him into a drugstore to get a bottle of peroxide. They'd decided to become blondes.

Amaral called the police instead.

The girls were booked as "Eileen H. Reposa, Barbara Reposa and Eunice R. Miller." They were arraigned in night court, pleaded innocent and were held for trial May 25.

2nd Armored Division Will Serve In Europe

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The alerting of the Second Armored Division today for service in Europe bolstered hopes that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will have from 12 to 14 ready-to-fight divisions by the end of this year.

Six of these divisions will be American. The First Infantry Division and the constabulary force, which is considered the equivalent of a combat division, are already in Germany. The Fourth Infantry Division is in the final stage of preparation to sail for Europe, nearly one month after it received alert orders at Fort Benning, Ga.

Today the Second Armored, based at Fort Hood, Tex., was notified to be ready for overseas duty.

Plane Crash Kills Eight

ROME, May 11 (AP)—A two-engined Italian military plane crashed in flames on a cluster of houses along the Adriatic coast at Vasto today, killing six persons and injuring eight.

Lad's New Lease On Life Is Short

DENVER, May 11 (AP)—The heart of an 11-year old boy which a physician massaged back to life yesterday stopped beating permanently late today.

Cerebral anoxia—a lack of oxygen to the brain during the two or three minutes his heart stopped—was given as the cause of his death.

The youngster suffered from a clogging of a valve to the pulmonary artery, which doctors said would have killed him in a few years.

The operation to relieve his condition was watched by some 500 medical men by television.

After the operation, the boy's heart stopped beating. The surgeon, Dr. Henry Swan, slashed through the stitches and massaged it back to normal action.

"The operation itself succeeded," he said. "A defective valve, constricted since birth, was opened up to permit proper circulation of blood to the lungs.

"Yet the reaction to heart stimulants was unfavorable. But for that, the child now would be well on the way to recovery."

Doctors said the operation was based on techniques developed by London surgeons.

Arosemena Assumes Panama Presidency

PANAMA, Panama, May 11 (AP)—Alcibiades Arosemena, 66-year-old dairy farmer and former vice president, quitely took over the presidency of strife-ridden Panama today. In four days of turmoil, 14 persons had perished.

The wealthy Arosemena replaces Arnulfo Arias, who was deposed forcibly yesterday in a bloody battle brought on by his resistance to impeachment by the National Assembly.

His uprising crushed by the national police and public resentment against his attempts to seize dictatorial powers, Arias was jailed along with more than 1,000 of his fanatic followers.

The National Assembly ordered him held pending its action, indicating he would face trial—possibly for treason.

In Step At Last?

Is the Administration bringing itself slowly into line with the realities concerning the employment of doubtful characters by the Government of the United States?

President Truman has issued an order that reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of an individual to the government shall bar him from employment. It is significant that it was found necessary to issue such an order.

Hitherto charges of disloyalty had to be proved before the government took steps—and then reluctantly, it frequently seemed—to separate him from his job.

Not long ago the President was completely hostile to moves to comb the red lice from Uncle Sam's hair. When many patriots in and out of Congress were devoting themselves to that effort, the President denounced them for—as he termed it—dragging red herrings across the trail.

The Supreme Court has ruled a man cannot be convicted by association. That is, he may or may not be guilty because he belongs or belonged in the past to an allegedly subversive organization. But that is obviously an asinine attitude to take when government employment is in question.

There have been too many instances of subversives in government employ digging out top secrets and sending them to Russia to take any chances.

There are no subversives among American boys subjected to the agonies of war in Korea. The least the Administration can do is to keep traitors who would sell their country to Russia from holding posts in which they can perpetrate their filthy acts.

Promises And Performances

Under the tempting phrase, "Fair Deal," the American people were promised peace, security and good government in 1948.

By 1950 the blunders of the Democrat Administration had taken us into the Korean War with American casualties now approaching 70,000.

Today the American people have a cheapened dollar. The average American is caught in a three-way rip-tide between unwarranted government spending and deficit financing, mounting cost of living, and climbing taxes. No relief is in sight.

Today the American people have high officials who have received "deep freezes" for their favors. Patronage and influence-peddling has led through the very doors of the White House.

There has been one Republican Congress since 1932. That Congress gave the American people two years of balanced federal budgets. It gave them lower taxes. It authorized a 60-group Air Force. It voted aid for Greece and Turkey. It enacted the Marshall Plan.

The Republican Party is the party of peace with honor, of economy, efficiency, honesty and integrity in government. It is the party devoted to the principle of individual freedom and of ultimate benefit for the average American citizen.

Attrition—Which Way?

The United States has now suffered 65,000 casualties in Korea out of a total of approximately 250,000 troops committed. As General MacArthur says:

"Our losses in ratio to the men committed have already reached staggering proportions. Those nations with but token forces in ratio to our own calmly advocate no deviation from the present policy of limited war."

A 25 per cent loss of troops through death, wounds and capture is indeed staggering. It is slight comfort to be told that the casualties suffered by the Red Chinese are much greater. Applicable to this point is the story of the old Chinese during the Japanese invasion of China. Told that Chinese losses were 40 to one Japanese, he replied, "Pretty soon no Japanese left."

Russia's policy is to continue sacrificing Chinese manpower, in the knowledge that as the war drags on it will drain away American manpower and material. Russia suffers no losses except in a limited commitment of weapons.

With one of four American troops casualties, attrition assumes a sad meaning for the brave youths fighting under handicaps laid down for them by the international politicians.

Unhappy Farmers

The Soviet Union is plastered with statues and paintings of workers on collective farms, all of whom smile with utter happiness, while clutching a sickle in one hand, a bundle of wheat or a basket of fruit under the other arm.

Out of life on a collective farm, an opera was written, staged and performed at the Bolshoi Theater, Moscow, with Premier Stalin and several members of the Politburo in attendance. All concerned were bathed in the euphoria of artistic accomplishment until Pravda denounced the production as "false."

Not enough joy in the opera, it seems. So Alexander V. Solodovnikov, director of the Bolshoi, has been discharged, while the Soviet Council of Ministers designates his successor. Pravda denounces the composer, the librettists, the stage designers—in fact, all who had a part in this unfortunate operatic production.

The Bolshoi Theater in Moscow, built in 1854, was formerly one of the world's great theaters. Now its director has been fired, its artistic standards assailed, its staff demoralized. Artistic endeavor in the Soviet is a precarious undertaking.

Insurance For Soldiers

The President has signed a bill which will provide $10,000 worth of insurance at government expense to all members of the armed forces. This is to replace the National Service Life Insurance which was held by the men who served in World War II.

A clause in the new insurance program provides that its protection be made retroactive and include men killed since the start of the Korean fighting last June. The government is recognizing a financial responsibility to the men who fight and to their families by taking this action.

Most of the men who held National Service Life Insurance during World War II have received dividend payments which amount to a refund of a large part of the money they had paid. The new program, which will assure men fighting for their country that their loved ones will get some compensation if misfortune comes, is one official gesture of appreciation for the sacrifices which service men make.

How To Keep Well

Adolescent Skin

PIMPLES (acne vulgaris) go hand in hand with adolescence. Most parents have encountered this problem and realize that the condition will disappear in time. The younger generation is not so certain and often suffers from the cruel remarks of companions. Now and then feelings of inferiority are engendered by the eruption. Many acne victims will grasp at any straw for relief except to give up the rich food that usually aggravates the disorder.

To the best of our knowledge the glandular changes associated with puberty encourage oiliness of the skin. When this grease is not removed it acts as a dirt catcher and, with the dead skin cells, forms plugs that obstruct the mouths of the oil secreting glands. The outcome is a comedone, or blackhead. If this in turn in unattended the plug produces irritation and if secondary infection occurs the lesion that follows is the pimple.

The victim has no difficulty disguising one or two but the same cannot be said when they cover the face. Acne has a tendency to come and go and with repetition the results are likely to be scarring and pitting. But this aftermath is not common, considering the millions who develop the outbreak and the few who reach adulthood permanently disfigured.

Treatment varies with the severity of the disorder but most bobby soxers will be able to keep the disturbance under control by maintaining good general health. Adequate rest and exercise are of value; out of door activities at this time of the year often do wonders. The sun too is helpful. Medical abnormalities such as anemia, glandular disorders, and disturbances of the gastrointestinal tract require attention. A special diet is required only when strict supervision is needed. The majority will improve when they avoid chocolate, pastries, and nuts as well as fried and highly seasoned dishes. Alcohol is taboo. In some instances foods that contain iodine and bromine must be eliminated from the meals; these include sea food, spinich, cabbage, artichoke, wheat bread, and cake. In a few, it is necessary to restrict milk. Medications containing bromides and iodides often make acne worse.

Cleanliness is more important than all of the salves in the world. All traces of cosmetics must be removed at bedtime. The combination of soap and water has no peer for cleaning and freeing the tissues from dirt and excess oil. Hot water should be used first to facilitate drainage. This is followed by a cold rinse because of its astringent effect. Most of the medicines are applied at bedtime after the hot and cold water ritual. As a rule they contain sulfur, resorcinol, or salicylic acid which are mildly irritating and have a tendency to loosen the surface cells. During the day the skin can be camouflaged with a powder containing resorcin or sulfur.

Most adolescents are tempted to squeeze blackheads or utilize special extractors. There is nothing wrong with these procedures when done properly but they invite infection and now and then encourage scar formation, particularly when performed too vehemently or with dirty hands. Gentleness and cleanliness must be the rule. If the acne sufferer can afford it, an expert is preferred.

TABLET OR HYPO

B. H. writes: Is vitamin B12 of value in tablet form or must it be given hypodermically?

REPLY

Vitamin B12 is a marvelous product but its usefulness is limited. It probably is of value only in the treatment of macrocytic anemias such as that associated with pernicious anemia. In this disease, the product is about 75 to 100 times more potent hypodermically than by mouth, because victims of this type of anemia lack normal gastric juice which is essential for absorption of the vitamin. Research continues on oral preparations which sometimes are combined with gastric juice, duodenum extract, or folic acid.

DIETING

W. P. writes: Is it safe for an overweight person on an ulcer diet to reduce?

REPLY

Yes, but it may require a specially prepared diet.

CLIMATE HELPS

W. T. writes: Would living in a mild climate be of any value to an older person with arteriosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Extremes in weather tax the circulatory system.

CLOTH CHEWER

Mrs. D. writes: This may sound silly to you but it is serious to me. My 8 year old daughter has started chewing on material — her dress or gloves, the sheet at night, or the napkin during meals. How can I break her of this bad habit?

REPLY

This practice, known as pica, usually is temporary and disappears by itself. If the habit persists, however, it indicates emotional immaturity and should be treated accordingly.

It Pays To Have Influential Friends

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

UN Debates Arms Boycott Of Red China; Diplomatic Pussyfooting Led To Past Wars; MacArthur Permitted Japanese Exports To Chinese Communists

WASHINGTON—Most important diplomatic debate of the Korean War has been going on backstage at the United Nations — namely, an arms boycott of Red China.

So far our UN allies haven't got around to voting to ban arms, let alone an economic embargo. However, it remains a fact that this is one of the most important steps to be taken against any aggressor.

Furthermore there is a long history of diplomatic pussyfooting regarding this by our supposedly good friends—pussyfooting that eventually has landed them in war. Here is some case history:

Pussyfoot No. 1—Was when the British undercut us in 1931 when Japan first invaded Manchuria. Issues almost identical to the Korean aggression were involved in Manchuria, and the late secretary of State Henry L. Stimson saw them clearly. He saw that Japan was sowing the first wild oats of aggression, just as Russia is today, and that if she got away with one aggressive bite there would be more.

But Stimson never could get the British, who had more at stake than we, to cooperate. When U. S. Ambassador Cameron Forbes would deliver a note of protest, the British ambassador did likewise — then dropped round to the Japanese Foreign Office an hour or two later to explain that Britain's note was merely to please the Americans and not to be taken seriously.

Pussyfoot No. 2—Was when President Roosevelt tried to organize an economic blockade of Japan in 1936 in order to stop further aggression against China. By this time the British realized their 1931 mistake and went along with us. But Roosevelt could not get the support of other European powers. Hitler and Mussolini were too strong by that time, and he also faced the private opposition of Cordell Hull.

Pussyfooting No. 3—Came when Mussolini invaded helpless Ethiopia. This was one of the ccrudest cases of aggression the modern world has seen, and the tottering League of Nations consciously tried to act. But although an economic blockade was voted for the first time in history, two things made it unsuccessful.

One was the exclusion of oil. The big American and British oil companies pulled backstage wires, managed to scare British and American diplomats into permitting the continued shipment of oil to Mussolini. Without oil, his fleet would have been paralyzed and his trucks could not have moved. But we pussyfooted.

Furthermore, the big powers, after voting the embargo, refused to use their navies to back it up. It became a pitiful, pathetic joke.

Pussyfoot No. 4—This is taking place right now in regard to Red China, an obvious, wanton aggressor in Korea. While the British are the worst pussyfooters, we in the U. S. A., including General MacArthur himself, have pulled our punches.

MacArthur, for instance, has permitted a steady driblet of strategic materials to flow into Red China from Japan. From July to October, 1950, he permitted $8,106,000 in metals, machinery and textiles to leave Japan for China. From October to January, Jap exports to the Communists increased to $11,100,000. Since MacArthur controlled all Jap exports, this could have been stopped.

However, the flow of British goods entering China through Hong Kong is the most shocking scandal of the entire Korean War. While American lives are being snuffed out, British millionaires are being made overnight.

Yet the State Department has taken no tough steps, such as a threat to cut off U. S. economic aid to Britain, as a means of stopping this trade. The British have blocked the actual flow of arms to China, but in these days of modern warfare, it's strategic materials that really count.

Merry-Go-Round

Robert Mack, a Senate elevator operator, literally stepped into Senator Kefauver's shoes the other day. The Tennessee crimebuster worked so late that he had to dress for dinner in his office, bolted out the door wearing dinner dress, but brown shoes. In the elevator he noticed his mistake, traded shoes with Mack, who had on black shoes, and got to dinner on time. . . . Congratulations to Ira Hirschmann and his radio station WABF in New York for winning the Peabody award for good music. First time an FM station was ever so recognized. . . . Something peculiar has happened regarding Senator Gillette's probe of ex-Lt. Gov. Joe Hanley of New York and the money he raised to pay off alleged debts in Iowa. Gillette's investigators could find no trace of the debts, but now the Iowa Senator seems inclined to drop the entire probe. . . . Worth-while reading: Jake Spolansky's new book: "The Communist Trail in America," written by a man who knows what he's talking about. . . . Senator Butler, the new GOP solon from Maryland by courtesy of the Chicago Tribune's local mouthpiece, is timidly trying to be independent of those who elected him. He's replacing Frank Smith, the Washington Times-Herald editorial writer whom the Tribune crowd appointed as Butler's administrative assistant.

Mailbag

Corporal Sam Hahn, Los Angeles —While the vote on Gen. Billy Mitchell's court martial was secret, Mitchell himself was convinced that General MacArthur voted for his conviction. Best account of the court martial was in Mitchell's memoirs, written by Emile Gauvreau, as follows: "I remember MacArthur lowering his eyes and turning his face away. Others on the trial board who had been my friends, bowed their heads as they sat, not in judgment, but as marionettes. . . . MacArthur surely could not be part of this! But there he was, his features as cold as carved stone. . . . Perhaps by this time, MacArthur can see it all with an open mind." Mitchell was court martialed for the same general charge for which MacArthur was relieved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Ten days to two weeks elapsed between the receipt by General MacArthur of two important messages from Washington —one dated January 12 and the other January 13—and this accounts in part for the misleading nature of some of the headlines in the last 24 hours as well as some of the testimony just given at the Senate hearings.

The January 12 message came to General MacArthur at Tokyo by mail. It outlined the four recommendations of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff that were made public last week. Contrary to the erroneous impression given in many news dispatches and in part by Secretary Marshall himself, the four recommendations were not based altogether on the assumption that our forces in Korea would be evacuated. The recommendations stated that a naval blockade was to be imposed "as soon as our position in Korea was stabilized or when we have evacuated Korea." The other three recommendations used the language "prepare now" and "remove now" and referred not only to the use of Nationalist troops but to the removal of restrictions against air reconnaissance of China coastal areas and Manchuria.

Had Exchanged Messages

When General MacArthur got that message of January 12 late in January, he had already exchanged on January 13 messages with President Truman concerning the all-important problem of evacuation. The UN troops were hard pressed. The President specifically said his message was not a "directive" but was sent for information purposes. It outlined the difficulties and declared that resistance should be maintained. It came in answer to a request from General MacArthur for instructions.

When the message came, Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the Joint Chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with Genearl MacArthur and the senior members of his staff. Two views developed in the discussion as to what the President's message meant. One, which was held by General MacArthur, was that evacuation was not to be ordered. This view was shared by General Vandenberg. But General Collins is reported to have expressed the opinion that the President meant for UN forces to hold on for a brief period and then withdraw under enemy pressure.

The message indicated that, if UN troops were driven back to the beachhead and did not voluntarily withdraw, it would serve a good political purpose, the presumption being that America could then make effective representations to the UN members about the importance of carrying out subsequent punitive measures in other areas.

General MacArthur, however, interpreted the message to mean that there would be no evacuation whatsoever, and he told his colleagues that, unless instructed otherwise, that would be his course. At no time did General MacArthur advise evacuation— in fact, he stated vehemently his views against it and pointed out that such a step might imperil the security of Japan.

Not A Modification

It is, therefore, incorrect to give the impression, as so many newspaper dispatches did, that the January 13 message was a clarification of the January 12 message or that it was intended as a modification of the military policy previously laid down in the 16 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs, four of which were revealed by General MacArthur in his address to Congress.

The whole point surrounding the January 12 message is that the Administration apparently challenged General MacArthur's statement in his address to Congress that his views on the four main points had been shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs. Nothing in the record to date contradicts the truth of the General's assertion.

In fact, the January 13 message from President Truman told General MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your leadership." Ten days later when the January 12 message arrived, the issue of evacuation had been settled and it had been agreed that UN forces would stay in Korea. So the General interpreted the January 12 recommendations as still the view of the Joint Chiefs.

The whole episode illustrates once more the bad liaison between Washington and Tokyo, which is reminiscent of what happened just before Pearl Harbor was attacked. Certainly there is still a lack of coordination, and apparently the top officials do not know what the officers lower down are doing about delivering messages to important commanders in the field. A serious catastrophe resulted in 1941 from this kind of confusing setup and apparently it has not been cured yet.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our China Policy

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur's testimony on China bears out completely what has been said in this column regularly since 1943, namely, that the errors in our handling of China have been a renunciation of our traditional policy.

General MacArthur said:

"It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century."

I think that we can go further than that. We have had a continuous policy of upholding the territorial and administrative integrity of China. This policy saved China from becoming a colony; it limited British, Russian and Japanese aggression in China up to 1931. Then it failed to be effective.

The most important document in connection with this policy is a circular letter sent to the powers by John Hay, Secretary of State, in 1899. This is generally referred to as "The Open Door Policy" and has had the weight in Asia of the Monroe Doctrine for the Americas.

The essence of this document is in these paragraphs:

"The President (of the United States) . . . understands it to be the settled policy and purpose of Great Britain not to use any privileges which may be granted to it in China as a means of excluding any commercial rivals, and that freedom of trade for it in that empire means freedom of trade for all the world alike. Her (Britannic) Majesty's government, while conceding by formal agreements with Germany and Russia the possession of 'spheres of influence or interest' in China, in which they are to enjoy special rights and privileges, particularly in respect to railroads and mining enterprises, has at the same time sought to maintain what is commonly called the 'Open Door' policy . . .

"While the Government of the United States will in no way commit itself to any recognition of the exclusive rights of any power within or control over any portion of the Chinese empire . . . it cannot conceal its apprehensions that there is danger of complications arising between the treaty powers which may imperil the rights insured to the United States by its treaties with China."

Further, John Hay wrote:

"It is the sincere desire of my government that the interests of its citizens may not be prejudiced through exclusive treatment by any of the controlled powers within their respective 'spheres of interest' in China and it hopes to retain there an open market for all the world's commerce, remove dangerous sources of international irritation, and thereby hasten united action of the powers at Peking to promote administrative reforms so greatly needed for strengthening the imperial government and maintaining the integrity of China, in which it believes the whole Western world is alike concerned . . ."

The Open Door policy was aimed at Russia, which was then engaged in the conquest of Manchuria. This issue came to a head during the Boxer Rebellion and John Hay on July 3, 1900, sent another note which read:

". . . We adhere to the policy initiated by us in 1857, of peace with the Chinese nation, of furtherance of lawful commerce, and of protection of lives and property of our citizens by all means guaranteed under extraterritorial treaty rights and by the law of nations. . . . The policy of the Government of the United States is to . . . bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese empire."

It is not possible here to go into all the details of the attempts of Russia to steal Manchuria — all of which were thwarted by the United States. Mention need only be made of the Washington Conference (1921) presided over by Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, at which China's integrity was guaranteed by the then nine principal powers, the United States, Belgium, Great Britain, China, France, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, and Portugal. Russia was not invited to the conference.

This policy the United States reiterated at Cairo (1943) but renounced at Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945). Instead, the United States facilitated the conquest of China by Soviet Russia.

Two Questions

By MARK SULLIVAN

AT ISSUE in the great debate are two questions. One is in the area of purpose, objective —for what purpose do our troops fight in Korea, and what is the best method for attaining that purpose? It is about this that Gen. MacArthur and President Truman differ.

The other question deals with the reason our troops are in Korea, how did it come about that they are there? A broad and obvious answer is that it came about through the fall of China to Russian communism. Associated with this is a question about whether and to what extent the Truman Administration policy about China contributed to the fall. As to this there is light in a sentence which Secretary of Defense Marshall spoke in the Senate committee hearings last Tuesday. What he said had the convincingness of personal experience.

In 1945 there was civil strife in China, the long-existing Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek was under attack by a minority group. The minority group was described by persons who sympathized with it as "agrarian reformers." Those who opposed it held that it or those dominant in it were Communist. Which was the correct designation goes to the heart of the Truman Administration policy about China.

Marshall Followed Direction

To bring about truce between the two groups, President Truman, in December, 1945, sent Marshall to China as his special representative. He remained in China for a year. It was in the light of this experience that he answered a question by Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire in the Senate committe hearings. Sen. Bridges' question included a statement that "many of the officials of the State Department at that time were saying that the Chinese Communists were merely agrarian reformers." To this Secretary Marshall replied ". . . When I got up to China and looked from the very start . . . there was no doubt that the leadership of this group was Marxist Communists, and so stated in my presence, and insisted in my presence, that they were." This negates the idea that the group were agrarian reformers.

Knowing this, Marshall nevertheless followed the direction he had received from Washington. He urged Chiang Kai-shek to take the Communist-dominated group into an integrated or coalition government. He could make no progress. But the action was noted to the Chinese people and the world that the United States no longer supported the Chiang Kai-shek government as it had during the war. The withdrawal of support was literal, the military and economic aid we had been giving the Nationalist government was suspended. The whole of our attitude and actions was destructive to Chiang Kai-shek's government and gave encouragement to the Communist group. It progressed from step to step and in 1949 became the Communist government of China which now makes war on us.

Intended To Mislead

Throughout all this there remains enigma. Who was it, in the Administration or the State Department or having influence in the situation that made the policy toward China and what were the reasons for the course we took? The enigma is increased by the fact that the leaders of the Communist group hated and reviled the United States. This condition was recited by Secretary Marshall in 1947, in an official report he wrote after he had returned from China. Speaking of propaganda put out at that time by the Chinese Communist leaders he said: "I wish to say to the American people that in the deliberate misrepresentation and abuse of . . . our government this propaganda has been without regard for the truth . . . and has given plain evidence of a determined purpose to mislead the Chinese people and the world and to arouse a bitter hatred of Americans."

Reasons and justifications for our China policy have been put forward, some of them officially, and in the main ex post facto. One was that there was inefficiency and corruption within the Nationalist government, that it was destined to fall, that taking over by the Communists was inevitable. Based on this, the theory was that it would be wise for the United States to be friendly toward the Communist group and thus keep them from becoming a satellite of Russia. Of the vanity of that theory, the proof is now taking place in Korea.

The fall of China to communism is one of the great disasters of history, with the train of consequences hardly more than beginning. It is impossible that such a tragedy to us should pass without searching inquiry into the causes. These are infinitely far-reaching and much evidence is already in and more is likely to emerge from the present Senate committee hearings. While these were set off by President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, later hearings are likely to go deep into the history of the Truman Administration policy about China and the Far East.

Here are hair-glamorizing tricks to help you look your loveliest on special occasions between hair sets!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE quickest way to increase your after-five glamor is by your hair style. It is a snap to do, no matter how inexpert you are at arranging your tresses. As the models will tell you, awkwardness with hair easily can be put to flight with just a few tricks and plenty of determination.

Quick Glamor

The very next time you are caught between sets and want your hair to appear freshly set, try one of the following methods and you'll be sure of accomplishing this coup: If your hair is dry or normal, brush it until every strand is separated. Then rub a sparing amount of pompade or brilliantine between your palms and work it well into your scalp with your finger tips. Next, shine the surface lengths of hair with your palms, as if you were polishing a table. Now, with as few strokes and as little fussing as possible, brush your waves and curls into place.

Is your hair oily? Using a clean piece of cotton, rub your scalp with one of the new hair fresheners or a tonic for your type of hair. Lacking either of these, use a light cologne. Be careful not to disarrange your hair more than absolutely necessary. Try to avoid dampening your waves and curls. Let the lotion dry undisturbed. Then "squeeze" your head for a second or two with a dry, clean, absorbent towel to take up surface oil. Next, brush your hair with long, even strokes that start at the scalp and move down to the ends of your hair. Lastly, arrange your hair with the brush.

The results of these home techniques will be most gratifying. For a glamor fillip on an extra-special evening, make an ornament for your hair, using one of these Powers Girl ideas:

For a chignon arrangement, clip a long spray of ivy, polish its leaves and wreath it around your knot; wire magnolia, lemon or gardenia leaves into a fan to tuck behind your ear; twine multi-colored velvet ribbons into your knot as you arrange it.

For short hair, make a chignon of seasonal fresh or artificial flowers and secure it behind your ears with grip combs; clip pastel wings at your temples; stud your head with tiny bows, flowers or leaves attached to invisible hairpins.

Originate a trick or two of your own—then bask in the compliments that come your way!

A Frank Statement from A&P about BREAD

Almost Any Loaf of Bread You Buy Today Is a Good Loaf of Bread

Today's bread — made from enriched flour — is one of the best and least expensive sources of food energy you can buy. But bear in mind before you buy, that all breads are not the same. Quality of ingredients . . . baking methods . . . nutritional value are all vital factors you should know about in order to make the best choice for you and your family. It's smart to pick and choose when you buy bread.

A&P's MARVEL Bread Is Unsurpassed By Any Other Bread Among America's 10 Leading Brands

Unsurpassed for Flavor . . . because Marvel's specially rich formula calls for more expensive flour and the best quality ingredients obtainable.

MacARTHUR —MAN OF ACTION

By FRANK KELLEY and CORNELIUS RYAN

9. MacArthur and the Russians

The three-power conference at Yalta early in 1945, "marked the high tide of British, Russian and American cooperation on the war and the post-war settlement." So said the late Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., then Secretary of State. Many American newspapers echoed him. And that was understandable. East and West had shed their blood against Hitler. We were comrades at arms; we would never be comrades in arms.

An intended song that was never fully written or performed at one of the recent Gridiron Dinners in Washington would have had the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, cigaret-holder and all, on the stage and phrasing these opening lyrics to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart":

Yalta, Yalta, Yalta,
Winston, Joe and I
Yalta, Yalta, Yalta
Just a Russian lull-a-bye!

That, of course, was a hindsight view—but rather acute—of the situation that the United States and Great Britain handed to Douglas MacArthur and in the emotional flush of victory.

In 1943 Stalin said Russia would go to war against Japan. He said so to Cordell Hull, then Secretary of State. He said the same thing to President Roosevelt and to Winston Churchill at Teheran. A year later he repeated it to Churchill, W Averell Harriman, and others. Three months after Germany's defeat, said Stalin, Russia would be in against Japan . . . provided there had been an agreement with China.

Not until the Yalta talks were half over did Stettinius learn at second hand from Harriman and from Harry Hopkins—in effect the "number-two President"—that Russia's entry into the Japanese war had even been discussed. Stettinius wrote that he then asked President Roosevelt whether there was anything that the State Department should pursue about the Japanese question. President Roosevelt said it was primarily a military matter.

The next thing that the Secretary of State knew, the Yalta agreement was out. Russia agreed to enter the war against Japan on several conditions.

Russian Benefits

The status quo in Outer Mongolia was to be preserved—to Russia's advantage.

Avenging the Russian defeat at Japan's hands in 1904, Russia would get Sakhalin, Dairen, Port Arthur, and effective control over the Chinese-Eastern and South Manchurian railroad.

Russia would also get the Kuril islands, pointed like a dagger at the heart of Japan.

The Yalta bargain on Japan was secret—top secret. It was rushed to Washington and put into President Roosevelt's personal safe. Stettinius never saw it. It may prove to have been the greatest single argument against secret covenants secretly arrived at. Not even the Chinese were told about it; but, then, they were always sort of a fifth wheel among the "Big Five."

Mr. Stettinius has made it clear that the Yalta deal on Japan was dictated by military considerations. Secretary of War Stimson related that the United States would have thrown 5,000,000 men, soldiers, sailors, and airmen, against Japan in the final invasion and fully expected casualties on the order of 1,000,000. Hence any help was welcome.

A few months later Russia hedged on those parts of the Yalta agreement that related to the Balkans. Our military again advised patience, wrote Mr. Stettinius, lest Russia's entry against Japan be endangered. Japan was believed to be very strong in Manchuria, where Russian troops would engage the Japanese, yet at Yalta, China was to keep Manchuria. Mr. Stettinius says that the President did not agreed to after Yalta, by American nor did he agree to Russia's entry into Northern Korea. "Actually," Mr. Stettinius wrote, "Russian entrance into Northern Korea was agree dto after Yalta, by American military authorities as part of the taking of the surrender of Japanese troops."

The Russians bagged upwards of 400,000 Japanese troops in Korea and Manchuria, many of them in crack units that had been ready for a tough fight against the Reds when Hirohito figuratively blew the whistle that ended the war.

And the issue of the Jap prisoners of war was to become one of the stumbling blocks to any cooperation between Douglas MacArthur and the Russians in the occupation of Japan.

MacArthur was under no illusions about the Reds when he became supreme commander for the Allies. Just as he used to talk during World War I of "the Boche," he now began to talk of "the Muscovite bulging his muscles and lusting for power." No doubt he had also heard of the reports that there had been sharp words between Foreign Secretary Molotov and Averell Harriman over MacArthur's projected appointment. The official Russian news agency, Tass, found it necessary to deny this and said that Russia favored a control council for Japan made up of Russian, American, Chinese, and British representatives with an American as permanent chairman. Stalin is reported to have reminded Harriman that if the United States had an overriding interest in Japan, it was parallel to Soviet interest in the Balkan states.

The Russians accepted MacArthur, but they flatly refused to send any occupation troops to Japan because they would have been subject to his over-all authority. They tried hard to send a force with a Russian general as their only boss, but it did not work.

MacArthur made it plain, too, that the Allied Council for Japan and the Far Eastern Commission in Washington were going to be purely advisory to him. His headquarters had not been kept informed in advance of the setting up of these agencies and of the exact limits of their jurisdiction, and it was understandable that MacArthur, through a spokesman, put out word in Tokyo that if he wasn't going to be the Supreme Commander in fact as well as in name, he was going to "quit and go home." MacArthur had no intention of sitting around Tokyo as a super military policeman while someone else, presumably diplomats in striped pants sent him orders.

MacArthur kept the council busy and in its place. Its sessions were held at a round, well-polished table in the Meiji Building, not far from the Dai Ichi Building in which he had his own headquarters. The council met about twice a month for an all-day session that was interrupted only for lunch.

At the fifth council session in Tokyo, MacArthur, playing things expertly by ear, threw the members into a tizzy by suddenly asking their opinion on urgent problems. MacArthur would continue to seek the council's advice by laying important matters before them "in a growing number if this does not overburden the council." These 17 items were a terrible strain on the redheaded interpreter who served the Russian delegate.

The top Russian on the council was Lt.-Gen. Derevyanko. He was a great needler of MacArthur when he could get close to the General. But MacArthur caught his beautifully one day: American military policemen picked up the Russian for reckless driving. Derevyanko was released when his identity was established, but in Russian fashion he rushed a demand to MacArthur for an apology. MacArthur asked the M. P. "Was the Russian violating the law?"

"Yes, sir!" replied the M. P.

"Then you can tell him," declared MacArthur, "there will be no apology."

Derevyanko is said to have asked: "Did MacArthur say that?" He was assured. Slapping his leg, the Russian roared gleefully:

"What a man!"

From time to time the Far Eastern Commission in Washington with 11 members, not four as in Tokyo, sitting around the table—would respectfully ask MacArthur to send a liaison officer from his command. This, said MacArthur could not be done because the supreme commander "has given his personal attention to this question and there is no officer in a position to express in detail his views."

At one point, the Far Eastern Commission stated publicly that there was "no effort, either by the Far Eastern Commission or the United States government, to take issue with Gen. MacArthur.

Russian Embassy Grows

The Russian Embassy was quite a place. Derevyanko arrived late in 1945 with a nominal staff of 60. This grew to 83 within a month. Within a year, there were 450 Russians at the Embassy. This was just about four times as many American officials as occupy the United States Embassy today; it was about the same number of officials the Russians maintain within the United States today, ostensibly diplomats most of them engaged in military and commercial espionage, in propaganda work, and in contacting members of the Communist "underground," who are kept supplied with dollars and ideas. (In contrast, too, the British started off with a staff of 20 in Tokyo and hardly ever went over 35).

MacArthur, in dealing with Russians, was unlikely to forget this. In Japan, and even at the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow in December, 1945, the Russians ran off a film entitled "Defeat of Japan." Naturally, it showed that Russia had won the war in the Pacific single-handed. Worst of all, the end of the film showed a Russian general on the Missouri accepting the Japanese surrender aboard an unidentified battle ship. MacArthur, Halsey, Wainwright and the other "brass" in the background had been carefully "blacked out" by an expert Soviet film technician who must have had to do it frame by frame on the celluloid.

"Well," remarked one of the Americans who saw the newsreel in Moscow, "our hosts have done what no one else could—crowded Douglas MacArthur into the wings."

Derevyanko would ask, "How about the progress in destruction of Japanese armaments and war materiel?" MacArthur always had an answer for that one. "A complete report is impossible because five letters to the Russian delegate asking for information on the disposition of Japanese troops and equipment in Russian-occupied areas have gone unanswered."

The Russians, of course, were indoctrinating their Japanese captives and sending them back to Japan piecemeal as excellent propagandists. The captured Japanese equipment is to some extent being used against us in Korea today.

In January, 1950, the Russians walked out of the council rather than discuss the fate of the Japanese prisoners of war. The American delegate, William J. Sebald, who by then had reploced the late Mr Atcheson read a note that Secretary of State Dean Acheson had just handed to the Russian Ambassador in Washington.

Still Useful Issue

The note asked Moscow to agree to an impartial inquiry into the fate of the prisoners of war. It recalled that Tass, the Soviet news agency, had reported in May, 1949, that only 95,000 Japanese remained in Russian hands. It cited official Japanese government figures that 376,929 Japanese soldiers were still in Russian areas. There the matter rests. It is still a useful issue to raise in Japan from time to time against the Russians.

MacArthur really blew his top against the Rusisans when Derevyanko, on orders from Moscow wrote a letter charging MacArthur with sitting idly by while the Japanese government balked democratization of the country and was crushing human rights by police brutality. This was on June 13, 1949—one Jap had been killed in small riots around Tokyo city hall.

Departing from his usual practice of ignoring Derevyanko's letters as propaganda, MacArthur accused Russia of inciting disorder and violence in otherwise peaceful Japan. He called Derevyanko's letter "thorough duplicity" and "inconsistent demagoguery."

Derevyanko played an endless variety of critical themes against the occupation. He assailed the land reform bill. He claimed that the Americans were secretly reviving the Japanese army by expanding the police force. He demanded that MacArthur round up and destroy all Fascist books and pamphlets in Japan.

But even Derevyanko grudgingly admitted that the had "no doubt that there is some success in the progress of the democratization of Japan."

Derevyanko slammed in 22 recommendations on the handling of Japanese labor. MacArthur batted the mall back. "We are not pledged," he said, "to further communism in Japan."

He was solidly backed by Secretary of State Acheson.

In June of this year MacArthur rammed home one more shot: he banned the Red paper Akahata for 30 days for its sinister propaganda. In July with the Korean conflict going full blast he told the Japanese government to maintain the ban indefinitely.

Last January's elections to the Diet were, in MacArthur's words, "a contest between MacArthur and Stalin." MacArthur won.

87 Boy Scouts Are Advanced By Potomac Council

Troop Membership Shows An Increase

Eighty-seven members of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America received advancements during the first quarter of 1951, the district advancement committee's report at the last executive board meeting of the council showed. In addition 73 merit badges also were awarded council scouts during the period, Victor D. Heisey, chairman of the committee, revealed.

This number was 8.3 per cent of the 1,042 members of the Boy Scout Council now actively participating in 44 troops and 19 cub packs in the area.

City Has 423 Scouts

Cumberland has 423 scouts of which 39 received advancements during the quarter just passed. Thirteen merit badges also were granted to Cumberland scouts, the report showed.

Sixty-four of the advancements were to Second Class scouts, 16 to First Class, six to Star and one Life. No Eagle scouts were named during the three-months period.

Altogether the council has 606 Tenderfoot scouts, 339 second class, 97 first class and above. These 1,042 boys are in Boy Scout and Explorer troops while in addition there are 19 cub packs with 485 members.

The boy scouts and explorers are divided according to age with all youths over 14 years becoming explorers. Those 11 to 13 are classified boy scouts and all between 9 and 11 are cubs.

58 Per Cent Tenderfoot

Fifty-eight per cent of the scouts and explorers are tenderfoot class, 33 per cent are second class and 9 per cent are first class and above.

The March membership report also noted that scouting in the council has increased greatly in the past year. There were 14 cub packs in March 1950 with 415 members. There are now 19 packs and 485 members. In March of last year there were 35 troops in the council with 867 participants as compared with 44 now and 1,042.

Cumberland and Mountain districts of the council showed the largest increase with the former having a jump of 86 scouts from 337 last year to 423 now. The Mountain district jumped from 61 to 145 over the same period.

Altold, there are six districts in the council including Tri-Towns New Creek, Deep Creek and South Branch in addition to Cumberland and Mountain districts.

New Creek cub packs had the greatest increase in the council during the past year. Two new packs have been formed there in the 12 months' period with 42 additional members. The New Creek scout and explorer total dropped from 98 in 1950 to 89 in 1951.

Tri-Towns district has the second largest number of scouts other than Cumberland with 230 members and 53 cubs.

In the New Creek district there is a Senior Explorer group exclusive of all other scout troops and has 19 members. It is sponsored by the Grace Methodist Church of Keyser, W. Va., which is the only organization to sponsor all three branches of the scouting orgfianization, cubs, boy scouts and explorers scouts.

A new troop also has been added to the Tri-Towns district sponsored by Beryl, W. Va., Presbyterian Church. Formed last month the group has 12 members and is numbered Troop No. 67.

The Scoutmaster is John W. Whisner, assistant, Ralph W. Moyer, chairman of the troop committee, J. W. Fasenbaker, and troop committeemen are Marshall E. Bothwell and Charles Metcalf.

Officials Visit Training School

High school principals and supervisors in the Allegany County public school system have returned from a one-day visit at the Maryland Training School for Boys at Loch Raven, where they learned at first hand what is being offered there and what improvements still are needed.

The school officials left Cumberland early Thursday morning and returned that night.

Apparently, they were in rather general agreement that the school, although overcrowded, is kept clean and the boys are well fed. More than 400 Maryland boys are now being kept at the school, including 17 from Allegany County.

All of the Allegany County boys were committed there from Juvenile Court. None was sent there directly by school officials.

Most of the officials who visited Loch Raven seemed to feel that the state probably could effectively spend more money to give Superintendent Elbert L. Fletcher better personnel in operating the school. They believe that the vocational education program could stand much improvement.

Ferrier Holds 3-Stroke Edge In Greenbrier

Snead's 134 Is 2nd At The Halfway Mark

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Jim Ferrier of San Francisco pulled away to a three-stroke lead at the half-way point of the 72-hole Greenbrier Open today by finishing with a burst of three straight birdies.

He slowed down compared to yesterday's 64 but again beat par by three strokes with a 67, the lowest score posted on the second 18. This gave him a 36-hole total of 131.

It put him three up on Sam Snead, his closest pursuer among the 30 pros playing the "Old White" course. Snead also had a 67 for the second straight day over his home course.

Ben Hogan, defending titleholder, moved into third place by shooting a 69 in back of a starting 68, for 137. Only three others bettered par. Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Al Brosch of Garden City, L. I., each had 68 and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., turned in a 69.

Turnesa and Brosch were tied with Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., with 138 and Boros was deadlocked next with Clarence Doser of Scarsdale, N. Y., at 139.

The pros will be joined tomorrow and Sunday by 93 amateurs in pro-amateur competition. Among them will be the Duke of Windsor with a handicap of 18, the highest.

U. S. Walker Cup Team Grabs 2-0 Lead In Britain

Halve Two Foursomes, Eight Singles Today

BIRKDALE, Eng., May 11 (INS)—United States golfers rallied brilliantly today to sweep two scotch foursomes and halve two others in Walker Cup play with Britain on the sunny, windswept old Birkdale course.

The Americans — led by their 37-year-old captain, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and national amateur champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester—gained a 2-0 lead in their bid for their 12th victory in 13 cup matches.

Eight singles matches tomorrow finish the competition, and today's outcome makes the stars and stripes a prohibitive favorite.

But the United States had to work for everything it achieved tomatches at the 18-hole mark and the fourth was squared.

Turnesa, Urzetta Win

Turnesa, wily former U. S. and British amateur champion, and the youthful Urzetta salvaged the most important victory in the match the Americans feared most they would lose.

One down after 18 holes and all even after 27, Turnesa and Urzetta won five straight on the incoming nine with a spectacular series of two birdies, an eagle and two pars to defeat 1946 British amateur champ Jim Bruen and ex-professional John Morgan, 5 and 4.

Veteran Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Bob Knowles of Boston scored the other triumph one up, over Alex Kyle and Ian Caldwell.

The halves were achieved by the American pairs of Frank Stranahan-Bill Campbell and Charles Coe-Jim McHale.

Stranahan and Campbell came all the way from down at the end of 18 against Ronnie White and Joe Carr — only Britons to win a match last year. The Toledo, O., strongboy—who holds the British amateur title—and the former state assemblyman from Huntington, W. Va., were forced to settle for a standoff when they bogied the par-three 35th hole.

Coe, the 1949 U. S. amateur champion from Oklahoma City, and his Philadelphia partner came the closest to defeat. With British veterans John Langley and Cecil Ewing dormie one up, Langley cracked a spoon shot into a ditch and the Americans won the final hole.

White and Carr shot the most consistent golf of the day against Stranahan and Campbell, making the double tour of the 6,843-yard-pocked course in 72-75-147, one down at noon to hit a four-under-par 70 in the homestretch.

Today's Pairings

Tomorrow's pairings find ex-British titleholder Max MacCready subbing for Bruen and Harold Paddock of Cleveland and replacing Knowles. It will be Urzetta vs. MacCready, Stranahan vs. Carr, Coe vs. White, McHale vs. Langley, Campbell vs. Ewing, Turnesa vs. Kyle, Braddock vs. Caldwell and Chapman vs. Morgan.

Bruen sprained his wrist on today's first 18 but refused a substitute suggested by Turnesa.

Moose-Centerville Game Is Postponed

Manager Joe Geatz of the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose team last night announced postponement of the Centerville - Moose game scheduled here today because no fields are available.

It was the third postponement for the Moose team which has failed to play a league game to date.

The Moose team will leave at 12:30 p. m. for its game at Moorefield.

Centerville, incidentally, was handed a double knockout this week, as its scheduled game with the Cumberland Black Sox here tomorrow also has been postponed.

McKay And Conley Post High Averages In City Dux Loop

Eddie Records 172.7 And "Pie" Has 170.6; League Dinner Sunday

Eddie McKay of Spa Bar and Ed "Pie" Conley of Club Recreation were the high average bowlers in the Men's City League for the 1950-51 season and will receive awards at the league's annual dinner and dance Sunday at the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall.

The dinner will get under way at 6:30 followed by the dance starting at 9.

McKay pace the American Division of the league by spilling 12,097 maples in 70 gave for an average 172.7. John Bender turned in an average of 182.2 in the same circuit but was only in 46 games. To qualify for the prizes a bowler had to compete in 56 or two-thirds of the 84 games.

Billy Sites of the Diamond earned the high game prize with a score of 296. Bender and Cecil Grimes turned in sets of 715 and 629 but they were not eligible for the prizes because they lacked the necessary games. McKay had a 655 but he was entitled to only one prize. This award goes to Tom Dentinger who was in 73 games and posted a 615 set.

Conley is the only bowler in each division of the league to participate in all of the 84 games. He topped the National Division with an average of 170.6, topping 14,335 pins.

Fred Cimmino of Harbaugh's qualified for the National's high game prize by posting a 265. Tom McGeady of the Club turned in a 628 for high set. The averages:

Cartier Beats GeneHairston

Gets Split Decision In Scrap At Garden

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS)—Walter Cartier, knocked down for a nine count in each of the first two rounds, bounced back like a rubber band tonight to win an upset split decision from middleweight contender Gene Hairston in the 10-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden.

Getting stronger and stronger as the first progressed, Cartier floored his favored foe in the final round, and the count on Hairston had reached eight when the bell ended the fight.

Despite the finish and the fact that he ordered three rounds taken away from Hairston, deaf mute swinger from the Bronx, Referee Mark Conn still voted him the winner, five rounds to four with one even.

However, Judge Harold Barnes voted 5-4-1 the other way, and Judge Bill Healey made it 6-4 in favor of Cartier, young Manhattan hopeful. Hairston, a 7-5 favorite, weighed 161 pounds to Cartier's 160.

It was the second meeting between the pair, and Cartier's second victory over Hairston.

Jockey R. J. Martin Starts Suspension, Riles Is Reinstated

BALTIMORE, May 11 (AP) — A ten year suspension started today for Jockey Robert J. Martin-accused of betting against his own horse — and one of six years ended for Jockey Scott D. Riles who was involved in a "fix."

Martin, who had been set down 26 times in six years as a jockey, was charged with betting on a horse, other than his own mount, last April 10. The Maryland Racing Commission held a hearing yesterday, then decided, after all his previous suspensions, Martin should have learned the rules, and suspended him for 10 years.

His agent, Chick Lang, had his licenses suspended indefinitely.

Today marked the return to racing for Jockey Riles. He was ruled off Maryland tracks indefinitely in 1945 for helping to "fix a steeplechase race at Pimlico on Nov. 30 of that year.

Testimony at the time showed the fix occurred when a New Yorker identified as "John" offered to bet $2,500 for the jockeys of Mamie's Lad if the favorite, Gala Reigh, was pulled.

Riles is the third jocky of those involved to be returned to the saddle.

Injured Auto Racers To Receive Benefits

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Auto racing drivers injured permanently in races sanctioned by the American Automobile Association will receive lifetime disability benefits, the association announced today.

Disability benefits heretofore have been limited to $40 a week for ten weeks.

The association said the new program will continue the $40 a week payments for ten weeks and in addition provide $25 a week payments so long as the driver remains disabled.

To Play For Title

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 11. (AP)—Defending champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth and Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., advanced to the finals of the Southern Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

They'll tangle in a 36-hile showdown tomorrow at Hardscrabble Country Club.

Miss Riley, seeking her third Southern championship, turned back Betty Dodd of Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., 3 and 2, in their semi-final match.

Miss Faulk defeated Bea McWane, Birmingham, 4 and 3.

Twelve To Start In Gallant Fox Handicap Today

Greek Ship, Cochise Head Classy Field

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS) — Twelve colts and fillies were named today to start in the $60,000 added Gallant Fox Handicap at a mile and three sixteenths at Jamaica tomorrow.

Rain today made it certain there will be a muddy track for the race tomorrow which means that at least one horse will be scratched.

Three Rings, a colt which never sticks his head out of the stable if the track is the least bit off, never starts unless the going is lightning fast.

Greek Ship and Cochise, high weights in the field at 126 pounds, probably will be co-favorites. Greek Ship will have the peerless Eddie Arcaro in the saddle while Orvie Scurlock will ride Cochise.

The manner in which the weights are distributed makes this take as wide open as the Kentucky Derby was. But turf experts agree it is a far classier field than the one which raced in the Derby.

If all 12 start, the race will have a gross value of $71,400, of which the winner's share will be $49,700.

The field, with weights and jockeys follows:

(a) Renew	105		Green
Thelma Berger	105		Stuart
Lotowhite	116		McCreary
Steel Blue	109		Mehrtens
Lone Eagle	108		No Boy
Cochise	126		Scurlock

(a) On The Mark	107		Green
Three Rings	123		Atkinson
County Delight	119		Guerin
Palestinian	123		No Boy
Greek Ship	126		Arcaro

County Schools To Get State Building Fund

Members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning signed papers by which $342,650 will be obtained from the state to be used towards paying for the new schools being built.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, met with the board yesterday to have the papers executed so that the money can be obtained within the next few weeks.

Under the $20,000,000 general public assistance loan of 1949 for new schools, Allegany county is eligible for $927,180 from the state fund. The money being requested is the portion for which the county has become eligible by reason of having spent three-fourths of its total outlay for new schools. So far, the county has expended $1,027,950 for new schools.

Two large schools, one at Mt. Savage and another at Lonaconing, are in the current program. The Mt. Savage school is underway and the Lonaconing building is expected to be started soon.

Kopp said the $342,650 to be obtained from the state is an outright grant.

Both the Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools are costing well over $1,000,000 each.

Local Accountant Joins Celanese

Prior to establishing a business in Cumberland in 1949, Morgan worked as a public accountant with James A. Councilor and Company, Washington, taught accounting at Benjamin Franklin University, and served four and a half years in the Air Force.

Jury Is Dismissed In Preston County

R. Doyne Halbritter, Preston county, W. Va., prosecutor, announced that a petit jury has been dismissed and that no more trials would be heard on charges growing out of the dispute between the United Mine Workers and non-union coal operators in the Preston county coal fields.

Dismissal of the jury followed the dropping of felony charges by the state against four pickets who were allowed to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts.

Arnold Jennings and John Hartman were fined $100 and costs on a charge of assault and battery on Claude Lee, February 16, at the Borgman Coal Company. They were fined by Judge Harlan Calhoun, of Moorefield, sitting on the bench for Judge C. P. Wilhelm who was absent because of a death in his family.

Fined $50 and costs were Dexter Strawser and Kenneth Grimm for assault and battery, March 9, on Ressie Goff, an employe of the Tunnelton Co-operative Coal Company. Strawser and Grimm were originally indicted on the felony charge of intimidating Goff in an attempt to keep him from working.

Not identified as a picket, Clyde Shahan did not contest a charge of spreading nails on the highway and was fined $30 and costs.

Armor Coating Will Be Used In Repairing Mill Run Road

It has been decided by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to have an armor coating applied to the Mill Run Road in order to have the best surface possible.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission wrote the board regarding the cost of armor coating of a bituminous material.

Members of the board explained that surface treating by the bituminous material will seal the roadway and provide a high type thoroughfare.

Cost of the surface treating work is estimated at $4,096.30, and of this sum the federal government will pay approximately half as the Mill Run Road is being built as a federal aid project.

The Mill Run Road runs from a point near Barton towards the Garrett county line. Besides the number of coal mine companies which use the road to transport truck loads of fuel there are a number of farms and residences in the area.

Members of the board said that the cost of maintenance of this road has been so high that hard-surfacing it will save the county money in time.

Members of the board this morning also accepted the low bid of the Ankeney Company to furnish a steel filing case for use in Juvenile Court. The firm bid $79.30.

The other two bidders were the Cumberland Office Supply Company, which offered bids of $94.50 and $82, and the Marquis Company which bid $93.75.

The board also renewed the lease on the Navy and Marine Corp Reserve Armory land on McKaig's Hill.

Shortages Hit Celanese Plant

Sales of the Celanese Corporation of America for the first quarter of 1951 continued to be curtailed due to a shortage of raw materials, according to Harold Blancke, president.

He said the plant of a subsidiary, Columbia Cellulose Company Limited, commenced production on April 16, and by the second half of this year the shortage of cellulose should be considerably alleviated.

"The recent issue of convertible preferred stock in the amount of 1,000,000 shares," Blancke continued, "was successfully concluded. As part of the offerings 112,471 shares of 7 per cent second preferred stock were received on subscriptions or in exchange, leaving a balance of 35,708 shares of that issue outstanding. The first preferred stock, $4.75 series, has been called for redemption.

"The cash proceeds from the sale of the convertible preferred stock, after deducting commissions and expenses, and the value of the 7 per cent second preferred stock surrendered amounted to approximately $81,000,000. After providing for the redemption of the first preferred stock, approximately $37,000,000 was added to the company's funds."

Celanese reported net income before federal income taxes of $20,238,196 for the first quarter of 1951, compared with $17,187,886 for the same quarter in 1950. The additional federal taxes on income, however, outstripped the increase in profits and the net income after taxes, for the first quarter of 1951 was $8,285,196 against $9,856,886 for 1950.

Citation Runs 4th On Coast

Special Touch Wins Hollywood Park Race

INGLEWOOD, May 11 (INS)—Calumet Farms' Citation failed in his attempt to add to his huge winnings today as he came in fourth in the six-furlong Premier Handicap, opening day feature of Hollywood Park's 50-day race meet.

It was the first time in his career that he had finished out of the money.

The sprint was won by Special Touch, ridden by Jockey Willie Shoemaker, the J. N. Crofton horse who has been feuding with the mighty "Cy's" runing mate, Coaltown, at the recent Bay Meadows meet.

Special Touch's win was in a way a bit of revenge over the Calumet Farm's two speedsters Coaltown won two out of three from Special Touch at Bay Meadows and the win gives the Crofton horse an even break.

Coaltown and Special Touch share the six-furlong track record at Hollywood Park, 1:09 1/5. The time today was 1:10.

Manyunk was second and Bullreigh Jr., galloped in third, ahead of mighty "Cy." The mutuels gave Special Touch's backers $5.50, $4.90 and $3.30. Manyunk paid $4.90 and $3.30 and Bullreigh Jr.'s show was worth $7.40.

UMW Board Demands Pay-Price Curbs End

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' executive board called today for wiping out all wage and price controls when the Defense Production Act expires June 30.

Strike Sanction Is Received By Union

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America (CIO), received notification yesterday that the URCLPWA executive board has voted to sanction strike action by the local against the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company if such action is necessary as a last resort to effect a settlement with the company.

Contract negotiations between the company and the union are being held on a continuous basis.

The union presented the company its 60 day notice of intentions of cancelling the present pact on May 4, as required by the Taft-Hartley Law. This would make July 4 the earliest date for a work stoppage, union officials said.

Rail Unions Warn Of "Serious Threat"

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Three rail unions today warned of a "serious new threat to the nation's defense transportation program."

The unions said the threat stemmed from the carriers' rejection of their latest peace offer.

Because of Army operation of the railroads since they were seized last August as part of the dispute, the unions said, "the administration has foreclosed us against striking."

But a union spokesman said there was a definite threat to the morale of those who ran the trains. This dissatisfaction could affect the efficient operation of the railroads, the spokesman said.

Railroad Dispute Testimony Ends

Testimony and arguments ended Thursday in Mineral County Circuit Court, Keyser, W. Va., in the appeal action by the Western Maryland Railway Company in an assessment case against the West Virginia Board of Public Works.

The rail company was granted 30 days in which to prepare a brief and Attorney General William C. Marland, who represented the BPW, was granted an additional 10 days for the preparation of his brief.

The Western Maryland claims the tax evaluation set on company property in West Virginia is "in excess of a fair value of property in the state."

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Can your nerves make you ill?

Answer: Not indirectly, says Dr. H. Waldo Bird in the Mental Health Bulletin, Detroit. All that your nerves do is to carry messages and commands between your mind and your body. But the nervous system is twofold, and the involuntary ("sympathetic") nerves which control organs like your heart and stomach are channels through which emotional energy is conveyed from the mind to the body. When the mind develops an overcharge of an emotion like fear, the result may be a bodily disturbance such as palpitation of the heart of nausea, and chronic emotional disturbance may cause chronic illness.

Do "mother's boys" make business leaders?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wladimir Eliasburg. In business, as elsewhere, authority depends more on the willingness of the subordinate to obey than on the leader's will to command. Everyone has in him both a desire to assume responsibility and an urge to lean on others, and which of these impulses predominates in any given person depends on his early relations with his parents. The man who becomes a leader is the one who has freed himself from the "mother-image," which implies dependence, and who dares to emulate his father by doing things "on his own."

Have reading difficulties an emotional basis?

Answer: Yes, writes H. C. Gunzburg in Mental Health (London). The best approach to the problem of the child who cannot learn to read is to study "the relationship between his emotional and social adjustment and the reading situation." Teaching boys of 14 to 16 to read is largely a matter of making them feel secure and "wanted," since they think of reading as something demanded of them by the world which they have found unfriendly and against which they accordingly wish to rebel. But it is hard to find reading material easy enough to inspire confidence in such boys which does not seem "babyish" to them.

Meeting Planned

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—A meeting of the committees making arrangements for the annual observance of Memorial Day in the Tri-Towns will be held at the Piedmont Council Chamber today at 7 p. m., J. William Beck, general chairman states.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—(INS)—"Candida," which Katharine Cornell and so many other great actresses played on the stage, is Olivia De Havilland's choice for summer stock. Yes, Livvy's going to do summer stock for ten weeks.

I talked with her at the Beverly Hills Hotel and she said, "I'm leaving next week after I do two radio shows, to do stock. I did it a few years ago and thoroughly enjoyed it, and I'm looking forward to playing 'Candida'."

Olivia De Havilland

She told me that she and Marcus Goodrich had left the baby in the east because they are here such a short time.

I wish Livvy would come back and make a picture—we miss her.

As soon as Ray Bolger closes in his stage play, "Where's Charley," he takes off for London to make the screen version of the same play for Warners.

What delights Ray and Director David Butler (who leaves for Europe with his wife Elsie next week) is that Steve Trilling signed Allyn McLerie for the role she plays on the stage in Hollywood. She's very attractive and this will probably be the first of a series she will do for Warners.

• — • — •

Right out of the blue Valentina Cortesa, Italian actress, and 20th said goodbye to their contract.

Valentina was supposed to come here to marry Richard Basehart. Whether or not she will still come to America, I don't know. She's in London finishing a picture and Richard flew there to see her to ask her to marry him.

The Cortesa girl is a charming actress but I suppose that 20th has nothing for her.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hugo Fregonese arrived in town over the weekend to be on hand with his lovely wife, Faith Domergue, for the arrival of their second child which is due the early part of August.

Dan Daily and brunette Socialite Neva Gilbert at the King's for dinner. Dan usually prefers blondes, but he's true to the socialites.

Philip Carey's new house in the valley was burglarized while he and his wife were out to dinner. Guess what was taken? Their new garbage disposal! What the thief left was Philip's valuable collection of guns and some jewelry belonging to Mrs. Carey.

Lois Andrews is being seen amost nightly with Bill Bishop. Their favorite spot is the Seven Seas Cafe.

Pat and Arthur Lake are off for New York with Stephen Slesinger about a "Blondie" deal. They were at the party Mrs. Huntington Hartford gave honoring Marion Davies.

Talked with Hyatt Dehn who told me he has just done over a new house he bought.

Greg Bautzer came in all by himself. I asked him if he was between dates.

It was sure nice to see Charles Lederer who was being congratulated on his story, "The Thing," which is a smash hit. His musical comedy, "Three Wishes For Jamie," opens on the 28th of May at the Philharmonic and that will be a night, believe me. Marion Bell is the prima donna. I am told it's so good that it's sure to have a New York run.

The Hartford house is the old John McCormick place and the party was held in the playhouse near the pool. It was done by Frank Lloyd Wright, and Majorie Hartford told me that Huntington had added the wood paneling himself so it wouldn't be all stone.

My Cinderella slippers fell off shortly after midnight so Connie and Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna and pretty Rosemary Pettit brought me home. I hated to leave—everyone was having so much fun.

Peggy Lee is selling her home here because her personal appearance dates and TV show replacing Perry Como will keep her in New York for months.

Mitzi Gaynor, who broke her toe and was out of "Golden Girl" for a few days, is now out again with a bad case of laryngitis.

Cesar Romero is off for New York tomorrow to do television. He'll make a guest appearance on the Jack Carter show.

Hear tell that Mary Louise Gray (Mrs. Larry), daughter of Mary Louise Figueroa, has a successful daily radio show in Mexico City.

Nancy Oakes writes that she visited Dolores Del Rio in her new home at Acapulco, and Carmen Figueroa. Nancy goes to Europe and will then return to Mexico City.

Spoke Jones gets back from Honolulu Monday and he'll stay put until the baby arrives the end of May.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Lough, second vice president; Mrs. Edgell Grayson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Bridgers, recording secretary; and Mrs. Paul J. Davis, treausrer.

Enlist In Navy

KEYSER, W. Va. — Chief Teddy Beckman has announced that two men have enlisted in the U. S. Navy as seaman recruits. One is William Edward Greenhorn, 18, a graduate of Piedmont High School who until his enlistment was employed at the Post Office in Piedmont. He lives at 53½ Jones Street, Piedmont. He enlisted for four years. The other is Norman Darrell Smiley, 17, Bloomington. He enlisted for a minority enlistment. Both men were transferred to the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge for their basic training.

John Crosby is in Europe on vacation. In his absence his column will be written by his friends.

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

IF somebody were to come to me — I am not saying it is at all likely, but one has to be prepared for everything — and say 'My God, Wodehouse, you're wonderful!' — referring to my writing, not to my personal appearance, I would be obliged to reply: 'To a certain extent, my dear Smith or Follansbee or whatever the name may be, but only to a certain extent. All we authors, except John Crosby, have our limitations, and I have long recognized mine. I have never been able to master the art of writing letters to the papers. I get as far as 'To The Editor: Sir', and then I go all to pieces. Without wishing to wound, you have revealed my secret sorrow and touched an exposed nerve."

For I yearn to write letters to the papers. All authors do. Novelists are merely those who have failed as contributors to the correspondence column. Unable to make the grade, they drop down a rung on the ladder and write novels.

To test the truth of this, ask the man who has done both. Ask William Faulkner what it felt like to win the Nobel Prize. He yawns. But mention that you saw that letter of his in last week's "Variety," and watch his face light up. 'Pretty good I thought it was,' he says. 'Pretty good, didn't you think?', and he takes you off and stands you lunch.

The fact, however, that I can never be an executant does not prevent me having helpful views on the matter. I have made a close study of correspondence columns over a number of years, and to any young fellow who came to me for advice on how to make good in this most exacting of all branches of literature I would say: 'Write plainly on one side of the paper only. Condense your ideas. And above all do not be too ambitious at the start. Begin — as all the big men have begun — with the cuckoo.'

Nobody knows why, but editors have a weak spot for the cuckoo, and anyone who hears the first one is pretty sure of an entree to their columns. The only trouble is that what is known in the profession as 'cuckoo work' is not as simple as it seems. It calls for the most precise timing. If you don't get your letter in early enough, some rival forestalls you, and there is, oddly enough, no market whatever for the second man who hears the cuckoo. On the other hand, get it in too early, and it becomes merely silly. I mean, it is no use writing to the New York Herald Tribune on January the First and saying 'Sir. A very happy and prosperous New Year to you and all your readers. In this connection, it may be of interest that shortly before midnight last night, while out with the boys in Times Square, I distinctly heard the cuckoo.' The editor simply laughs, and not a nice laugh, either.

Still, the only thing is to keep trying, and I say once more 'Begin with the cuckoo.' And be very careful that it is a cuckoo. I knew a man who wrote to his daily paper saying that he had heard the first chaffinch, and the letter was suppressed because it would have given offense to certain powerful vested interests.

Another piece of advice I would give is this. As you become successful, watch yourself closely. Take care that letter writing does not grow upon you till it becomes a vice. In too many cases, I am sorry to say, the character of these letter writers deteriorates very noticeably as the result of their life work. As young men, they may have been mild and unassuming, but later they want to spend the whole of their time putting everybody right. They cannot see the simplest statement in print without seizing pen and paper and contradicting it — often with the greatest acerbity — in a letter beginning 'To The Editor: Sir. In your yesterday's issue you made the astounding statement that . . . ,' and getting nastier right along. It is the old story of the tiger cub which, in its infancy satisfied with bananas, becomes a public menace once it has tasted blood and swallowed its first coolie.

Such men as these, of course, are letter writers who require a peg on which to hang their efforts. The noblest contributors to the correspondence column, the men at the very top of the tree, burst forth spontaneously, like a lark breaking into song.

To The Editor: Sir.

"I wonder how many of your readers are aware that an excellent lotion for the hair may be made of crushed prunes and salad oil . . ."

or

To The Editor: Sir.

"I am the seventh son of a seventh son, born on July 7, 1877, at seven in the morning. I am forty-seven around the waist and have seven Siamese cats . . . "

Practically all a lesser man can do when he comes across this sort of thing is to bow his head and say 'Hail to thee, blithe spirit' and let it go at that.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K G R S D S X V B B Y, K G R S D S X T X H S,
W M X W D X Y S L L G D E V G H G W Z X K U X H S
—A B Z L B Z.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: INSTRUCT THE PLANETS IN WHAT ORBS TO RUN, CORRECT OLD TIME, AND REGULATE THE SUN—POPE.

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our husband and father, Ernest R. Eversole. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars and those who sent floral tributes, and the minister, Rev. Randolph Keefe, Jr., for his comforting words.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE DISTRIBUTION

WHENEVER one member of the other side has made an extreme jump into a high suit contract, especially if he had previously passed, it is wise to stop, look and listen to your thoughts before deciding to double him. Such a bid betokens possession of a terrifically long suit, together with extreme shortage elsewhere in the hand. So there is great danger that any high cards of your pair in some side suit may be ruffed before you can score them.

	♠ 10 6 ♥ K J 10 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ A K 7 6 3
♠ A 8 5 2 ♥ A 9 6 ♦ 3 ♣ Q 9 4 2	N W E S	♠ K Q J 7 ♥ 4 3 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ J 8 5
	♠ 9 ♥ 7 5 2 ♦ A K J 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
5 ♦	Dbl.

West made that double quick as a flash. Having passed with a hand just under opening bid strength and having heard his partner make an overcall, he felt that this contract would be a cinch to beat. But he later decided that, if he had thought a bit longer, he probably would not have doubled.

He scored his spade A and then led the 2, the J being ruffed by South. One round of trumps proved enough to clear out the defenders' singletons. The club A and K brought one heart discard. A third club was ruffed. Dummy was re-entered with the diamond 9 and a fourth club ruffed, establishing the 7. Now the diamond 8 furnished another entry and the club 7 was used to discard a second heart.

South didn't care now who had the heart A. But he had played right. If the clubs had been so bunched that one hand held five, he still could have led toward the heart K hoping West held the A, as he did.

The guiding principle for West should have been the odds he laid. With a probability of setting the contract only one trick, he could increase his side's score only 50 by doubling. On the other hand, if the contract be made, as it was, the double would increase the declarer's score by 150. So he was betting 3 to 1 he would beat the contract, an unwise gamble.

Your Weekend Question

What are the several advantages of making a sound business double of a low bid by your opponents, in preference to going on with your own side's bidding?

Last Minute Selling Forces Stock Prices Down Sharply

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP) — Sellers rushing into the stock market at the last moment today forced prices down sharply.

Rails took a hard pounding and posted some major losses. Motors and steels also were hit hard in some of the fastest trading of the day.

Overall the losses ran to more than $3 a share at the outside with minus signs in the $1-$2 range frequent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 80 cents to $95.80. The fall was the widest since March 28.

The railroad component of the average had the worst slide, off $1.20, while the industrial average lost 90 cents. Utilities, on the other hand, resisted and trend and advanceed 10 cents.

Limits of the fall are clearly shown by the fact that 585 issues today had minus signs as compared with 624 on the downside yesterday when price concessions were much smaller. Advances came to 308 as against 289 yesterday. The total number of issues traded widened a little to 1,156 against 1,145 yesterday.

Of the 15 most active issues, only one closed higher, Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, 12th most active up ½ at 7½.

Montana-Dakota utilities topped the most active list off ⅝ at 18⅞ with 28,500 shares traded. That was regarded as a profit-taking reaction from its 2¼ rise of yesterday.

Others in order were General Motors off 1¼ at 51½, Chrysler off 1 at 77, Southern Co. off ⅛ at 11⅜, and Warner Bros. off 1 at 12⅛.

American Telephone off ⅛ at 155⅝ made one of its not to frequent appearances on the list in eighth place. It was followed by U. S. Steel off ⅜ at 44.

Trading rose to 1,640,000 shares as against 1,650,000 shares the previous day.

Guard To Build Command Post Display Here

Aerial Program Set For Armed Forces Day

A field army headquarters or combat "command post", set up on the State Armory lawn, will be one of the feature displays during the city-wide Armed Forces Day program here May 19.

In addition to this impressive setup showing the organizational teamwork and equipment used to field army headquarters during actual combat a huge aerial program is also being planned, Lt. Col. L. M. Shropshire, commander of the 29th Division National Guard Units here said yesterday.

Aerial Show Planned

The aerial and headquarters displays will be only a part of the overall celebration. Brigadier General George H. Olmsted will be the principal speaker at a luncheon at the Elks home and a large 1½-mile parade also is scheduled for 3:30 p. m. Open house at the State and Naval Reserve armories will be a part of the program along with weapons and equipment displays in many of the local store windows throughout the city.

The local National Guard units will be in charge of the command post display which will include temporary headquarters tent, mobile switchboard, radio, walkie-talkies, phones and ground to air and ground to ground communications. A weapons and vehicular display will also be on hand at the State Armory.

Twenty-eight fighter planes are expected to fly overhead during the aerial show, Col. Shropshire said. Eight F-47's for the 104th Fighter Squadron, Air National Guard, Baltimore, are due here at 11:28 Saturday morning. At 1:29 in the afternoon four F-86 Cobra jet fighters from the 71st Fighter Squadron, Stewart Air Force Base, Pittsburgh, Pa., will fly over the city and then at 3:28 p. m. 16 more F-47's from the 104th Squadron will be here, the Colonel stated.

Troops Carrier Here

On display at 10 a. m. next Saturday at Cumberland Airport will be a C-119 Packet Plane, a troop carrier aircraft capable of transporting 42 fully-equipped paratroopers, or 36 loaded hospital litters, or a fully loaded 2½-ton truck. Also scheduled for the airport show will be a Link Trainer sponsored by the Hagerstown Civil Air Patrol.

Among the displays to be placed in store fronts along Baltimore and Centre Streets will be all types of weapons used by infantry battalions including the new recoilless rifle, mortars, machine guns, automatic guns, latest types radios and signal equipment, individual clothing and equipment, arctic, desert and jungle clothes, shelter tent field display and other under the sponsorship of the National Guard.

The Naval Reserve will have a cutaway model of a 20mm. cannon, latest radar equipment and will open the doors to the radio and machine shop for the public at the armory.

Bus schcedules to the Naval Armory will be arranged for persons desiring to see the display.

Schools To Close For Half Day Monday For King Bros. Circus

Elephant Parade To Feature Show Here

Monday is Circus Day! And local elementary and high schools will be closed at noon to give the students a chance to see King Brothers Circus here that day. Two matinee and one evening performances are scheduled by the troupe which will arrive here early Monday morning.

The more the elephants, the bigger the circus, has long since been the rule by which the size of a circus was judged. In the old days, the days when circuses moved by wagon train, one or possibly two elephants were considered plenty. Today, a herd of five or six is nothing more than a beginning.

With the all-new and enlarged King Brothers Circus, scheduled to exhibit in Cumberland, Monday, May 14 at Taylor Field in South Cumberland, three great herds of performing elephants will be seen in what is conceded to be the most thrilling and spectacular elephant display in America. They are an outstanding feature and they serve to introduce three of Spangleland's most beautiful and talented "elephant girls"—Marion and June Cristiani, and Mary Lake—who present the powerful beasts in the rings.

A prior glimpse of the huge animal actors will be given circus fans show day morning when "The Parade Of The Elephants" is presented downtown at noon as a reminder of circus day.

Everything about this new circus of 1951 is of gigantic proportions. Great masses of stars and performers take part, and among them many of Spangleland's greatest attractions. It is, by far, the most outstanding circus program presented by King Brothers in years.

Heading the list of top-flight features are the world renowned Cristiani Family of somersaulting bareback riding champions, with Lucio, greatest of all riding comedians; Hugo Zacchini, the man who is actually shot from the mouth of a giant cannon; La Louisa, aerial star from France, the "Queen of Aerial Rhythm"; the Great Davisos, the high-in-the-air thriller; the Ortans Troupe, sensational springboard acrobats, featuring beautiful Ortans, billed as "the world's greatest lady acrobat"; Vicenti Barragan, aerial sensation; the Canistrelli Troupe, unsupported-ladder performers; the Sabatiny Troupe, thrilling flying-return stars and many, many others from among the 200 men and women arenic stars and performers listed under the King Brothers' banners this season.

Performances will be given at 1:30, 3:30 and 8 p. m. with the main gates opening at 1 and 7 p. m.

For the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Store, 16 North Centre Street.

Firemen To Hear Plans For State Pension System

Could Enter Under Previous Legislation

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, this week conferred with officials of the Maryland Employees Retirement System on details necessary to bring members of the Cumberland Fire Department into the state system under legislation passed in 1949.

Governor McKeldin recently vetoed a bill which would have provided that if the workers were taken into the state plan, employe contributions to the city plan would be returned to the men.

Gibson said it appears that the only difference in the plans would be that the previous legislation requires that money in the present Firemen's Pension Fund, including both city and employe contributions, must be turned over to the state system.

If funds are available in a local system, the money must be transferred to the state system to take care of those who are on pension.

Employe contributions, however, would be credited to each worker's individual account and, if he drops out of the system or dies prior to retirement, such funds are returned with interest to the employe or his survivors.

Such money, Gibson said, would purchase additional annuities for the men above what the city would provide by paying accrued liability for years of service.

The city's share in the present fund would be used for such accrued liability.

Gibson said officials of the firemen's association will confer with the members of the department on the subject.

All data needed by the state in incorporating the local pension plan into the state system plan have been forwarded to the state.

Cresaptown Fire Brigade Course Ends

Eighteen Students Qualify For Cards

Eighteen pupils of Cresaptown School received pocket cards yesterday certifying completion of the 1950-51 Fire Brigade course. The course, sponsored by the community's volunteer fire department, was under direction of Chief Arthur Winters, Assistant Chief Joseph G. Wenrich and several members of the department.

Wenrich said yesterday that the course, started last fall, consisted of eight drills conducted at the school during the past several months. Students from the eighth and ninth grades received practical experience in usage of the school's fire fighting equipment.

In commending the work of the "young fire fighters," Wenrich added that recently an outside drill was held with the department's booster hose. The students ran out 100 feet of the hose and had water running through the line in seven seconds. Chief Winters manned the pump while Wenrich timed the boys.

The students were very successful in completing the course, Wenrich continued, and are capable of handling minor fires at the school until the fire department arrives. The course is expected to become an annual affair and next fall a chief and two assistants will be chosen from the class. Ten students will participate from each of two grades.

Members of the Cresaptown Fire Department are especially grateful to Principal Myra Nefflin for her cooperation in making the course a success.

Students from the ninth grade receiving cards are Carl Bechie, Leroy Clem, James Clem, Ronald Turner, John Lease, James Moore, Thomas Galliher, Hayden Dawson, Eugene Pratt and Floyd Flannigan.

Eighth grade students include Kenneth McKinney, George Day, James Quartucci, James Keister, Robert Rotruck, Howard Lease, Gene Dawson and Gene Blubaugh.

Admission Tax Forms Available

Copies of Ordinance No. 1902, placing a five cent admission tax on all adult admissions to recreational events, shows or entertainments within the city are available for distribution at the City Clerk's office.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said the order passed May 7 provides that any firm, corporation or organization conducting any recreational event, show or entertainment in the city must collect the five cent on adult admissions and bring the tax collected to the City Clerk.

Ullery said report forms may be secured from the City Clerk's office.

The ordinance, effective May 15, was passed unanimously at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council. It provides that funds derived from the charges will be earmarked for the use of the City Recreation Department.

Officials estimate proceeds from the tax, receipts from Penn Avenue Field, Constitution Park pool and other functions sponsored by the city will allow the department to keep its budget for next year at the $20,000 mark.

Officials have estimated that the department should have an income of about $36,000 to $38,000. The current budget provided $39,000 for the department.

City Police Pay Hike To Become Effective June 1

Several members of the City Police Department last night took issue with a published statement that patrolmen are paid $245 per month by the city. They point out that patrolmen's present pay is $233 per month and will not be $245 until after a $12 per month pay raise becomes effective June 1.

At a recent session of the State Legislature the $12 pay raise law was passed effective June 1, and will be reflected in pay checks received June 15 by the patrolmen.

There is a shortage of policemen here. Only one man of six who took the recent Civil Service examination qualified as eligible for appointment.

Some city officials and members of the department believe that with Cumberland listed as one of the heaviest areas of unemployment, there must be some reason why more men do not apply for police appointments.

Records show that in 1938 there were 48 men listed on the department. In 1940 there were 44. Today, the department has but 43, with one man scheduled to leave within the next 10 days and three others preparing to retire or go into other employment.

The Civil Service Board does not call another examination for about six months, but officials point out that if an emergency arises from a shortage of police personnel, temporary appointments can be made if men can be found who want to serve.

These temporary officers would be required to meet regular qualifications. A policeman must be at least five feet, eight inches tall; and between the ages of 21 andd 35. Police may retire at half pay at age 60, but with approval of the Mayor and Council may remain on the force until age 65.

Equity Cases Filed

A number of equity cases have been filed the last several days in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint are titled Herbert C. Caldwell vs. Emma Caldwell, Helen J. Martin vs. John C. Martin, Harold F. Walter vs. Patricia L. Walter and Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King.

WEATHER

The weatherman kept his promise and Cumberland received a drenching rain yesterday afternoon. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 61, a low of 52 and at 8:55 p.m. last night the temperature was 55. The total rainfall was .99 of an inch. The forecast for today is considerable cloudiness and cool.

Moose And Eagles Lodges To Observe Mother's Day

City Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz will be the principal speaker at Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, commemoration of Mothers' Day at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The local Eagles will pay tribute to all mothers by dedicating an initiation class to mothers.

The Eagles' role for Mothers' Day began 47 years ago when the late Frank Hering, of South Bend, Ind., then a Notre Dame University professor, made the first public plea for national observance in an address February 7, 1904.

The suggestion, made at a memorial service conducted by Indianapolis Aerie, was forwarded by Hering who later became national president of the Eagles. The observance was encouraged by the Grand Aerie and was placed upon the Eagle calendar long before general recognition of the event was made.

A Mothers' Day campaign was started in 1907 by Miss Ann Mae Jarvis, a Philadelphia woman, who suggested that the second Sunday in May, the anniversary of her mother's death, be set aside for the observance. Mothers' Day was put on the national calendar by Congress in 1914.

The War Mothers of America in 1929 placed a plaque at the site of the Hering home honoring the efforts of the Eagles' organization in behalf of the observance.

An annual Mothers' Day program will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, at its home on Beall Street.

Invocation will be given by Rev. Ernest Horning, O.F.M.Cap., and the address of welcome by Lonnie Jackson, governor of the lodge. The Mother's Day message will be delivered by Rev. Lee E. Sheaffer, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren Church, Potomac Park.

As in past years a feature of tomorrow's affair will be the presentation of awards to the oldest and youngest mother in attendance.

Among the selections to be played by the orchestra are "The Star Spangled Banner", "That Wonderful Mother Of Mine", "Tie Me To Your Apron Strings Again", "Tell Mother I'll Be There", "Baby Your Mother", and "My Mother".

Also included on the program will be several dance numbers. The entire audience will join in and sing "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Benediction will be given by Rev. Horning.

Master of Ceremonies will be Edward Rinner and program chairman is John R. Vernall. The program is open to the public.

Man With Slashed Throat Treated

John S. Rexroad, who was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday morning with a gash on his throat, is reported to be "resting comfortably" by hospital attaches.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, of the Police Department, reported the wounded man was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rexrode, 4 Harrison Street.

Lt. Lilya said the gash was self inflicted with a razor blade about 10 a. m. in the bath room of his parent's home.

The detective bureau head reported that Rexrode came home Sunday from Pittsburgh where he was working on a construction job.

He was treated Thursday for an acute nervous condition by a local psychiatrist and had planned to return to Pittsburgh Monday.

For the past six years regular collections have been made in the city every three months. The Council of Church Women, Homemaker's Clubs, Churches and Aid Societies have helped secure donations which are processed at the New Windsor Center. From there the material goes to all parts of the world.

Regina Rohrbaugh Crowned Queen Of Ridgeley FHA Club

Regina Rohrbaugh, 18-year-old brown-haired senior, was crowned Future Homemakers of America Queen last night at a coronation dance at Ridgeley High School.

The crown was placed upon the pretty Ridgeley student's head by Miss Eoonida Anest, home economics teacher and sponsor of the FHA club.

The second annual affair had "Black Magic" as its theme and was featured by a program of songs and dances by school students and members of the Star Dance Studio, Cumberland.

Miss Rohrbaugh was selected to reign as queen of this year's club by secret ballot of the members in competition with eight other girls.

The club each month of the school year picks the "Girl of the Month," on the basis of high standards of achievement in club activities. Nine girls were chosen and the final selection was made by the 50 members of the club.

Joint Meeting Planned On Area Sewage Plans

City To Confer With Sanitary Commission

A joint meeting of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be held in City Hall Monday at 10 a. m. to discuss possibilities for an area sewage treatment and disposal system.

Preliminary plans prepared for Cumberland's sewage treatment project includes two alternate plans.

One is designed to take care of the needs of Cumberland alone until 1970. It is estimated to cost about $1,350,000.

The second plan, designed to construct a plant capable of treating sewage from the Cumberland metropolitan area, would cost $1,480,000.

Officials said it is primarily to discuss the possibilities of the area plan that the meeting was called.

Hall To Attend

Representing the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be Dr. William E. Moseley, Mt. Savage, chairman; Herbert Heineman, Cresaptown, and Aden Miller, Lonaconing.

Dr. Moseley said George L. Hall, chief engineer for the State Department of Health, will also attend the meeting.

Dr. Moseley said the commission has contacted federal authorities on plans for a loan or advance to finance the planning work of a county sewage disposal and treatment system for the district.

He said he has made a brief study of the metropolitan district plan prepared by Regester and termed the plan logical.

Twenty Year Limit

Regester reported the $1,480,000 plan for the area would be adequate to serve the population of Cumberland's metropolitan area until 1970.

This cost does not, however, include the outlying future interceptor sewers and pumping stations which would be needed to tie other communities into the system here.

The second system would offer considerable economy in operating costs.

The annual per capita cost of the project to serve Cumberland alone was estimated at $2.60. A system taking care of the metropolitan area would drop the per capita cost down to $2.26.

Buchholtz Says Peddlers Must Secure License

Terms Competition Unfair To Taxpayers

A strict warning to unlicensed hawkers and peddlers operating in this city was issued yesterday by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will ask the Police Department to be vigilant in enforcing the city ordinance on license fees for hawkers and peddlers of fresh fruits and vegetables within the city.

He added that merchants and wholesalers who pay taxes and support the city should be protected from unfair competition.

If citizens cooperate by reporting possible violations, city officials will see that proper action is taken, Buchholtz said.

The ordnance requires that all peddlers secure a license from the city clerk.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said there have been a number of complaints recently concerning unlicensed peddlers and reported only a few permits have been issued this month.

The law provides that persons who are not bona fide growers or producers and who sell fresh fruits, vegetables or other country produce in the city, either retail or wholesale, must obtain a license from the City Clerk.

Rates vary from $25 a day to $200 a year.

Persons who are bona fide growers of the produce offered for sale must procure an identification card from the City Clerk for a 50-cent fee.

REDS MASS UNDER SMOKE COVER

Government Orders Beef Price Cuts

Ceilings Will Drop Up To 12 Cents Pound

Reductions Take Effect On Monday

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The government today slashed about 12 cents a pound off the new ceiling prices on some chuck steaks and pot roasts.

An order issued by the Office of Price Stabilization also cut the ceiling price on rump roast by five to six cents a pound.

The reductions are effective next Monday when dollars - and - cents ceiling prices on beef must be posted on meat market counters across the nation.

Today's action has no connection with the projected general rollback which is scheduled to reduce all beef prices by about 10 cents a pound by next Oct. 1.

The order simply amends Monday's ceiling regulations to allow for "inequities" and to provide other adjustments in the original order issued on April 29.

What New Order Does

Here is what the new order does:

It sets the same price for steaks and pot roasts of the varieties known as chuck arm and chuck blade, bone in.

Arm chucks were about 13 cents a pound higher than chuck blades in the original April 29 beef orders. On Monday, the ceiling on arm chucks will drop 12 cents and the ceiling on chuck blades will go up one cent.

OPS officials said the changes were made because most consumers cannot readily distinguish between the two cuts.

The order also cuts five to six cents a pound off the previously announced ceiling price on choice and good grade rump roasts, bone in. Officials said it will sell for about 79 cents a pound instead of 84 cents.

OPA said the price of choice and good boneless rump remains at $1.12 a pound.

Barbers Must Post Prices

"Nothing could please Joe Stalin more than to see runaway inflation in this country," he told the House Banking Committee.

The committee and its Senate counterpart are considering President Truman's program for tighter economic controls to follow expiration of the defense production law in June.

The Office of Price Stabilization today issued a special pricing order requiring barber shops, beauty parlors, laundries, parking lots, etc., to post ceiling prices.

This order, effective May 16, re-

Senator Stricken At GOP Conference

TULSA, Okla., May 11 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) (above) was stricken suddenly tonight as he neared the close of an address to the Republican National Committee meeting here.

Millikin, who heads the conference of all Republican senators, apparently had a fainting spell while addressing a banquet session.

Millikin was assisted away from a microphone by members of the committee seated on the platform. His speech was being broadcast nationally.

He was taken to a side room and revived. Millikin returned later to his hotel room where friends said he was resting.

House Committee Votes To Boost Liquor, Beer Tax

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to raise the federal excise taxes on liquor, beer and wine by $250,500,000, to the highest levels in the annals of American drinking.

The government would collect about two cents more taxes on every jigger of whisky, gin, brandy or rum; a tenth to a fifth of a cent additional on each glass of beer, and a couple of pennies more on a goblet of champagne.

The rate on distilled spirits would rise from $9 per 100-proof gallon to $10.50, making the tax on a fifth of 90-proof liquor $1.89 instead of $1.62. The Treasury had asked for a $12 a gallon rate.

Levy $9 Barrel On Beer

On beer, the levy would be $9 a barrel in place of the current $8. The administration asked $12.

The tax on light table wines would go up from 15 cents a gallon to 17 cents. On wines containing 14 to 21 per cent alcohol the rate would be 67 cents a gallon rather than 60 cents. The fortified wines—port, sherry, tokay and so on—would be taxed $2.25 a gallon in place of $2. The rate on champagne and other naturally fermented sparkling wines would go up from 15 cents a half pint to 17 cents; on artificially carbonated wines from 10 cents to 12 per half pint.

All the wine rates tentatively approved were considerably lower than those the Treasury recommended. The Treasury wanted $90,000,000 additional revenue from this source, and was voted an estimated $8,500,000.

Whisky Tax $2 Gallon In '34

The committee calculated its liquor tax increase would produce an extra $167,000,000. The Treasury had sought $329,000,000. The estimated increase on beer is $68,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 asked by the treasury.

Liquor and beer taxes have mounted steadily since repeal. The rate on whisky in 1934 was $2 a gallon. This rose to $2.25 in 1938, to $3 in 1940, $4 in 1941, $6 in 1942 and $9 in 1943. The rate was only $1.10 a gallon before the First World War.

"Scientist X" Ordered Held For Contempt

Weinberg Refuses To Answer Queries

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg, the "Scientist X" of the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation of atomic espionage, was ordered held under $1,000 bond for contempt of the Federal District Court.

Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff set a hearing for Monday morning on the charge growing out of Weinberg's refusal to answer questions put to him by a federal grand jury.

The bespectacled University of Minnesota professor refused to answer questions pertaining to his place of residence in Berkeley, Calif., and certain acquaintance at the time he was a scientist at the University of California atomic laboratory in 1943.

Judge Holtzoff directed Weinberg to answer the grand jury's questions at an open hearing in the District of Columbia Federal Court.

Weinberg, however, refused on grounds that to do so would incriminate him. He claimed privileges granted by the Constitution permitted a witness in a criminal proceeding to refuse to testify himself.

Weinberg is said by the House Un-American Activities Committee to have passed atom bomb secrets to the Communists during the war years while a physicist at the University of California Radiation Laboratory.

Judge Holtzoff remanded Weinberg into custody of the U. S. marshall on recommendation of Assistant U. S. District Attorney William Hitz.

Myron Ehrlich, Weinberg's attorney, asked that Weinberg be released on his own cognizance for appearance Monday. To hold him in jail, Ehrlich contended, would mean loss of Weinberg's job on the Minnesota faculty.

Judge Holtzoff said he didn't believe in treating professors differently than anyone else, and ordered Weinberg to post bond.

Judge Throws Book At Moran

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Ambassador William O'Dwyer's longtime pal, James J. Moran, drew a five-year prison sentence today for lying to the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee.

Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey, adding a $2,000 fine to the penalty, threw the book at Moran—courtroom slang for punishing him to the limit of the law.

Moran flushed and bobbed his head at the sentence. Then, grimly and silently, he strode from the courtroom to launch an appeal from last Tuesday's conviction.

His freedom on $25,000 bond was continued pending the outcome of the appeal.

The 49-year-old Moran was convicted of perjury for telling Senate crime probers March 16 that he met Brooklyn Numbers Racketeer Louis Weber no more than half a dozen times.

Millions of persons for the first time in history watched the actual commission of the crime on television and heard the words that branded Moran a liar.

His conviction and sentence was the first growing out of the dramatic cross-country series of Senate crime hearings that ended last March.

President Told General Russia "Main Threat"

Letter Is Held Reply To 'No Policy' Charge

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman told Gen. Douglas MacArthur last Jan. 13 that Soviet Russia was the "main threat" and that any spread of the Korean war might involve Japan and Western Europe in a large-scale struggle.

The Chief Executive wrote a letter to the five-star General outlining the aims of the American government in Korea and saying:

"Steps which might in themselves be justified and which might lend some assistance to the campaign in Korea would not be beneficial if they thereby involved Japan or Western Europe in large-scale hostilities.

"x x x In reaching a final decision about Korea, I shall have to give constant thought to the main threat from the Soviet Union and to the need for rapid expansion of our armed forces to meet this great danger."

The letter—in paraphrased form—was read to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees by Secretary of Defense Marshall in the fifth day of his defense of administration policies in Asia.

It was written by the President after Gen. MacArthur had advised Washington that he might have to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea unless he were permitted to bomb Red China, blockade the Red-held coast, and use Chinese Nationalist troops.

Reply To "No Policy" Change

His program was rejected but the Joint Chiefs of Staff prepared on Jan. 12 a list of possible military actions to be taken in certain circumstances and the Truman letter was written the next day to supplement the military views with the political thinking at the time.

MacArthur has said the administration had "no policy" in the Korean conflict except one of endless stalemate—and Marshall produced the letter, with Mr. Truman's approval, as a reply to that charge.

Mr. Truman declared that war moves in Korea must be taken in a manner to bind together the United Nations members, whom he said "we would desperately need to count on as allies in the event the Soviet Union moves against us."

This letter was written against the dark background of a possible evacuation of U. N. forces from Korea in face of the first great Chinese Red offensive.

The President spoke of the possibility of withdrawing entirely from Korea. He said:

"We recognize, of course, that continued resistance might not be militarily possible x x x. In the worst case, it would be important that if we must withdraw from Korea, it be clear to the world that course is forced upon us by military necessity and that we shall not accept the result politically or militarily until the aggression has been rectified."

Saturday Session Scheduled

Marshall testified for almost six hours—the longest questioning he has undergone—and he will return tomorrow at 9 a. m., EST, for an extraordinary Saturday session.

After the hearing, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) told reporters he wanted to find out whether the U. S. government has switched its stand on the fate of Formosa and the entry

Allied Forces Camouflaging Key Buildings

Enemy Planes May Back Coming Push

TOKYO, Saturday, May 12. (AP)—Chinese Reds massed troops today in West and Central Korea under cover of man-made smoke screens, one 35 miles long.

Allied front line commanders in the west said they expected the second round of the Communist spring offensive to begin within two weeks.

There was belief that it might be backed by the long withheld Red air force. Allied forces for the first time used camouflage extensively.

Similar smoke screens preceded the first round of the Red drive, which opened April 22. It was stalled 10 days later after the Reds had suffered more than 75,000 casualties.

The longest wall of smoke stretched for 35 miles from Kumhwa to a point north of Inje. The two towns are north of the 38th parallel in Central Korea.

Air observers, however, managed to spot Red troop movements southward in the area, particularly around Hwachon. It is 18 miles southeast of Kumhwa and seven miles north of the 38th parallel.

Another Red force gathered under cover of smoke on the western front about 12 miles south of 38. It was massing southeast of Munsan, a highway town 27 miles northwest of Seoul.

The Communists appeared to be concentrating their power north of Seoul in the west and north of Chunchon in the center.

Chunchon, a no-man's land town, is seven miles south of the 38th on a highway leading down from Kumhwa and Hwachon. It is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

Allied fliers said they saw Reds moving down the highway toward the western edge of Hwachon reservoir in groups of two, spaced about 50 yards apart.

"They were coming down the road from as far to the north as the pilots could see," a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman told AP Correspondent Robert Eunson.

Two other Red buildup points had been reported Friday. One was at Pupyong, 15 miles northeast of Seoul. The other was near Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

An Allied tank-infantry patrol was set upon by a Red force west of Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul. The Reds hurled hand grenades at the tanks. The Reds hold a mine-rimmed arc north of Uijongbu.

On the eastern front, a Republic of Korea force counterattacked a Red battalion which had punched a hole in the U. N. lines near Inje. The Red battalion was routed.

Inje is in East-Central Korea, four miles north of the 38th parallel and 75 miles northeast of Seoul.

On the east coast, Allied warship guns broke up a Red attack on ROK units south of Kansong, 26 miles north of 38.

French Election Certain; Assembly Votes To End Life

PARIS, Saturday, May 12 (AP)—The French National Assembly voted early today to end its own life July 4, thereby making certain that a general election will be held next month.

The vote for terminating parliament, part of the government's program, was reported unofficially as 361 for to 229 against.

The date for the election is expected to be June 17.

The Assembly's action was the last of a series of votes of confidence which Premier Henri Queuille has demanded in support of his coalition of middle-of-the road parties. Queuille had asked and received eight other such votes in the last three weeks as part of his campaign to change the electoral laws in order to whittle down Communist strength and to push the election date ahead.

Next month's balloting will be the first general election in France since Oct. 13, 1946.

Normally this year's election would have come in the fall. Queuille predicted that if the voting were not held soon, the country would be virtually without a responsible government until the end of the year.

The 186 Communist deputies — largest bloc in the Assembly—continued their efforts to obstruct the Premier's program right to the end. They failed to find an issue on which the cabinet could be defeated, although they missed twice yesterday by only six votes. The Reds are expected to lose their No. 1 political party standing under the new electoral law.

Secretary Marshall Hickenlooper Agree

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Secretary Marshall and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), at odds on many phases of the MacArthur controversy, found one thing they could agree on today — Russian honor.

They were discussing Russia's mutual assistance treaty with China.

Hickenlooper asked whether the Russians would precipitate a third world war "merely on the theory of supporting a treaty obligation which they had, as a matter of honor?"

"Not as a matter of honor, sir," Marshall replied.

Plant Blasts End After Silk Panties And Bras Banned

LA PORTE, Ind., May 11 (AP) — Troubles ranged from shell powder explosions to a sellout of cotton panties here this week.

Kingsbury Ordnance Works officials were pretty sure the little firecracker-like explosions on their shell-loading lines were caused by static electricity. But what was causing that?

Not shoenails, they found, nor buckles, nor hairpins, nor rings.

But one foreman's homework disclosed that women's silk lingerie could generate sparks.

So the order went out to Kingsbury's 1,200 women—bras, panties and slips must be cotton.

That stopped the little blasts, but LaPorte and Michigan City stores ran out of cotton panties. A run on men's shorts even started.

Hungarian Steel Shipment Halted

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 11 (AP)—Cracking down on German shipments of strategic goods to Communist countries, American and German authorities today turned back 4,000 tons of steel rails headed for Hungary.

The action was announced only a few hours after United States senators had demanded that U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy explain why he had not stopped "Russia and her satellites from freely and openly draining war potential materials from West Germany."

The rails—325 carloads—had been legally licensed for export by German authorities. However, they were halted "because the shipment was deemed inadvisable," a U. S. High Commission announcement said. They will be returned to the West German shipper.

Halting the shipment is believed here to signal the opening of an intensified drive to plug the German border leaks through which an estimated $1,000,000,000 worth of strategic goods have slipped behind the iron curtain since World War II.

Korea Vets Medical Benefits Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman today signed a bill giving veterans of the undeclared Korean war all the medical benefits previously granted survivors of other wars.

Congress hurriedly passed the bill yesterday to remedy a legal situation which found Korean veterans denied treatment at veterans' hospitals. Mr. Truman asked for the bill even as Congress was considering it.

Dawson's Denials Of RFC Influence Meet Skepticism

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — White House Aide Donald Dawson today encountered sharp senatorial skepticism as he denied wielding political influence on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, government lending agency.

When Dawson wound up his testimony, he told newsmen that he felt the hearing "clearly demonstrates there has been no impropriety on my part."

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate inquiry committee, disagreed.

"That's only his opinion," Fulbright said. "There's quite a difference of views on what is proper and improper."

Before Dawson left the witness chair, Fulbright told him point-blank that his repeated denials of influence were "a little beyond my belief."

Bluntly, Fulbright told the dapper White House official:

"Whether you sought to do it, whether you intended to do it, you did influence them. You had the power of life and death in the economic sense."

As Dawson concluded his two-day testimony, Fulbright announced that the long-drawn investigation would recess until an indefinite later date.

Committee aides said there was no immediate intention to call William M. Boyle, Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, whose name was figured in testimony about an alleged "web of influence" linked with multi-million dollar RFC loans.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a member of Fulbright's Senate Banking subcommittee, withheld judgment on Dawson's claim of being vindicated.

Poland Informs U. S. Bishop Padewski Dead

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP)—The Polish Communist government has informed the United States that Bishop Joseph Padewski, an American citizen, died in a Polish prison after four months internment.

Bishop Padewski was a prelate of the Polish National Catholic Church of the United States.

He was arrested January 19, by Polish security police on a charge of violating Polish currency regulations.

Congressman Says Atomic Test At Eniwetok Finished

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — A new atomic test has been completed at the Eniwetok Proving Ground in the Pacific, a member of Congress said tonight.

The individual, a member of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee, said "the test has been finished."

He said he had no immediate information on the exact nature of the test, adding that results hadn't been evaluated yet.

This individual, who declined use of his name, said May 7 was the target date for the main and final test at Eniwetok.

The Atomic Energy Commission would only say, a "test program is underway" at Eniwetok.

A spokesman for the commission made the statement in answer to questions.

However, there was some uncertainty whether the latest series of atomic tests were still proceeding or had been concluded. Congressmen who were scheduled to witness the concluding tests had indicated that before leaving Washington that they expected the final explosion to have occurred by this time.

The commission spokesman said he could say no more than that the test was underway.

The expectation here was that the concluding explosion of the current series would be the biggest nuclear fission blast yet set off.

1952 GOP Convention To Be Held In Chicago

TULSA, Okla., May 11 (AP)—The Republican National Committee voted 88-11 today to hold its 1952 presidential nomination convention in Chicago the week of July 7.

The approval of Chicago came after Philadelphia had lost a lengthy fight to bring the convention to that city where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was nominated a second time in 1948.

Before the final vote a motion by Fred C. Scribner, Jr., Maine Republican committeeman to hold the convention in Chicago the week of June 23 was voted down 88-9.

Sen. Millikin of Colorado was the main speaker at the committee meeting called principally to pick a convention site and date.

In a fighting political speech Millikin told the Republicans Korea was the last straw and the people are going to throw out the "foul gang" now in office in Washington.

"Our people are through with them. They are going to kick them out of office in 1952 and they would like to see a quicker way of doing it," he said.

He listed what he called efforts of "spurious peacemakers" since World War II, condemning the Democrats and saying they "want to swindle themselves into another term of office as peacemakers."

"By this time close to seventy thousand casualties among our boys in Korea attest to the fact that they lie," he said. "It's their last big lie. They have gone too far. They have irretrievably offended the deepest emotions of our people."

Millikin urged that "true Democrats," veterans and women be rallied to the GOP banner.

It was a throw-the-rascals-out attack that Millikin launched against the Truman administration. His prepared text was studded with such phrases as:

Enthroned evil, imposters, immoral filth, wastrels and economic idiots, betrayers, deceptionists, spurious peacemakers, empty heads and congenital bunglers.

Weather Forecast

Government Orders Beef Price Cuts

Ceilings Will Drop Up To 12 Cents Pound

Reductions Take Effect On Monday

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The government today slashed about 12 cents a pound off the new ceiling prices on some chuck steaks and pot roasts.

An order issued by the Office of Price Stabilization also cut the ceiling price on rump roast by five to six cents a pound.

The reductions are effective next Monday when dollars - and - cents ceiling prices on beef must be posted on meat market counters across the nation.

Today's action has no connection with the projected general rollback which is scheduled to reduce all beef prices by about 10 cents a pound by next Oct. 1.

The order simply amends Monday's ceiling regulations to allow for "inequities" and to provide other adjustments in the original order issued on April 29.

What New Order Does

Here is what the new order does:

It sets the same price for steaks and pot roasts of the varieties known as chuck arm and chuck blade, bone in.

Arm chucks were about 13 cents a pound higher than chuck blades in the original April 29 beef orders. On Monday, the ceiling on arm chucks will drop 12 cents and the ceiling on chuck blades will go up one cent.

OPS officials said the changes were made because most consumers cannot readily distinguish between the two cuts.

The order also cuts five to six cents a pound off the previously announced ceiling price on choice and good grade rump roasts, bone in. Officials said it will sell for about 79 cents a pound instead of 84 cents.

OPA said the price of choice and good boneless rump remains at $1.12 a pound.

Elsewhere on the controls front:

Barbers Must Post Prices

"Nothing could please Joe Stalin more than to see runaway inflation in this country," he told the House Banking Committee.

The committee and its Senate counterpart are considering President Truman's program for tighter economic controls to follow expiration of the defense production law in June.

The Office of Price Stabilization today issued a special pricing order requiring barber shops, beauty parlors, laundries, parking lots, etc., to post ceiling prices.

This order, effective May 16, re-

The Assembly's action was the last of a series of votes of confidence which Premier Henri Queuille has demanded in support of his coalition of middle-of-the road parties. Queuille had asked and received eight other such votes in the last three weeks as part of his campaign to change the electoral laws in order to whittle down Communist strength and to push the election date ahead.

Next month's balloting will be the first general election in France since Oct. 13, 1946.

Normally this year's election would have come in the fall. Queuille predicted that if the voting were not held soon, the country would be virtually without a responsible government until the end of the year.

The 186 Communist deputies — largest bloc in the Assembly—continued their efforts to obstruct the Premier's program right to the end. They failed to find an issue on which the cabinet could be defeated, although they missed twice yesterday by only six votes. The Reds are expected to lose their No. 1 political party standing under the new electoral law.

Secretary Marshall Hickenlooper Agree

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Secretary Marshall and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), at odds on many phases of the MacArthur controversy, found one thing they could agree on today — Russian honor.

They were discussing Russia's mutual assistance treaty with China.

Hickenlooper asked whether the Russians would precipitate a third world war "merely on the theory of supporting a treaty obligation which they had, as a matter of honor?"

"Not as a matter of honor, sir," Marshall replied.

Chiang To Congress?

SEATTLE, May 11 (AP)—Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said today he will propose that Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese Nationalist leader, be invited to address a joint sessions of Congress.

Plant Blasts End After Silk Panties And Bras Banned

LA PORTE, Ind., May 11 (AP) — Troubles ranged from shell powder explosions to a sellout of cotton panties here this week.

Kingsbury Ordnance Works officials were pretty sure the little firecracker-like explosions on their shell-loading lines were caused by static electricity. But what was causing that?

Not shoenails, they found, nor buckles, nor hairpins, nor rings.

But one foreman's homework disclosed that women's silk lingerie could generate sparks.

So the order went out to Kingsbury's 1,200 women—bras, panties and slips must be cotton.

That stopped the little blasts, but LaPorte and Michigan City stores ran out of cotton panties. A run on men's shorts even started.

Hungarian Steel Shipment Halted

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 11 (AP)—Cracking down on German shipments of strategic goods to Communist countries, American and German authorities today turned back 4,000 tons of steel rails headed for Hungary.

The action was announced only a few hours after United States senators had demanded that U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy explain why he had not stopped "Russia and her satellites from freely and openly draining war potential materials from West Germany."

The rails—325 carloads—had been legally licensed for export by German authorities. However, they were halted "because the shipment was deemed inadvisable," a U. S. High Commission announcement said. They will be returned to the West German shipper.

Halting the shipment is believed here to signal the opening of an intensified drive to plug the German border leaks through which an estimated $1,000,000,000 worth of strategic goods have slipped behind the iron curtain since World War II.

Korea Vets Medical Benefits Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman today signed a bill giving veterans of the undeclared Korean war all the medical benefits previously granted survivors of other wars.

Congress hurriedly passed the bill yesterday to remedy a legal situation which found Korean veterans denied treatment at veterans' hospitals. Mr. Truman asked for the bill even as Congress was considering it.

Dawson's Denials Of RFC Influence Meet Skepticism

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — White House Aide Donald Dawson today encountered sharp senatorial skepticism as he denied wielding political influence on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, government lending agency.

When Dawson wound up his testimony, he told newsmen that he felt the hearing "clearly demonstrates there has been no impropriety on my part."

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate inquiry committee, disagreed.

"That's only his opinion," Fulbright said. "There's quite a difference of views on what is proper and improper."

Bluntly, Fulbright told the dapper White House officia':

"Whether you sought to do it, whether you intended to do it, you did influence them. You had the power of life and death in the economic sense."

As Dawson concluded his two-day testimony, Fulbright announced that the long-drawn investigation would recess until an indefinite later date.

Committee aides said there was no immediate intention to call William M. Boyle, Jr., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, whose name was figured in testimony about an alleged "web of influence" linked with multi-million dollar RFC loans.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a member of Fulbright's Senate Banking subcommittee, withheld judgment on Dawson's claim of being vindicated.

Letter Is Held Reply To 'No Policy' Charge

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — President Truman told Gen. Douglas MacArthur last Jan. 13 that Soviet Russia was the "main threat" and that any spread of the Korean war might involve Japan and Western Europe in a large-scale struggle.

The Chief Executive wrote a letter to the five-star General outlining the aims of the American government in Korea and saying:

"Steps which might in themselves be justified and which might lend some assistance to the campaign in Korea would not be beneficial if they thereby involved Japan or Western Europe in large-scale hostilities.

"x x x In reaching a final decision about Korea, I shall have to give constant thought to the main threat from the Soviet Union and to the need for rapid expansion of our armed forces to meet this great danger."

The letter—in paraphrased form—was read to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees by Secretary of Defense Marshall in the fifth day of his defense of administration policies in Asia.

It was written by the President after Gen. MacArthur had advised Washington that he might have to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea unless he were permitted to bomb Red China, blockade the Red-held coast, and use Chinese Nationalist troops.

Reply To "No Policy" Change

His program was rejected but the Joint Chiefs of Staff prepared on Jan. 12 a list of possible military actions to be taken in certain circumstances and the Truman letter was written the next day to supplement the military views with the political thinking at the time.

MacArthur has said the administration had "no policy" in the Korean conflict except one of endless stalemate—and Marshall produced the letter, with Mr. Truman's approval, as a reply to that charge.

Mr. Truman declared that war moves in Korea must be taken in a manner to bind together the United Nations members, whom he said "we would desperately need to count on as allies in the event the Soviet Union moves against us."

This letter was written against the dark background of a possible evacuation of U. N. forces from Korea in face of the first great Chinese Red offensive.

The President spoke of the possibility of withdrawing entirely from Korea. He said:

"We recognize, of course, that continued resistance might not be militarily possible x x x. In the worst case, it would be important that if we must withdraw from Korea, it be clear to the world that course is forced upon us by military necessity and that we shall not accept the result politically or militarily until the aggression has been rectified."

Saturday Session Scheduled

Marshall testified for almost six hours—the longest questioning he has undergone—and he will return tomorrow at 9 a. m., EST, for an extraordinary Saturday session.

After the hearing, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) told reporters he wanted to find out whether the U. S. government has switched its stand on the fate of Formosa and the entry

Allied Forces Camouflaging Key Buildings

Enemy Planes May Back Coming Push

TOKYO, Saturday, May 12. (AP)—Chinese Reds massed troops today in West and Central Korea under cover of man-made smoke screens, one 35 miles long.

Allied front line commanders in the west said they expected the second round of the Communist spring offensive to begin within two weeks.

There was belief that it might be backed by the long withheld Red air force. Allied forces for the first time used camouflage extensively.

Similar smoke screens preceded the first round of the Red drive, which opened April 22. It was stalled 10 days later after the Reds had suffered more than 75,000 casualties.

The longest wall of smoke stretched for 35 miles from Kumhwa to a point north of Inje. The two towns are north of the 38th parallel in Central Korea.

Air observers, however, managed to spot Red troop movements southward in the area, particularly around Hwachon. It is 18 miles southeast of Kumhwa and seven miles north of the 38th parallel.

Another Red force gathered under cover of smoke on the western front about 12 miles south of 38. It was massing southeast of Munsan, a highway town 27 miles northwest of Seoul.

The Communists appeared to be concentrating their power north of Seoul in the west and north of Chunchon in the center.

Chunchon, a no-man's land town, is seven miles south of the 38th on a highway leading down from Kumhwa and Hwachon. It is 46 miles northeast of Seoul.

Allied fliers said they saw Reds moving down the highway toward the western edge of Hwachon reservoir in groups of two, spaced about 50 yards apart.

"They were coming down the road from as far to the north as the pilots could see," a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman told AP Correspondent Robert Eunson.

Two other Red buildup points had been reported Friday. One was at Pupyong, 15 miles northeast of Seoul. The other was near Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

An Allied tank-infantry patrol was set upon by a Red force west of Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul. The Reds hurled hand grenades at the tanks. The Reds hold a mine-rimmed arc north of Uijongbu.

On the eastern front, a Republic of Korea force counterattacked a Red battalion which had punched a hole in the U. N. lines near Inje. The Red battalion was routed.

Inje is in East-Central Korea, four miles north of the 38th parallel and 75 miles northeast of Seoul.

On the east coast, Allied warship guns broke up a Red attack on ROK units south of Kansong, 26 miles north of 38.

Poland Informs U. S. Bishop Padewski Dead

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP)—The Polish Communist government has informed the United States that Bishop Joseph Padewski, an American citizen, died in a Polish prison after four months internment.

Bishop Padewski was a prelate of the Polish National Catholic Church of the United States.

He was arrested January 19, by Polish security police on a charge of violating Polish currency regulations.

1952 GOP Convention To Be Held In Chicago

TULSA, Okla., May 11 (AP)—The Republican National Committee voted 88-11 today to hold its 1952 presidential nomination convention in Chicago the week of July 7.

The approval of Chicago came after Philadelphia had lost a lengthy fight to bring the convention to that city where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was nominated a second time in 1948.

Before the final vote a motion by Fred C. Scribner, Jr., Maine Republican committeeman to hold the convention in Chicago the week of June 23 was voted down 88-9.

Sen. Millikin of Colorado was the main speaker at the committee meeting called principally to pick a convention site and date.

In a fighting political speech Millikin told the Republicans Korea was the last straw and the people are going to throw out the "foul gang" now in office in Washington.

"Our people are through with them. They are going to kick them out of office in 1952 and they would like to see a quicker way of doing it," he said.

He listed what he called efforts of "spurious peacemakers" since World War II, condemning the Democrats and saying they "want to swindle themselves into another term of office as peacemakers."

"By this time close to seventy thousand casualties among our boys in Korea attest to the fact that they lie," he said. "It's their last big lie. They have gone too far. They have irretrievably offended the deepest emotions of our people."

Millikin urged that "true Democrats," veterans and women be rallied to the GOP banner.

It was a throw-the-rascals-out attack that Millikin launched against the Truman administration. His prepared text was studded with such phrases as:

Enthroned evil, imposters, immoral filth, wastrels and economic idiots, betrayers, deceptionists, spurious peacemakers, empty heads and congenital bunglers.

Executions, Fund Scandal Create S. Korean Crisis

TAEGU, Korea, Saturday, May 12 (AP)—A cabinet crisis, brought about by a financial scandal and a mass execution, is threatening the South Korean government while Allied forces battle to defend the republic against the Reds.

There is some informal talk of impeaching Dr. Syngman Rhee, 76-year-old first president of the U. N.-sponsored republic, but he appears strong enough to stay in the saddle.

Rhee fired three cabinet ministers recently as an aftermath of the execution of 187 villagers at Ko-chang. Charged with Communist sympathies, the villagers were convicted by a military court and shot Feb. 12.

The opposition party, the National Democrats, charged meanwhile that $2,000,000 in defense department funds had disappeared. During an Assembly debate on this matter one Delegate sank his teeth into a colleague's cheek.

In the most recent development, the republic's 82-year-old vice president—Lee See Yung—tried to quit. He said he had no powers under the constitution.

of Red China into the United Nations.

He said Marshall had made it clear he, personally, is opposed to giving Formosa—the island stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists—to the Reds or permitting Communist China to enter the U. N. but Knowland indicated there was doubt about the administration's position.

The Californian wants to know, also, what peace proposals the administration had in mind to be announced by President Truman. Marshall has said that MacArthur's March 24 offer to talk peace with the Red commander had destroyed the chances of any war settlement at that time.

"Obviously the administration must have had some specific peace terms for the negotiation which it claims MacArthur knocked into a cocked hat," Knowland said. He has said he will try to get a copy of these terms from the administration.

Marshall also testified that last January Washington offered to send MacArthur enough small arms for 200,000 to 300,000 South Koreans—after the South Koreans government asked for more weapons.

He said MacArthur was notified there were available 160,000 rifles, 70,000 submachine guns, 150,000 carbines and 8,000 automatic rifles. MacArthur indicated, Marshall added, that the weapons could better be used to arm Japanese police reserves.

Marshall declared that correspondence with MacArthur on this subject had been made public by the White House because the General had indicated in January that "a matter involving foreign policy" prevented more South Koreans from being armed.

Boy Is Arrested For Threatening Vanderbilt's Life

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—A blue-jeaned, 'teen-aged boy was accused today of demanding $10,000 or the life of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, one of the nation's wealthiest race horse owners.

The boy, 15 years old, was arrested last night outside of gate six at Belmont race track, the FBI said, when he showed up to collect the money.

He carried a toy cap pistol.

"I just got an idea," the youngster was quoted by agents. "I wanted money. I don't know what I was going to do with it, though."

The FBI couldn't decide at once what to do with him. He was placed in his parents' custody pending possible court action. His name was not revealed.

Malayan Rubber Prices Tumble

SINGAPORE, May 11 (AP) — Malayan rubber prices tumbled today to their lowest point in six months under the impact of Britain's embargo on rubber shipments to Red China, then recovered slightly.

Traders expected Malaya and the crown colony of Singapore to fall in line within 36 hours with Britain's request that her colonial governments "insure that there shall be no further exports of rubber to China from Malaya or the other British territories involved this year." Nearly all forecast still lower prices.

The market for first grade rubber closed today at the equivalent of 48 U. S. cents a pound, a two-cent drop from Thursday and eight cents below the ceiling fixed by the United States government for its purchases here. Only three months ago, rubber was selling at 78 cents. The Straits dollar is used in Singapore trade. It is valued at 32.75 U. S. cents.

The British request yesterday to stop rubber shipments to China was directed to Malaya, Singapore and Borneo. A Colonial Office spokesman said all three governments will comply "as a matter of course."

Wilson Urges Industry Support Of Controls

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 11 (AP) —The government today made a bid to 90 leaders of industry for support of a two-year extension and tightening of controls over prices, wages and production.

In coming months, Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson reported, civilian goods producers who now find slack demand and overloaded stocks will face an upsurge of buying power and severe shortages of materials.

His address was delivered to a closed meeting here of the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce. Persons attending the three-day meeting at the Homestead Hotel here gave an account to reporters.

Five Filipino Reds Sentenced To Death

MANILA, May 11. (AP) — Death sentences were given today to five leaders of the Philippines Communist Party and a field commander of the Communist-led Huk guerrillas—all convicted of rebellion, murder and arson.

Judge Oscar Castelo imposed the sentences after a six-month trial of 29 defendants. Nine were sentenced to life imprisonment. Eleven got lesser prison terms, and three were acquitted.

Three Girl Hitchhikers Are Jailed After Forcing Love-Making On Man

WESTERLY, R. I., May 11 (AP)—Everett F. Amaral, handsome, curly-haired and 21, told today how three girls "terrified" him with a long bladed knife—and forced him into intimacy with "the short dumpy one."

The three girls, their identity in question, were held in $1,000 bail each, charged with being lewd and lascivious and with disorderly conduct.

Amaral, whose home is in Cranston, described the other two of the amorous trio as "very pretty—one with red hair, the other a brunette."

They were hitchhikers he picked up last night as he headed for fishing at Narragansett pier, he said.

When he stopped to let them out, he told reporters, one of the girls drew the knife and forced him into the back seat.

The "short dumpy one," he said, "jumped on me" while the knife girl held the weapon "almost at my face." The third girl drove the car southward to a lonely road in Charleston, R. I., where he said he was forced to submit to sexual intercourse.

After the compulsory dalliance, said Amaral, the girls drove him to Pawcatuck, Conn.

They stopped there, he said, and sent him into a drugstore to get a bottle of peroxide. They'd decided to become blondes.

Amaral called the police instead.

The girls were booked as "Eileen H. Reposa, Barbara Reposa and Eunice R. Miller." They were arraigned in night court, pleaded innocent and were held for trial May 25.

2nd Armored Division Will Serve In Europe

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — The alerting of the Second Armored Division today for service in Europe bolstered hopes that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will have from 12 to 14 ready-to-fight divisions by the end of this year.

Six of these divisions will be American. The First Infantry Division and the constabulary force, which is considered the equivalent of a combat division, are already in Germany. The Fourth Infantry Division is in the final stage of preparation to sail for Europe, nearly one month after it received alert orders at Fort Benning, Ga.

Today the Second Armored, based at Fort Hood, Tex., was notified to be ready for overseas duty.

Lad's New Lease On Life Is Short

DENVER, May 11 (AP)—The heart of an 11-year old boy which a physician massaged back to life yesterday stopped beating permanently late today.

Cerebral anoxia—a lack of oxygen to the brain during the two or three minutes his heart stopped—was given as the cause of his death.

The youngster suffered from a clogging of a valve to the pulmonary artery, which doctors said would have killed him in a few years.

The operation to relieve his condition was watched by some 500 medical men by television.

After the operation, the boy's heart stopped beating. The surgeon, Dr. Henry Swan, slashed through the stitches and massaged it back to normal action.

"The operation itself succeeded," he said. "A defective valve, constricted since birth, was opened up to permit proper circulation of blood to the lungs.

"Yet the reaction to heart stimulants was unfavorable. But for that, the child now would be well on the way to recovery."

Doctors said the operation was based on techniques developed by London surgeons.

Arosemena Assumes Panama Presidency

PANAMA, Panama, May 11 (AP)—Alcibiades Arosemena, 66-year-old dairy farmer and former vice president, quitely took over the presidency of strife-ridden Panama today. In four days of turmoil, 14 persons had perished.

The wealthy Arosemena replaces Arnulfo Arias, who was deposed forcibly yesterday in a bloody battle brought on by his resistance to impeachment by the National Assembly.

His uprising crushed by the national police and public resentment against his attempts to seize dictatorial powers, Arias was jailed along with more than 1,000 of his fanatic followers.

The National Assembly ordered him held pending its action, indicating he would face trial—possibly for treason.

The FBI couldn't decide at once what to do with him. He was placed in his parents' custody pending possible court action. His name was not revealed.

Malayan Rubber Prices Tumble

SINGAPORE, May 11 (AP)—Malayan rubber prices tumbled today to their lowest point in six months under the impact of Britain's embargo on rubber shipments to Red China, then recovered slightly.

Traders expected Malaya and the crown colony of Singapore to fall in line within 36 hours with Britain's request that her colonial governments "insure that there shall be no further exports of rubber to China from Malaya or the other British territories involved this year." Nearly all forecast still lower prices.

The market for first grade rubber closed today at the equivalent of 48 U. S. cents a pound, a two-cent drop from Thursday and eight cents below the ceiling fixed by the United States government for its purchases here. Only three months ago, rubber was selling at 78 cents. The Straits dollar is used in Singapore trade. It is valued at 32.75 U. S. cents.

The British request yesterday to stop rubber shipments to China was directed to Malaya, Singapore and Borneo. A Colonial Office spokesman said all three governments will comply "as a matter of course."

Wilson Urges Industry Support Of Controls

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 11 (AP)—The government today made a bid to 90 leaders of industry for support of a two-year extension and tightening of controls over prices, wages and production.

In coming months, Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson reported, civilian goods producers who now find slack demand and overloaded stocks will face an upsurge of buying power and severe shortages of materials.

His address was delivered to a closed meeting here of the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce. Persons attending the three-day meeting at the Homestead Hotel here gave an account to reporters.

Five Filipino Reds Sentenced To Death

MANILA, May 11. (AP) — Death sentences were given today to five leaders of the Philippines Communist Party and a field commander of the Communist-led Huk guerrillas—all convicted of rebellion, murder and arson.

Judge Oscar Castelo imposed the sentences after a six-month trial of 29 defendants. Nine were sentenced to life imprisonment. Eleven got lesser prison terms, and three were acquitted.

Three Girl Hitchhikers Are Jailed After Forcing Love-Making On Man

WESTERLY, R. I., May 11 (AP)—Everett F. Amaral, handsome, curly-haired and 21, told today how three girls "terrified" him with a long bladed knife—and forced him into intimacy with "the short dumpy one."

The three girls, their identity in question, were held in $1,000 bail each, charged with being lewd and lascivious and with disorderly conduct.

Amaral, whose home is in Cranston, described the other two of the amorous trio as "very pretty—one with red hair, the other a brunette."

They were hitchhikers he picked up last night as he headed for fishing at Narragansett pier, he said.

When he stopped to let them out, he told reporters, one of the girls drew the knife and forced him into the back seat.

The "short dumpy one," he said, "jumped on me" while the knife girl held the weapon "almost at my face." The third girl drove the car southward to a lonely road in Charleston, R. I., where he said he was forced to submit to sexual intercourse.

After the compulsory dalliance, said Amaral, the girls drove him to Pawcatuck, Conn.

They stopped there, he said, and sent him into a drugstore to get a bottle of peroxide. They'd decided to become blondes.

Amaral called the police instead.

The girls were booked as "Eileen H. Reposa, Barbara Reposa and Eunice R. Miller." They were arraigned in night court, pleaded innocent and were held for trial May 25.

2nd Armored Division Will Serve In Europe

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — The alerting of the Second Armored Division today for service in Europe bolstered hopes that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will have from 12 to 14 ready-to-fight divisions by the end of this year.

Six of these divisions will be American. The First Infantry Division and the constabulary force, which is considered the equivalent of a combat division, are already in Germany. The Fourth Infantry Division is in the final stage of preparation to sail for Europe, nearly one month after it received alert orders at Fort Benning, Ga.

Today the Second Armored, based at Fort Hood, Tex., was notified to be ready for overseas duty.

Plane Crash Kills Eight

ROME, May 11 (AP)—A two-engined Italian military plane crashed in flames on a cluster of houses along the Adriatic coast at Vasto today, killing six persons and injuring eight.

Lad's New Lease On Life Is Short

DENVER, May 11 (AP)—The heart of an 11-year old boy which a physician massaged back to life yesterday stopped beating permanently late today.

Cerebral anoxia—a lack of oxygen to the brain during the two or three minutes his heart stopped—was given as the cause of his death.

The youngster suffered from a clogging of a valve to the pulmonary artery, which doctors said would have killed him in a few years.

The operation to relieve his condition was watched by some 500 medical men by television.

After the operation, the boy's heart stopped beating. The surgeon, Dr. Henry Swan, slashed through the stitches and massaged it back to normal action.

"The operation itself succeeded," he said. "A defective valve, constricted since birth, was opened up to permit proper circulation of blood to the lungs.

"Yet the reaction to heart stimulants was unfavorable. But for that, the child now would be well on the way to recovery."

Doctors said the operation was based on techniques developed by London surgeons.

Arosemena Assumes Panama Presidency

PANAMA, Panama, May 11 (AP)—Alcibiades Arosemena, 66-year-old dairy farmer and former vice president, quitely took over the presidency of strife-ridden Panama today. In four days of turmoil, 14 persons had perished.

The wealthy Arosemena replaces Arnulfo Arias, who was deposed forcibly yesterday in a bloody battle brought on by his resistance to impeachment by the National Assembly.

His uprising crushed by the national police and public resentment against his attempts to seize dictatorial powers, Arias was jailed along with more than 1,000 of his fanatic followers.

The National Assembly ordered him held pending its action, indicating he would face trial—possibly for treason.

In Step At Last?

Is the Administration bringing itself slowly into line with the realities concerning the employment of doubtful characters by the Government of the United States?

President Truman has issued an order that reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of an individual to the government shall bar him from employment. It is significant that it was found necessary to issue such an order.

Hitherto charges of disloyalty had to be proved before the government took steps—and then reluctantly, it frequently seemed—to separate him from his job.

Not long ago the President was completely hostile to moves to comb the red lice from Uncle Sam's hair. When many patriots in and out of Congress were devoting themselves to that effort, the President denounced them for—as he termed it—dragging red herrings across the trail.

The Supreme Court has ruled a man cannot be convicted by association. That is, he may or may not be guilty because he belongs or belonged in the past to an allegedly subversive organization. But that is obviously an asinine attitude to take when government employment is in question.

There have been too many instances of subversives in government employ digging out top secrets and sending them to Russia to take any chances.

There are no subversives among American boys subjected to the agonies of war in Korea. The least the Administration can do is to keep traitors who would sell their country to Russia from holding posts in which they can perpetrate their filthy acts.

Promises And Performances

Under the tempting phrase, "Fair Deal," the American people were promised peace, security and good government in 1948.

By 1950 the blunders of the Democrat Administration had taken us into the Korean War with American casualties now approaching 70,000.

Today the American people have a cheapened dollar. The average American is caught in a three-way rip-tide between unwarranted government spending and deficit financing, mounting cost of living, and climbing taxes. No relief is in sight.

Today the American people have high officials who have received "deep freezes" for their favors. Patronage and influence-peddling has led through the very doors of the White House.

There has been one Republican Congress since 1932. That Congress gave the American people two years of balanced federal budgets. It gave them lower taxes. It authorized a 60-group Air Force. It voted aid for Greece and Turkey. It enacted the Marshall Plan.

The Republican Party is the party of peace with honor, of economy, efficiency, honesty and integrity in government. It is the party devoted to the principle of individual freedom and of ultimate benefit for the average American citizen.

Attrition—Which Way?

The United States has now suffered 65,000 casualties in Korea out of a total of approximately 250,000 troops committed. As General MacArthur says:

"Our losses in ratio to the men committed have already reached staggering proportions. Those nations with but token forces in ratio to our own calmly advocate no deviation from the present policy of limited war."

A 25 per cent loss of troops through death, wounds and capture is indeed staggering. It is slight comfort to be told that the casualties suffered by the Red Chinese are much greater. Applicable to this point is the story of the old Chinese during the Japanese invasion of China. Told that Chinese losses were 40 to one Japanese, he replied, "Pretty soon no Japanese left."

Russia's policy is to continue sacrificing Chinese manpower, in the knowledge that as the war drags on it will drain away American manpower and material. Russia suffers no losses except in a limited commitment of weapons.

With one of four American troops casualties, attrition assumes a sad meaning for the brave youths fighting under handicaps laid down for them by the international politicians.

Unhappy Farmers

The Soviet Union is plastered with statues and paintings of workers on collective farms, all of whom smile with utter happiness, while clutching a sickle in one hand, a bundle of wheat or a basket of fruit under the other arm.

Out of life on a collective farm, an opera was written, staged and performed at the Bolshoi Theater, Moscow, with Premier Stalin and several members of the Politburo in attendance. All concerned were bathed in the euphoria of artistic accomplishment until Pravda denounced the production as "false."

Not enough joy in the opera, it seems. So Alexander V. Solodovnikov, director of the Bolshoi, has been discharged, while the Soviet Council of Ministers designates his successor. Pravda denounces the composer, the librettists, the stage designers—in fact, all who had a part in this unfortunate operatic production.

The Bolshoi Theater in Moscow, built in 1854, was formerly one of the world's great theaters. Now its director has been fired, its artistic standards assailed, its staff demoralized. Artistic endeavor in the Soviet is a precarious undertaking.

Insurance For Soldiers

The President has signed a bill which will provide $10,000 worth of insurance at government expense to all members of the armed forces. This is to replace the National Service Life Insurance which was held by the men who served in World War II.

A clause in the new insurance program provides that its protection be made retroactive and include men killed since the start of the Korean fighting last June. The government is recognizing a financial responsibility to the men who fight and to their families by taking this action.

Most of the men who held National Service Life Insurance during World War II have received dividend payments which amount to a refund of a large part of the money they had paid. The new program, which will assure men fighting for their country that their loved ones will get some compensation if misfortune comes, is one official gesture of appreciation for the sacrifices which service men make.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Adolescent Skin

PIMPLES (acne vulgaris) go hand in hand with adolescence. Most parents have encountered this problem and realize that the condition will disappear in time. The younger generation is not so certain and often suffers from the cruel remarks of companions. Now and then feelings of inferiority are engendered by the eruption. Many acne victims will grasp at any straw for relief except to give up the rich food that usually aggravates the disorder.

To the best of our knowledge the glandular changes associated with puberty encourage oiliness of the skin. When this grease is not removed it acts as a dirt catcher and, with the dead skin cells, forms plugs that obstruct the mouths of the oil secreting glands. The outcome is a comedone, or blackhead. If this in turn in unattended the plug produces irritation and if secondary infection occurs the lesion that follows is the pimple.

The victim has no difficulty disguising one or two but the same cannot be said when they cover the face. Acne has a tendency to come and go and with repetition the results are likely to be scarring and pitting. But this aftermath is not common, considering the millions who develop the outbreak and the few who reach adulthood permanently disfigured.

Treatment varies with the severity of the disorder but most bobby soxers will be able to keep the disturbance under control by maintaining good general health. Adequate rest and exercise are of value; out of door activities at this time of the year often do wonders. The sun too is helpful. Medical abnormalities such as anemia, glandular disorders, and disturbances of the gastrointestinal tract require attention. A special diet is required only when strict supervision is needed. The majority will improve when they avoid chocolate, pastries, and nuts as well as fried and highly seasoned dishes. Alcohol is taboo. In some instances foods that contain iodine and bromine must be eliminated from the meals; these include sea food, spinich, cabbage, artichoke, wheat bread, and cake. In a few, it is necessary to restrict milk. Medications containing bromides and iodides often make acne worse.

Cleanliness is more important than all of the salves in the world. All traces of cosmetics must be removed at bedtime. The combination of soap and water has no peer for cleaning and freeing the tissues from dirt and excess oil. Hot water should be used first to facilitate drainage. This is followed by a cold rinse because of its astringent effect. Most of the medicines are applied at bedtime after the hot and cold water ritual. As a rule they contain sulfur, resorcinol, or salicylic acid which are mildly irritating and have a tendency to loosen the surface cells. During the day the skin can be camouflaged with a powder containing resorcin or sulfur.

Most adolescents are tempted to squeeze blackheads or utilize special extractors. There is nothing wrong with these procedures when done properly but they invite infection and now and then encourage scar formation, particularly when performed too vehemently or with dirty hands. Gentleness and cleanliness must be the rule. If the acne sufferer can afford it, an expert is preferred.

TABLET OR HYPO

B. H. writes: Is vitamin B12 of value in tablet form or must it be given hypodermically?

REPLY

Vitamin B12 is a marvelous product but its usefulness is limited. It probably is of value only in the treatment of macrocytic anemias such as that associated with pernicious anemia. In this disease, the product is about 75 to 100 times more potent hypodermically than by mouth, because victims of this type of anemia lack normal gastric juice which is essential for absorption of the vitamin. Research continues on oral preparations which sometimes are combined with gastric juice, duodenum extract, or folic acid.

DIETING

W. P. writes: Is it safe for an overweight person on an ulcer diet to reduce?

REPLY

Yes, but it may require a specially prepared diet.

CLIMATE HELPS

W. T. writes: Would living in a mild climate be of any value to an older person with arteriosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Extremes in weather tax the circulatory system.

CLOTH CHEWER

Mrs. D. writes: This may sound silly to you but it is serious to me. My 8 year old daughter has started chewing on material — her dress or gloves, the sheet at night, or the napkin during meals. How can I break her of this bad habit?

REPLY

This practice, known as pica, usually is temporary and disappears by itself. If the habit persists, however, it indicates emotional immaturity and should be treated accordingly.

It Pays To Have Influential Friends

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

UN Debates Arms Boycott Of Red China; Diplomatic Pussyfooting Led To Past Wars; MacArthur Permitted Japanese Exports To Chinese Communists

WASHINGTON—Most important diplomatic debate of the Korean War has been going on backstage at the United Nations — namely, an arms boycott of Red China.

So far our UN allies haven't got around to voting to ban arms, let alone an economic embargo. However, it remains a fact that this is one of the most important steps to be taken against any aggressor.

Furthermore there is a long history of diplomatic pussyfooting regarding this by our supposedly good friends—pussyfooting that eventually has landed them in war. Here is some case history:

Pussyfoot No. 1—Was when the British undercut us in 1931 when Japan first invaded Manchuria. Issues almost identical to the Korean aggression were involved in Manchuria, and the late secretary of State Henry L. Stimson saw them clearly. He saw that Japan was sowing the first wild oats of aggression, just as Russia is today, and that if she got away with one aggressive bite there would be more.

But Stimson never could get the British, who had more at stake than we, to cooperate. When U. S. Ambassador Cameron Forbes would deliver a note of protest, the British ambassador did likewise — then dropped round to the Japanese Foreign Office an hour or two later to explain that Britain's note was merely to please the Americans and not to be taken seriously.

Pussyfoot No. 2—Was when President Roosevelt tried to organize an economic blockade of Japan in 1936 in order to stop further aggression against China. By this time the British realized their 1931 mistake and went along with us. But Roosevelt could not get the support of other European powers. Hitler and Mussolini were too strong by that time, and he also faced the private opposition of Cordell Hull.

Pussyfooting No. 3—Came when Mussolini invaded helpless Ethiopia. This was one of the ccrudest cases of aggression the modern world has seen, and the tottering League of Nations consciously tried to act. But although an economic blockade was voted for the first time in history, two things made it unsuccessful.

One was the exclusion of oil. The big American and British oil companies pulled backstage wires, managed to scare British and American diplomats into permitting the continued shipment of oil to Mussolini. Without oil, his fleet would have been paralyzed and his trucks could not have moved. But we pussyfooted.

Furthermore, the big powers, after voting the embargo, refused to use their navies to back it up. It became a pitiful, pathetic joke.

Pussyfoot No. 4—This is taking place right now in regard to Red China, an obvious, wanton aggressor in Korea. While the British are the worst pussyfooters, we in the U. S. A., including General MacArthur himself, have pulled our punches.

MacArthur, for instance, has permitted a steady driblet of strategic materials to flow into Red China from Japan. From July to October, 1950, he permitted $8,106,000 in metals, machinery and textiles to leave Japan for China. From October to January, Jap exports to the Communists increased to $11,100,000. Since MacArthur controlled all Jap exports, this could have been stopped.

However, the flow of British goods entering China through Hong Kong is the most shocking scandal of the entire Korean War. While American lives are being snuffed out, British millionaires are being made overnight.

Yet the State Department has taken no tough steps, such as a threat to cut off U. S. economic aid to Britain, as a means of stopping this trade. The British have blocked the actual flow of arms to China, but in these days of modern warfare, it's strategic materials that really count.

Merry-Go-Round

Robert Mack, a Senate elevator operator, literally stepped into Senator Kefauver's shoes the other day. Corporal Sam Hahn, Los Angeles —While the vote on Gen. Billy Mitchell's court martial was secret, Mitchell himself was convinced that General MacArthur voted for his conviction. Best account of the court martial was in Mitchell's memoirs, written by Emile Gauvreau, as follows: "I remember MacArthur lowering his eyes and turning his face away. Others on the trial board who had been my friends, bowed their heads as they sat, not in judgment, but as marionettes. . . . MacArthur surely could not be part of this! But there he was, his features as cold as carved stone. . . . Perhaps by this time, MacArthur can see it all with an open mind." Mitchell was court martialed for the same general charge for which MacArthur was relieved.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Ten days to two weeks elapsed between the receipt by General MacArthur of two important messages from Washington —one dated January 12 and the other January 13—and this accounts in part for the misleading nature of some of the headlines in the last 24 hours as well as some of the testimony just given at the Senate hearings.

The January 12 message came to General MacArthur at Tokyo by mail. It outlined the four recommendations of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff that were made public last week. Contrary to the erroneous impression given in many news dispatches and in part by Secretary Marshall himself, the four recommendations were not based altogether on the assumption that our forces in Korea would be evacuated. The recommendations stated that a naval blockade was to be imposed "as soon as our position in Korea was stabilized or when we have evacuated Korea." The other three recommendations used the language "prepare now" and "remove now" and referred not only to the use of Nationalist troops but to the removal of restrictions against air reconnaissance of China coastal areas and Manchuria.

Had Exchanged Messages

When General MacArthur got that message of January 12 late in January, he had already exchanged on January 13 messages with President Truman concerning the all-important problem of evacuation. The UN troops were hard pressed. The President specifically said his message was not a "directive" but was sent for information purposes. It outlined the difficulties and declared that resistance should be maintained. It came in answer to a request from General MacArthur for instructions.

When the message came, Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the Joint Chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with Genearl MacArthur and the senior members of his staff. Two views developed in the discussion as to what the President's message meant. One, which was held by General MacArthur, was that evacuation was not to be ordered. This view was shared by General Vandenberg. But General Collins is reported to have expressed the opinion that the President meant for UN forces to hold on for a brief period and then withdraw under enemy pressure.

The message indicated that, if UN troops were driven back to the beachhead and did not voluntarily withdraw, it would serve a good political purpose, the presumption being that America could then make effective representations to the UN members about the importance of carrying out subsequent punitive measures in other areas.

General MacArthur, however, interpreted the message to mean that there would be no evacuation whatsoever, and he told his colleagues that, unless instructed otherwise, that would be his course. At no time did General MacArthur advise evacuation— in fact, he stated vehemently his views against it and pointed out that such a step might imperil the security of Japan.

Not A Modification

It is, therefore, incorrect to give the impression, as so many newspaper dispatches did, that the January 13 message was a clarification of the January 12 message or that it was intended as a modification of the military policy previously laid down in the 16 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs, four of which were revealed by General MacArthur in his address to Congress.

The whole point surrounding the January 12 message is that the Administration apparently challenged General MacArthur's statement in his address to Congress that his views on the four main points had been shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs. Nothing in the record to date contradicts the truth of the General's assertion.

In fact, the January 13 message from President Truman told General MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your leadership." Ten days later when the January 12 message arrived, the issue of evacuation had been settled and it had been agreed that UN forces would stay in Korea. So the General interpreted the January 12 recommendations as still the view of the Joint Chiefs.

The whole episode illustrates once more the bad liaison between Washington and Tokyo, which is reminiscent of what happened just before Pearl Harbor was attacked. Certainly there is still a lack of coordination, and apparently the top officials do not know what the officers lower down are doing about delivering messages to important commanders in the field. A serious catastrophe resulted in 1941 from this kind of confusing setup and apparently it has not been cured yet.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our China Policy

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur's testimony on China bears out completely what has been said in this column regularly since 1943, namely, that the errors in our handling of China have been a renunciation of our traditional policy.

General MacArthur said:

"It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century."

I think that we can go further than that. We have had a continuous policy of upholding the territorial and administrative integrity of China. This policy saved China from becoming a colony; it limited British, Russian and Japanese aggression in China up to 1931. Then it failed to be effective.

The most important document in connection with this policy is a circular letter sent to the powers by John Hay, Secretary of State, in 1899. This is generally referred to as "The Open Door Policy" and has had the weight in Asia of the Monroe Doctrine for the Americas.

The essence of this document is in these paragraphs:

"The President (of the United States) . . . understands it to be the settled policy and purpose of Great Britain not to use any privileges which may be granted to it in China as a means of excluding any commercial rivals, and that freedom of trade for it in that empire means freedom of trade for all the world alike. Her (Britannic) Majesty's government, while conceding by formal agreements with Germany and Russia the possession of 'spheres of influence or interest' in China, in which they are to enjoy special rights and privileges, particularly in respect to railroads and mining enterprises, has at the same time sought to maintain what is commonly called the 'Open Door' policy . . .

"While the Government of the United States will in no way commit itself to any recognition of the exclusive rights of any power within or control over any portion of the Chinese empire . . . it cannot conceal its apprehensions that there is danger of complications arising between the treaty powers which may imperil the rights insured to the United States by its treaties with China."

Further, John Hay wrote:

"It is the sincere desire of my government that the interests of its citizens may not be prejudiced through exclusive treatment by any of the controlled powers within their respective 'spheres of interest' in China and it hopes to retain there an open market for all the world's commerce, remove dangerous sources of international irritation, and thereby hasten united action of the powers at Peking to promote administrative reforms so greatly needed for strengthening the imperial government and maintaining the integrity of China, in which it believes the whole Western world is alike concerned . . ."

The Open Door policy was aimed at Russia, which was then engaged in the conquest of Manchuria. This issue came to a head during the Boxer Rebellion and John Hay on July 3, 1900, sent another note which read:

". . . We adhere to the policy initiated by us in 1857, of peace with the Chinese nation, of furtherance of lawful commerce, and of protection of lives and property of our citizens by all means guaranteed under extraterritorial treaty rights and by the law of nations. . . The policy of the Government of the United States is to . . . bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese empire."

It is not possible here to go into all the details of the attempts of Russia to steal Manchuria — all of which were thwarted by the United States. Mention need only be made of the Washington Conference (1921) presided over by Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, at which China's integrity was guaranteed by the then nine principal powers, the United States, Belgium, Great Britain, China, France, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, and Portugal. Russia was not invited to the conference.

This policy the United States reiterated at Cairo (1943) but renounced at Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945). Instead, the United States facilitated the conquest of China by Soviet Russia.

Two Questions

By MARK SULLIVAN

AT ISSUE in the great debate are two questions. One is in the area of purpose, objective —for what purpose do our troops fight in Korea, and what is the best method for attaining that purpose? It is about this that Gen. MacArthur and President Truman differ.

The other question deals with the reason our troops are in Korea, how did it come about that they are there? A broad and obvious answer is that it came about through the fall of China to Russian communism. Associated with this is a question about whether and to what extent the Truman Administration policy about China contributed to the fall. As to this there is light in a sentence which Secretary of Defense Marshall spoke in the Senate committee hearings last Tuesday. What he said had the convincingness of personal experience.

In 1945 there was civil strife in China, the long-existing Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek was under attack by a minority group. The minority group was described by persons who sympathized with it as "agrarian reformers." Those who opposed it held that it or those dominant in it were Communist. Which was the correct designation goes to the heart of the Truman Administration policy about China.

Marshall Followed Direction

To bring about truce between the two groups, President Truman, in December, 1945, sent Marshall to China as his special representative. He remained in China for a year. It was in the light of this experience that he answered a question by Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire in the Senate committe hearings. Sen. Bridges' question included a statement that "many of the officials of the State Department at that time were saying that the Chinese Communists were merely agrarian reformers." To this Secretary Marshall replied ". . . When I got up to China and looked from the very start . . . there was no doubt that the leadership of this group was Marxist Communists, and so stated in my presence, and insisted in my presence, that they were." This negates the idea that the group were agrarian reformers.

Knowing this, Marshall nevertheless followed the direction he had received from Washington. He urged Chiang Kai-shek to take the Communist-dominated group into an integrated or coalition government. He could make no progress. But the action was noted to the Chinese people and the world that the United States no longer supported the Chiang Kai-shek government as it had during the war. The withdrawal of support was literal, the military and economic aid we had been giving the Nationalist government was suspended. The whole of our attitude and actions was destructive to Chiang Kai-shek's government and gave encouragement to the Communist group. It progressed from step to step and in 1949 became the Communist government of China which now makes war on us.

Intended To Mislead

Throughout all this there remains enigma. Who was it, in the Administration or the State Department or having influence in the situation that made the policy toward China and what were the reasons for the course we took? The enigma is increased by the fact that the leaders of the Communist group hated and reviled the United States. This condition was recited by Secretary Marshall in 1947, in an official report he wrote after he had returned from China. Speaking of propaganda put out at that time by the Chinese Communist leaders he said: "I wish to say to the American people that in the deliberate misrepresentation and abuse of . . . our government this propaganda has been without regard for the truth . . . and has given plain evidence of a determined purpose to mislead the Chinese people and the world and to arouse a bitter hatred of Americans."

Reasons and justifications for our China policy have been put forward, some of them officially, and in the main ex post facto. One was that there was inefficiency and corruption within the Nationalist government, that it was destined to fail, that taking over by the Communists was inevitable. Based on this, the theory was that it would be wise for the United States to be friendly toward the Communist group and thus keep them from becoming a satellite of Russia. Of the vanity of that theory, the proof is now taking place in Korea.

The fall of China to communism is one of the great disasters of history, with the train of consequences hardly more than beginning. It is impossible that such a tragedy to us should pass without searching inquiry into the causes. These are infinitely far-reaching and much evidence is already in and more is likely to emerge from the present Senate committee hearings. While these were set off by President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, later hearings are likely to go deep into the history of the Truman Administration policy about China and the Far East.

In Step At Last?

Is the Administration bringing itself slowly into line with the realities concerning the employment of doubtful characters by the Government of the United States?

President Truman has issued an order that reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of an individual to the government shall bar him from employment. It is significant that it was found necessary to issue such an order.

Hitherto charges of disloyalty had to be proved before the government took steps—and then reluctantly, it frequently seemed—to separate him from his job.

Not long ago the President was completely hostile to moves to comb the red lice from Uncle Sam's hair. When many patriots in and out of Congress were devoting themselves to that effort, the President denounced them for—as he termed it—dragging red herrings across the trail.

The Supreme Court has ruled a man cannot be convicted by association. That is, he may or may not be guilty because he belongs or belonged in the past to an allegedly subversive organization. But that is obviously an asinine attitude to take when government employment is in question.

There have been too many instances of subversives in government employ digging out top secrets and sending them to Russia to take any chances.

There are no subversives among American boys subjected to the agonies of war in Korea. The least the Administration can do is to keep traitors who would sell their country to Russia from holding posts in which they can perpetrate their filthy acts.

Promises And Performances

Under the tempting phrase, "Fair Deal," the American people were promised peace, security and good government in 1948.

By 1950 the blunders of the Democrat Administration had taken us into the Korean War with American casualties now approaching 70,000.

Today the American people have a cheapened dollar. The average American is caught in a three-way rip-tide between unwarranted government spending and deficit financing, mounting cost of living, and climbing taxes. No relief is in sight.

Today the American people have high officials who have received "deep freezes" for their favors. Patronage and influence-peddling has led through the very doors of the White House.

There has been one Republican Congress since 1932. That Congress gave the American people two years of balanced federal budgets. It gave them lower taxes. It authorized a 60-group Air Force. It voted aid for Greece and Turkey. It enacted the Marshall Plan.

The Republican Party is the party of peace with honor, of economy, efficiency, honesty and integrity in government. It is the party devoted to the principle of individual freedom and of ultimate benefit for the average American citizen.

Attrition—Which Way?

The United States has now suffered 65,000 casualties in Korea out of a total of approximately 250,000 troops committed. As General MacArthur says:

"Our losses in ratio to the men committed have already reached staggering proportions. Those nations with but token forces in ratio to our own calmly advocate no deviation from the present policy of limited war."

A 25 per cent loss of troops through death, wounds and capture is indeed staggering. It is slight comfort to be told that the casualties suffered by the Red Chinese are much greater. Applicable to this point is the story of the old Chinese during the Japanese invasion of China. Told that Chinese losses were 40 to one Japanese, he replied, "Pretty soon no Japanese left."

Russia's policy is to continue sacrificing Chinese manpower, in the knowledge that as the war drags on it will drain away American manpower and material. Russia suffers no losses except in a limited commitment of weapons.

With one of four American troops casualties, attrition assumes a sad meaning for the brave youths fighting under handicaps laid down for them by the international politicians.

Unhappy Farmers

The Soviet Union is plastered with statues and paintings of workers on collective farms, all of whom smile with utter happiness, while clutching a sickle in one hand, a bundle of wheat or a basket of fruit under the other arm.

Out of life on a collective farm, an opera was written, staged and performed at the Bolshoi Theater, Moscow, with Premier Stalin and several members of the Politburo in attendance. All concerned were bathed in the euphoria of artistic accomplishment until Pravda denounced the production as "false."

Not enough joy in the opera, it seems. So Alexander V. Solodovnikov, director of the Bolshoi, has been discharged, while the Soviet Council of Ministers designates his successor. Pravda denounces the composer, the librettists, the stage designers—in fact, all who had a part in this unfortunate operatic production.

The Bolshoi Theater in Moscow, built in 1854, was formerly one of the world's great theaters. Now its director has been fired, its artistic standards assailed, its staff demoralized. Artistic endeavor in the Soviet is a precarious undertaking.

Insurance For Soldiers

The President has signed a bill which will provide $10,000 worth of insurance at government expense to all members of the armed forces. This is to replace the National Service Life Insurance which was held by the men who served in World War II.

A clause in the new insurance program provides that its protection be made retroactive and include men killed since the start of the Korean fighting last June. The government is recognizing a financial responsibility to the men who fight and to their families by taking this action.

Most of the men who held National Service Life Insurance during World War II have received dividend payments which amount to a refund of a large part of the money they had paid. The new program, which will assure men fighting for their country that their loved ones will get some compensation if misfortune comes, is one official gesture of appreciation for the sacrifices which service men make.

How To Keep Well

Adolescent Skin

PIMPLES (acne vulgaris) go hand in hand with adolescence. Most parents have encountered this problem and realize that the condition will disappear in time. The younger generation is not so certain and often suffers from the cruel remarks of companions. Now and then feelings of inferiority are engendered by the eruption. Many acne victims will grasp at any straw for relief except to give up the rich food that usually aggravates the disorder.

To the best of our knowledge the glandular changes associated with puberty encourage oiliness of the skin. When this grease is not removed it acts as a dirt catcher and, with the dead skin cells, forms plugs that obstruct the mouths of the oil secreting glands. The outcome is a comedone, or blackhead. If this in turn in unattended the plug produces irritation and if secondary infection occurs the lesion that follows is the pimple.

The victim has no difficulty disguising one or two but the same cannot be said when they cover the face. Acne has a tendency to come and go and with repetition the results are likely to be scarring and pitting. But this aftermath is not common, considering the millions who develop the outbreak and the few who reach adulthood permanently disfigured.

Treatment varies with the severity of the disorder but most bobby soxers will be able to keep the disturbance under control by maintaining good general health. Adequate rest and exercise are of value; out of door activities at this time of the year often do wonders. The sun too is helpful. Medical abnormalities such as anemia, glandular disorders, and disturbances of the gastrointestinal tract require attention. A special diet is required only when strict supervision is needed. The majority will improve when they avoid chocolate, pastries, and nuts as well as fried and highly seasoned dishes. Alcohol is taboo. In some instances foods that contain iodine and bromine must be eliminated from the meals; these include sea food, spinich, cabbage, artichoke, wheat bread, and cake. In a few, it is necessary to restrict milk. Medications containing bromides and iodides often make acne worse.

Cleanliness is more important than all of the salves in the world. All traces of cosmetics must be removed at bedtime. The combination of soap and water has no peer for cleaning and freeing the tissues from dirt and excess oil. Hot water should be used first to facilitate drainage. This is followed by a cold rinse because of its astringent effect. Most of the medicines are applied at bedtime after the hot and cold water ritual. As a rule they contain sulfur, resorcinol, or salicylic acid which are mildly irritating and have a tendency to loosen the surface cells. During the day the skin can be camouflaged with a powder containing resorcin or sulfur.

Most adolescents are tempted to squeeze blackheads or utilize special extractors. There is nothing wrong with these procedures when done properly but they invite infection and now and then encourage scar formation, particularly when performed too vehemently or with dirty hands. Gentleness and cleanliness must be the rule. If the acne sufferer can afford it, an expert is preferred.

TABLET OR HYPO

B. H. writes: Is vitamin B12 of value in tablet form or must it be given hypodermically?

REPLY

Vitamin B12 is a marvelous product but its usefulness is limited. It probably is of value only in the treatment of macrocytic anemias such as that associated with pernicious anemia. In this disease, the product is about 75 to 100 times more potent hypodermically than by mouth, because victims of this type of anemia lack normal gastric juice which is essential for absorption of the vitamin. Research continues on oral preparations which sometimes are combined with gastric juice, duodenum extract, or folic acid.

DIETING

W. P. writes: Is it safe for an overweight person on an ulcer diet to reduce?

REPLY

Yes, but it may require a specially prepared diet.

CLIMATE HELPS

W. T. writes: Would living in a mild climate be of any value to an older person with arteriosclerosis?

REPLY

Yes. Extremes in weather tax the circulatory system.

CLOTH CHEWER

Mrs. D. writes: This may sound silly to you but it is serious to me. My 8 year old daughter has started chewing on material — her dress or gloves, the sheet at night, or the napkin during meals. How can I break her of this bad habit?

REPLY

This practice, known as pica, usually is temporary and disappears by itself. If the habit persists, however, it indicates emotional immaturity and should be treated accordingly.

It Pays To Have Influential Friends

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

UN Debates Arms Boycott Of Red China; Diplomatic Pussyfooting Led To Past Wars; MacArthur Permitted Japanese Exports To Chinese Communists

WASHINGTON—Most important diplomatic debate of the Korean War has been going on backstage at the United Nations — namely, an arms boycott of Red China.

So far our UN allies haven't got around to voting to ban arms, let alone an economic embargo. However, it remains a fact that this is one of the most important steps to be taken against any aggressor.

Furthermore there is a long history of diplomatic pussyfooting regarding this by our supposedly good friends—pussyfooting that eventually has landed them in war. Here is some case history:

Pussyfoot No. 1—Was when the British undercut us in 1931 when Japan first invaded Manchuria. Issues almost identical to the Korean aggression were involved in Manchuria, and the late secretary of State Henry L. Stimson saw them clearly. He saw that Japan was sowing the first wild oats of aggression, just as Russia is today, and that if she got away with one aggressive bite there would be more.

But Stimson never could get the British, who had more at stake than we, to cooperate. When U. S. Ambassador Cameron Forbes would deliver a note of protest, the British ambassador did likewise — then dropped round to the Japanese Foreign Office an hour or two later to explain that Britain's note was merely to please the Americans and not to be taken seriously.

Pussyfoot No. 2—Was when President Roosevelt tried to organize an economic blockade of Japan in 1936 in order to stop further aggression against China. By this time the British realized their 1931 mistake and went along with us. But Roosevelt could not get the support of other European powers. Hitler and Mussolini were too strong by that time, and he also faced the private opposition of Cordell Hull.

Pussyfooting No. 3—Came when Mussolini invaded helpless Ethiopia. This was one of the crudest cases of aggression the modern world has seen, and the tottering League of Nations consciously tried to act. But although an economic blockade was voted for the first time in history, two things made it unsuccessful.

One was the exclusion of oil. The big American and British oil companies pulled backstage wires, managed to scare British and American diplomats into permitting the continued shipment of oil to Mussolini. Without oil, his fleet would have been paralyzed and his trucks could not have moved. But we pussyfooted.

Furthermore, the big powers, after voting the embargo, refused to use their navies to back it up. It became a pitiful, pathetic joke.

Pussyfoot No. 4—This is taking place right now in regard to Red China, an obvious, wanton aggressor in Korea. While the British are the worst pussyfooters, we in the U. S. A., including General MacArthur himself, have pulled our punches.

MacArthur, for instance, has permitted a steady driblet of strategic materials to flow into Red China from Japan. From July to October, 1950, he permitted $8,106,000 in metals, machinery and textiles to leave Japan for China. From October to January, Jap exports to the Communists increased to $11,100,000. Since MacArthur controlled all Jap exports, this could have been stopped.

However, the flow of British goods entering China through Hong Kong is the most shocking scandal of the entire Korean War. While American lives are being snuffed out, British millionaires are being made overnight.

Yet the State Department has taken no tough steps, such as a threat to cut off U. S. economic aid to Britain, as a means of stopping this trade. The British have blocked the actual flow of arms to China, but in these days of modern warfare, it's strategic materials that really count.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Ten days to two weeks elapsed between the receipt by General MacArthur of two important messages from Washington —one dated January 12 and the other January 13—and this accounts in part for the misleading nature of some of the headlines in the last 24 hours as well as some of the testimony just given at the Senate hearings.

The January 12 message came to General MacArthur at Tokyo by mail. It outlined the four recommendations of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff that were made public last week. Contrary to the erroneous impression given in many news dispatches and in part by Secretary Marshall himself, the four recommendations were not based altogether on the assumption that our forces in Korea would be evacuated. The recommendations stated that a naval blockade was to be imposed "as soon as our position in Korea was stabilized or when we have evacuated Korea." The other three recommendations used the language "prepare now" and "remove now" and referred not only to the use of Nationalist troops but to the removal of restrictions against air reconnaissance of China coastal areas and Manchuria.

Had Exchanged Messages

When General MacArthur got that message of January 12 late in January, he had already exchanged on January 13 messages with President Truman concerning the all-important problem of evacuation. The UN troops were hard pressed. The President specifically said his message was not a "directive" but was sent for information purposes. It outlined the difficulties and declared that resistance should be maintained. It came in answer to a request from General MacArthur for instructions.

When the message came, Generals Collins and Vandenberg of the Joint Chiefs were in Tokyo conferring with Genearl MacArthur and the senior members of his staff. Two views developed in the discussion as to what the President's message meant. One, which was held by General MacArthur, was that evacuation was not to be ordered. This view was shared by General Vandenberg. But General Collins is reported to have expressed the opinion that the President meant for UN forces to hold on for a brief period and then withdraw under enemy pressure.

The message indicated that, if UN troops were driven back to the beachhead and did not voluntarily withdraw, it would serve a good political purpose, the presumption being that America could then make effective representations to the UN members about the importance of carrying out subsequent punitive measures in other areas.

General MacArthur, however, interpreted the message to mean that there would be no evacuation whatsoever, and he told his colleagues that, unless instructed otherwise, that would be his course. At no time did General MacArthur advise evacuation— in fact, he stated vehemently his views against it and pointed out that such a step might imperil the security of Japan.

Not A Modification

It is, therefore, incorrect to give the impression, as so many newspaper dispatches did, that the January 13 message was a clarification of the January 12 message or that it was intended as a modification of the military policy previously laid down in the 16 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs, four of which were revealed by General MacArthur in his address to Congress.

The whole point surrounding the January 12 message is that the Administration apparently challenged General MacArthur's statement in his address to Congress that his views on the four main points had been shared in the past by the Joint Chiefs. Nothing in the record to date contradicts the truth of the General's assertion.

In fact, the January 13 message from President Truman told General MacArthur that "the entire nation is grateful for your leadership." Ten days later when the January 12 message arrived, the issue of evacuation had been settled and it had been agreed that UN forces would stay in Korea. So the General interpreted the January 12 recommendations as still the view of the Joint Chiefs.

The whole episode illustrates once more the bad liaison between Washington and Tokyo, which is reminiscent of what happened just before Pearl Harbor was attacked. Certainly there is still a lack of coordination, and apparently the top officials do not know what the officers lower down are doing about delivering messages to important commanders in the field. A serious catastrophe resulted in 1941 from this kind of confusing setup and apparently it has not been cured yet.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our China Policy

GENERAL Douglas MacArthur's testimony on China bears out completely what has been said in this column regularly since 1943, namely, that the errors in our handling of China have been a renunciation of our traditional policy.

General MacArthur said:

"It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century."

I think that we can go further than that. We have had a continuous policy of upholding the territorial and administrative integrity of China. This policy saved China from becoming a colony; it limited British, Russian and Japanese aggression in China up to 1931. Then it failed to be effective.

The most important document in connection with this policy is a circular letter sent to the powers by John Hay, Secretary of State, in 1899. This is generally referred to as "The Open Door Policy" and has had the weight in Asia of the Monroe Doctrine for the Americas.

The essence of this document is in these paragraphs:

"The President (of the United States) . . . understands it to be the settled policy and purpose of Great Britain not to use any privileges which may be granted to it in China as a means of excluding any commercial rivals, and that freedom of trade for it in that empire means freedom of trade for all the world alike. Her (Britannic) Majesty's government, while conceding by formal agreements with Germany and Russia the possession of 'spheres of influence or interest' in China, in which they are to enjoy special rights and privileges, particularly in respect to railroads and mining enterprises, has at the same time sought to maintain what is commonly called the 'Open Door' policy . . .

"While the Government of the United States will in no way commit itself to any recognition of the exclusive rights of any power within or control over any portion of the Chinese empire . . . it cannot conceal its apprehensions that there is danger of complications arising between the treaty powers which may imperil the rights insured to the United States by its treaties with China."

Further, John Hay wrote:

"It is the sincere desire of my government that the interests of its citizens may not be prejudiced through exclusive treatment by any of the controlled powers within their respective 'spheres of interest' in China and it hopes to retain there an open market for all the world's commerce, remove dangerous sources of international irritation, and thereby hasten united action of the powers at Peking to promote administrative reforms so greatly needed for strengthening the imperial government and maintaining the integrity of China, in which it believes the whole Western world is alike concerned . . ."

The Open Door policy was aimed at Russia, which was then engaged in the conquest of Manchuria. This issue came to a head during the Boxer Rebellion and John Hay on July 3, 1900, sent another note which read:

". . . We adhere to the policy initiated by us in 1857, of peace with the Chinese nation, of furtherance of lawful commerce, and of protection of lives and property of our citizens by all means guaranteed under extraterritorial treaty rights and by the law of nations. . . . The policy of the Government of the United States is to . . . bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese empire."

It is not possible here to go into all the details of the attempts of Russia to steal Manchuria — all of which were thwarted by the United States. Mention need only be made of the Washington Conference (1921) presided over by Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, at which China's integrity was guaranteed by the then nine principal powers, the United States, Belgium, Great Britain, China, France, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, and Portugal. Russia was not invited to the conference.

This policy the United States reiterated at Cairo (1943) but renounced at Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945). Instead, the United States facilitated the conquest of China by Soviet Russia.

Two Questions

By MARK SULLIVAN

AT ISSUE in the great debate are two questions. One is in the area of purpose, objective —for what purpose do our troops fight in Korea, and what is the best method for attaining that purpose? It is about this that Gen. MacArthur and President Truman differ.

The other question deals with the reason our troops are in Korea, how did it come about that they are there? A broad and obvious answer is that it came about through the fall of China to Russian communism. Associated with this is a question about whether and to what extent the Truman Administration policy about China contributed to the fall. As to this there is light in a sentence which Secretary of Defense Marshall spoke in the Senate committee hearings last Tuesday. What he said had the convincingness of personal experience.

In 1945 there was civil strife in China, the long-existing Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek was under attack by a minority group. The minority group was described by persons who sympathized with it as "agrarian reformers." Those who opposed it held that it or those dominant in it were Communist. Which was the correct designation goes to the heart of the Truman Administration policy about China.

Marshall Followed Direction

To bring about truce between the two groups, President Truman, in December, 1945, sent Marshall to China as his special representative. He remained in China for a year. It was in the light of this experience that he answered a question by Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire in the Senate committe hearings. Sen. Bridges' question included a statement that "many of the officials of the State Department at that time were saying that the Chinese Communists were merely agrarian reformers." To this Secretary Marshall replied ". . . When I got up to China and looked from the very start . . . there was no doubt that the leadership of this group was Marxist Communists, and so stated in my presence, and insisted in my presence, that they were." This negates the idea that the group were agrarian reformers.

Knowing this, Marshall nevertheless followed the direction he had received from Washington. He urged Chiang Kai-shek to take the Communist-dominated group into an integrated or coalition government. He could make no progress. But the action was noted to the Chinese people and the world that the United States no longer supported the Chiang Kai-shek government as it had during the war. The withdrawal of support was literal, the military and economic aid we had been giving the Nationalist government was suspended. The whole of our attitude and actions was destructive to Chiang Kai-shek's government and gave encouragement to the Communist group. It progressed from step to step and in 1949 became the Communist government of China which now makes war on us.

Intended To Mislead

Throughout all this there remains enigma. Who was it, in the Administration or the State Department or having influence in the situation that made the policy toward China and what were the reasons for the course we took? The enigma is increased by the fact that the leaders of the Communist group hated and reviled the United States. This condition was recited by Secretary Marshall in 1947, in an official report he wrote after he had returned from China. Speaking of propaganda put out at that time by the Chinese Communist leaders he said: "I wish to say to the American people that in the deliberate misrepresentation and abuse of . . . our government this propaganda has been without regard for the truth . . . and has given plain evidence of a determined purpose to mislead the Chinese people and the world and to arouse a bitter hatred of Americans."

Reasons and justifications for our China policy have been put forward, some of them officially, and in the main ex post facto. One was that there was inefficiency and corruption within the Nationalist government, that it was destined to fail, that taking over by the Communists was inevitable. Based on this, the theory was that it would be wise for the United States to be friendly toward the Communist group and thus keep them from becoming a satellite of Russia. Of the vanity of that theory, the proof is now taking place in Korea.

The fall of China to communism is one of the great disasters of history, with the train of consequences hardly more than beginning. It is impossible that such a tragedy to us should pass without searching inquiry into the causes. These are infinitely far-reaching and much evidence is already in and more is likely to emerge from the present Senate committee hearings. While these were set off by President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur, later hearings are likely to go deep into the history of the Truman Administration policy about China and the Far East.

W.A. Douglas Wins Spring Bridge Series

Albert D. Heacox, president of the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club reports that, "by a superb finish on the last 21 boards in Thursday nights play, William A. Douglas won first place honors in the new Spring series." Richard Schwab and Robert Dezen, who were leading at the start of play, finished second and third respectively. Clyde J. Rowe was fourth.

The series was a tremendous success, Mr. Heacox said last night, stating that a total of 356 persons played in the entire six matches.

Thursday night there were two sections A and B with a total of 68 players. In Section A a Streight seven table Mitchell Movement was used. North and South first place winners were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Taylor; second place, Mrs. Ralph Nevy and Miss Julia Jackson; third place Miss Rose Jackson and Mrs. Fred Puderbaugh; East and West first place winners were Nelson Moraine and Don Elrich; second place was a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shearer, Keyser, and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ward.

A special match will be held May 17 in which partners were drawn and will play together for the first time. Any player who has not contacted his partner is requested to do so at once. But in case it is impossible to arrange to play with the partner drawn they are asked to attend and be given another partner.

Mr. Heacox says every effort is being made to make next Thursday nights session the largest and most successful of the season, and cooperation of all players is needed. A special prize will be given the pair finishing with the highest percentage in the entire field.

A special invitation to all Cumberland players has been received from the Uniontown Bridge Club to attend its annual Tri-State Tournament at the White Swan Hotel, Uniontown, at 7:30, May 18 and continue through the 19th and 20th. Players intending to attend are asked to phone Mr. Heacox at 4808 or 4263.

Here are hair-glamorizing tricks to help you look your loveliest on special occasions between hair sets!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE quickest way to increase your after-five glamor is by your hair style. It is a snap to do, no matter how inexpert you are at arranging your tresses. As the models will tell you, awkwardness with hair easily can be put to flight with just a few tricks and plenty of determination.

Quick Glamor

The very next time you are caught between sets and want your hair to appear freshly set, try one of the following methods and you'll be sure of accomplishing this coup: If your hair is dry or normal, brush it until every strand is separated. Then rub a sparing amount of pompade or brilliantine between your palms and work it well into your scalp with your finger tips. Next, shine the surface lengths of hair with your palms, as if you were polishing a table. Now, with as few strokes and as little fussing as possible, brush your waves and curls into place.

Is your hair oily? Using a clean piece of cotton, rub your scalp with one of the new hair fresheners or a tonic for your type of hair. Lacking either of these, use a light cologne. Be careful not to disarrange your hair more than absolutely necessary. Try to avoid dampening your waves and curls. Let the lotion dry undisturbed. Then "squeeze" your head for a second or two with a dry, clean, absorbent towel to take up surface oil. Next, brush your hair with long, even strokes that start at the scalp and move down to the ends of your hair. Lastly, arrange your hair with the brush.

The results of these home techniques will be most gratifying. For a glamor fillip on an extra-special evening, make an ornament for your hair, using one of these Powers Girl ideas:

For a chignon arrangement, clip a long spray of ivy, polish its leaves and wreath it around your knot; wire magnolia, lemon or gardenia leaves into a fan to tuck behind your ear; twine multi-colored velvet ribbons into your knot as you arrange it.

For short hair, make a chignon of seasonal fresh or artificial flowers and secure it behind your ears with grip combs; clip pastel wings at your temples; stud your head with tiny bows, flowers or leaves attached to invisible hairpins.

Originate a trick or two of your own—then bask in the compliments that come your way!

A Frank Statement from A&P about BREAD

Almost Any Loaf of Bread You Buy Today Is a Good Loaf of Bread

Today's bread — made from enriched flour — is one of the best and least expensive sources of food energy you can buy. But bear in mind before you buy, that all breads are not the same. Quality of ingredients . . . baking methods . . . nutritional value are all vital factors you should know about in order to make the best choice for you and your family. It's smart to pick and choose when you buy bread.

A&P's MARVEL Bread Is Unsurpassed By Any Other Bread Among America's 10 Leading Brands

Unsurpassed for Flavor . . . because Marvel's specially rich formula calls for more expensive flour and the best quality ingredients obtainable.

Unexcelled for Softness . . . because Marvel is carefully blended and baked to give you the tender lightness of bread at its fine, fresh best. Marvel is baked and delivered fresh daily. The famous freshness date on every Marvel wrapper is your guarantee of absolutely fresh bread. Remember — when freshness fades, flavor fades.

Unbeatable for Value . . . because, penny for penny, no other bread among America's 10 leading brands gives you more for your money than Marvel.

We make no exaggerated claims for Marvel Bread. We use no secret process to produce it. Marvel goodness and freshness spring only from the use of finest ingredients, properly blended, and baked as carefully as you would bake at home.

But . . . Penny for Penny You Get More Nutritional Value in A&P's MARVEL Bread

Yes . . . for every penny you spend on Marvel bread, you get more nourishment than from any other bread among America's 10 leading brands. Marvel contains more body-building protein. More vitamins and minerals essential to the growth of children. More iron. More energy-producing calories and carbohydrates. And the enrichment benefits in every loaf of Marvel bread always exceed government requirements.

Reach For MARVEL—It's So Good Not One Of America's 10 Leading Brands Tops It—Or Double Your Money Back

We'll gladly give you double your money back, if you don't agree that no other bread among America's 10 leading brands offers a finer, fresher, more nutritious bread, and better value, than quality-rich Marvel Bread. Today — reach for Marvel — bread at its fresh, delicious best.

MacARTHUR —MAN OF ACTION

By FRANK KELLEY and CORNELIUS RYAN

9. MacArthur and the Russians

The three-power conference at Yalta early in 1945, "marked the high tide of British, Russian and American cooperation on the war and the post-war settlement." So said the late Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., then Secretary of State. Many American newspapers echoed him. And that was understandable. East and West had shed their blood against Hitler. We were comrades at arms; we would never be comrades in arms.

An intended song that was never fully written or performed at one of the recent Gridiron Dinners in Washington would have had the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, cigaret-holder and all, on the stage and phrasing these opening lyrics to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart":

Yalta, Yalta, Yalta,
Winston, Joe and I
Yalta, Yalta, Yalta
Just a Russian lull-a-bye!

That, of course, was a hindsight view—but rather acute—of the situation that the United States and Great Britain handed to Douglas MacArthur and in the emotional flush of victory.

In 1943 Stalin said Russia would go to war against Japan. He said so to Cordell Hull, then Secretary of State. He said the same thing to President Roosevelt and to Winston Churchill at Teheran. A year later he repeated it to Churchill, W Averell Harriman, and others. Three months after Germany's defeat, said Stalin, Russia would be in against Japan . . . provided there had been an agreement with China.

Not until the Yalta talks were half over did Stettinius learn at second hand from Harriman and from Harry Hopkins—in effect the "number-two President"—that Russia's entry into the Japanese war had even been discussed. Stettinius wrote that he then asked President Roosevelt whether there was anything that the State Department should pursue about the Japanese question. President Roosevelt said it was primarily a military matter.

The next thing that the Secretary of State knew, the Yalta agreement was out. Russia agreed to enter the war against Japan on several conditions.

Russian Benefits

The status quo in Outer Mongolia was to be preserved—to Russia's advantage.

Avenging the Russian defeat at Japan's hands in 1904, Russia would get Sakhalin, Dairen, Port Arthur, and effective control over the Chinese-Eastern and South Manchurian railroad.

Russia would also get the Kuril islands, pointed like a dagger at the heart of Japan.

The Yalta bargain on Japan was secret—top secret. It was rushed to Washington and put into President Roosevelt's personal safe. Stettinius never saw it. It may prove to have been the greatest single argument against secret covenants secretly arrived at. Not even the Chinese were told about it; but, then, they were always sort of a fifth wheel among the "Big Five."

Mr. Stettinius has made it clear that the Yalta deal on Japan was dictated by military considerations. Secretary of War Stimson related that the United States would have thrown 5,000,000 men, soldiers, sailors, and airmen, against Japan in the final invasion and fully expected casualties on the order of 1,000,000. Hence any help was welcome.

A few months later Russia hedged on those parts of the Yalta agreement that related to the Balkans. Our military again advised patience, wrote Mr. Stettinius, lest Russia's entry against Japan be endangered. Japan was believed to be very strong in Manchuria, where Russian troops would engage the Japanese, yet at Yalta, China was to keep Manchuria. Mr. Stettinius says that the President did not agreed to after Yalta, by American nor did he agree to Russia's entry into Northern Korea. "Actually," Mr. Stettinius wrote, "Russian entrance into Northern Korea was agree dto after Yalta, by American military authorities as part of the taking of the surrender of Japanese troops."

The Russians bagged upwards of 400,000 Japanese troops in Korea and Manchuria, many of them in crack units that had been ready for a tough fight against the Reds when Hirohito figuratively blew the whistle that ended the war.

And the issue of the Jap prisoners of war was to become one of the stumbling blocks to any cooperation between Douglas MacArthur and the Russians in the occupation of Japan.

MacArthur was under no illusions about the Reds when he became supreme commander for the Allies. Just as he used to talk during World War I of "the Boche," he now began to talk of "the Muscovite bulging his muscles and lusting for power." No doubt he had also heard of the reports that there had been sharp words between Foreign Secretary Molotov and Averell Harriman over MacArthur's projected appointment. The official Russian news agency, Tass, found it necessary to deny this and said that Russia favored a control council for Japan made up of Russian, American, Chinese, and British representatives with an American as permanent chairman. Stalin is reported to have reminded Harriman that if the United States had an overriding interest in Japan, it was parallel to Soviet interest in the Balkan states.

The Russians accepted MacArthur, but they flatly refused to send any occupation troops to Japan because they would have been subject to his over-all authority. They tried hard to send a force with a Russian general as their only boss, but it did not work.

MacArthur made it plain, too, that the Allied Council for Japan and the Far Eastern Commission in Washington were going to be purely advisory to him. His headquarters had not been kept informed in advance of the setting up of these agencies and of the exact limits of their jurisdiction, and it was understandable that MacArthur, through a spokesman, put out word in Tokyo that if he wasn't going to be the Supreme Commander in fact as well as in name, he was going to "quit and go home." MacArthur had no intention of sitting around Tokyo as a super military policeman while someone else, presumably diplomats in striped pants, sent him orders.

MacArthur kept the council busy and in its place. Its sessions were held at a round, well-polished table in the Meiji Building, not far from the Dai Ichi Building in which he had his own headquarters. The council met about twice a month for an all-day session that was interrupted only for lunch.

At the fifth council session in Tokyo, MacArthur, playing things expertly by ear, threw the members into a tizzy by suddenly asking their opinion on urgent problems. MacArthur would continue to seek the council's advice by laying important matters before them "in a growing number if this does not overburden the council." These 17 items were a terrible strain on the redheaded interpreter who served the Russian delegate.

The top Russian on the council was Lt.-Gen. Derevyanko. He was a great needler of MacArthur when he could get close to the General. But MacArthur caught his beautifully one day: American military policemen picked up the Russian for reckless driving. Derevyanko was released when his identity was established, but in Russian fashion he rushed a demand to MacArthur for an apology. MacArthur asked the M. P. "Was the Russian violating the law?"

"Yes, sir!" replied the M. P.

"Then you can tell him," declared MacArthur, "there will be no apology."

Derevyanko is said to have asked: "Did MacArthur say that?" He was assured. Slapping his leg, the Russian roared gleefully:

"What a man!"

From time to time the Far Eastern Commission in Washington—with 11 members, not four as in Tokyo, sitting around the table—would respectfully ask MacArthur to send a liaison officer from his command. This, said MacArthur could not be done because the supreme commander "has given his personal attention to this question and there is no officer in a position to express in detail his views."

At one point, the Far Eastern Commission stated publicly that there was "no effort, either by the Far Eastern Commission or the United States government, to take issue with Gen. MacArthur.

Russian Embassy Grows

The Russian Embassy was quite a place. Derevyanko arrived late in 1945 with a nominal staff of 60. This grew to 83 within a month. Within a year, there were 450 Russians at the Embassy. This was just about four times as many American officials as occupy the United States Embassy today; it was about the same number of officials the Russians maintain within the United States today, ostensibly diplomats most of them engaged in military and commercial espionage, in propaganda work, and in contacting members of the Communist "underground," who are kept supplied with dollars and ideas. (In contrast, too, the British started off with a staff of 20 in Tokyo and hardly ever went over 35).

MacArthur, in dealing with Russians, was unlikely to forget this. In Japan, and even at the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow in December, 1945, the Russians ran off a film entitled "Defeat of Japan." Naturally, it showed that Russia had won the war in the Pacific single-handed. Worst of all, the end of the film showed a Russian general on the Missouri accepting the Japanese surrender aboard an unidentified battle ship. MacArthur, Halsey, Wainwright and the other "brass" in the background had been carefully "blacked out" by an expert Soviet film technician who must have had to do it frame by frame on the celluloid.

"Well," remarked one of the Americans who saw the newsreel in Moscow, "our hosts have done what no one else could—crowded Douglas MacArthur into the wings."

Derevyanko would ask, "How about the progress in destruction of Japanese armaments and war materiel?" MacArthur always had an answer for that one. "A complete report is impossible because five letters to the Russian delegate asking for information on the disposition of Japanese troops and equipment in Russian-occupied areas have gone unanswered."

The Russians, of course, were indoctrinating their Japanese captives and sending them back to Japan piecemeal as excellent propagandists. The captured Japanese equipment is to some extent being used against us in Korea today.

In January, 1950, the Russians walked out of the council rather than discuss the fate of the Japanese prisoners of war. The American delegate, William J. Sebald, who by then had replaced the late Mr. Atcheson read a note that Secretary of State Dean Acheson had just handed to the Russian Ambassador in Washington.

Still Useful Issue

The note asked Moscow to agree to an impartial inquiry into the fate of the prisoners of war. It recalled that Tass, the Soviet news agency, had reported in May, 1949, that only 95,000 Japanese remained in Russian hands. It cited official Japanese government figures that 376,929 Japanese soldiers were still in Russian areas. There the matter rests. It is still a useful issue to raise in Japan from time to time against the Russians.

MacArthur really blew his top against the Rusisans when Derevyanko, on orders from Moscow wrote a letter charging MacArthur with sitting idly by while the Japanese government balked democratization of the country and was crushing human rights by police brutality. This was on June 13, 1949—one Jap had been killed in small riots around Tokyo city hall.

Departing from his usual practice of ignoring Derevyanko's letters as propaganda, MacArthur accused Russia of inciting disorder and violence in otherwise peaceful Japan. He called Derevyanko's letter "thorough duplicity" and "inconsistent demagoguery."

Derevyanko played an endless variety of critical themes against the occupation. He assailed the land reform bill. He claimed that the Americans were secretly reviving the Japanese army by expanding the police force. He demanded that MacArthur round up and destroy all Fascist books and pamphlets in Japan.

But even Derevyanko grudgingly admitted that the had "no doubt that there is some success in the progress of the democratization of Japan."

Derevyanko slammed in 22 recommendations on the handling of Japanese labor. MacArthur batted the mall back. "We are not pledged," he said, "to further communism in Japan."

He was solidly backed by Secretary of State Acheson.

In June of this year MacArthur rammed home one more shot: he banned the Red paper Akahata for 30 days for its sinister propaganda. In July with the Korean conflict going full blast he told the Japanese government to maintain the ban indefinitely.

Last January's elections to the Diet were, in MacArthur's words, "a contest between MacArthur and Stalin." MacArthur won.

MacARTHUR —MAN OF ACTION

By FRANK KELLEY and CORNELIUS RYAN

9. MacArthur and the Russians

The three-power conference at Yalta early in 1945, "marked the high tide of British, Russian and American cooperation on the war and the post-war settlement." So said the late Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., then Secretary of State. Many American newspapers echoed him. And that was understandable. East and West had shed their blood against Hitler. We were comrades at arms; we would never be comrades in arms.

An intended song that was never fully written or performed at one of the recent Gridiron Dinners in Washington would have had the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, cigaret-holder and all, on the stage and phrasing these opening lyrics to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart":

87 Boy Scouts Are Advanced By Potomac Council

Troop Membership Shows An Increase

Eighty-seven members of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America received advancements during the first quarter of 1951, the district advancement committee's report at the last executive board meeting of the council showed. In addition 73 merit badges also were awarded council scouts during the period, Victor D. Heisey, chairman of the committee, revealed.

This number was 8.3 per cent of the 1,042 members of the Boy Scout Council now actively participating in 44 troops and 19 cub packs in the area.

City Has 423 Scouts

Cumberland has 423 scouts of which 39 received advancements during the quarter just passed. Thirteen merit badges also were granted to Cumberland scouts, the report showed.

Sixty-four of the advancements were to Second Class scouts, 16 to First Class, six to Star and one Life. No Eagle scouts were named during the three-months period.

Altogether the council has 606 Tenderfoot scouts, 339 second class, 97 first class and above. These 1,042 boys are in Boy Scout and Explorer troops while in addition there are 19 cub packs with 485 members.

The boy scouts and explorers are divided according to age with all youths over 14 years becoming explorers. Those 11 to 13 are classified boy scouts and all between 9 and 11 are cubs.

58 Per Cent Tenderfoot

Fifty-eight per cent of the scouts and explorers are tenderfoot class, 33 per cent are second class and 9 per cent are first class and above.

The March membership report also noted that scouting in the council has increased greatly in the past year. There were 14 cub packs in March 1950 with 415 members. There are now 19 packs and 485 members. In March of last year there were 35 troops in the council with 867 participants as compared with 44 now and 1,042.

Cumberland and Mountain districts of the council showed the largest increase with the former having a jump of 86 scouts from 337 last year to 423 now. The Mountain district jumped from 61 to 145 over the same period.

Altold, there are six districts in the council including Tri-Towns New Creek, Deep Creek and South Branch in addition to Cumberland and Mountain districts.

New Creek cub packs had the greatest increase in the council during the past year. Two new packs have been formed there in the 12 months' period with 42 additional members. The New Creek scout and explorer total dropped from 98 in 1950 to 89 in 1951.

Tri-Towns district has the second largest number of scouts other than Cumberland with 230 members and 53 cubs.

In the New Creek district there is a Senior Explorer group exclusive of all other scout troops and has 19 members. It is sponsored by the Grace Methodist Church of Keyser, W. Va., which is the only organization to sponsor all three branches of the scouting orgfianization, cubs, boy scouts and explorers scouts.

A new troop also has been added to the Tri-Towns district sponsored by Beryl, W. Va., Presbyterian Church. Formed last month the group has 12 members and is numbered Troop No. 67.

The Scoutmaster is John W. Whisner, assistant, Ralph W. Moyer, chairman of the troop committee, J. W. Fazenbaker, and troop committeemen are Marshall E. Bothwell and Charles Metcalf.

Officials Visit Training School

High school principals and supervisors in the Allegany County public school system have returned from a one-day visit at the Maryland Training School for Boys at Loch Raven, where they learned at first hand what is being offered there and what improvements still are needed.

The school officials left Cumberland early Thursday morning and returned that night.

Apparently, they were in rather general agreement that the school, although overcrowded, is kept clean and the boys are well fed. More than 400 Maryland boys are now being kept at the school, including 17 from Allegany County.

All of the Allegany County boys were committed there from Juvenile Court. None was sent there directly by school officials.

Most of the officials who visited Loch Raven seemed to feel that the state probably could effectively spend more money to give Superintendent Elbert L. Fletcher better personnel in operating the school. They believe that the vocational education program could stand much improvement.

87 Boy Scouts Are Advanced By Potomac Council

Troop Membership Shows An Increase

Eighty-seven members of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America received advancements during the first quarter of 1951, the district advancement committee's report at the last executive board meeting of the council showed. In addition 73 merit badges also were awarded council scouts during the period, Victor D. Heisey, chairman of the committee, revealed.

This number was 8.3 per cent of the 1,042 members of the Boy Scout Council now actively participating in 44 troops and 19 cub packs in the area.

City Has 423 Scouts

Cumberland has 423 scouts of which 39 received advancements during the quarter just passed. Thirteen merit badges also were granted to Cumberland scouts, the report showed.

Sixty-four of the advancements were to Second Class scouts, 16 to First Class, six to Star and one Life. No Eagle scouts were named during the three-months period.

Altogether the council has 606 Tenderfoot scouts, 339 second class, 97 first class and above. These 1,042 boys are in Boy Scout and Explorer troops while in addition there are 19 cub packs with 485 members.

The boy scouts and explorers are divided according to age with all youths over 14 years becoming explorers. Those 11 to 13 are classified boy scouts and all between 9 and 11 are cubs.

58 Per Cent Tenderfoot

Fifty-eight per cent of the scouts and explorers are tenderfoot class, 33 per cent are second class and 9 per cent are first class and above.

The March membership report also noted that scouting in the council has increased greatly in the past year. There were 14 cub packs in March 1950 with 415 members. There are now 19 packs and 485 members. In March of last year there were 35 troops in the council with 867 participants as compared with 44 now and 1,042.

Cumberland and Mountain districts of the council showed the largest increase with the former having a jump of 86 scouts from 337 last year to 423 now. The Mountain district jumped from 61 to 145 over the same period.

Altold, there are six districts in the council including Tri-Towns New Creek, Deep Creek and South Branch in addition to Cumberland and Mountain districts.

New Creek cub packs had the greatest increase in the council during the past year. Two new packs have been formed there in the 12 months' period with 42 additional members. The New Creek scout and explorer total dropped from 98 in 1950 to 89 in 1951.

Tri-Towns district has the second largest number of scouts other than Cumberland with 230 members and 53 cubs.

In the New Creek district there is a Senior Explorer group exclusive of all other scout troops and has 19 members. It is sponsored by the Grace Methodist Church of Keyser, W. Va., which is the only organization to sponsor all three branches of the scouting orgfianization, cubs, boy scouts and explorers scouts.

A new troop also has been added to the Tri-Towns district sponsored by Beryl, W. Va., Presbyterian Church. Formed last month the group has 12 members and is numbered Troop No. 67.

The Scoutmaster is John W. Whisner, assistant, Ralph W. Moyer, chairman of the troop committee, J. W. Fazenbaker, and troop committeemen are Marshall E. Bothwell and Charles Metcalf.

Officials Visit Training School

High school principals and supervisors in the Allegany County public school system have returned from a one-day visit at the Maryland Training School for Boys at Loch Raven, where they learned at first hand what is being offered there and what improvements still are needed.

The school officials left Cumberland early Thursday morning and returned that night.

Apparently, they were in rather general agreement that the school, although overcrowded, is kept clean and the boys are well fed. More than 400 Maryland boys are now being kept at the school, including 17 from Allegany County.

All of the Allegany County boys were committed there from Juvenile Court. None was sent there directly by school officials.

Most of the officials who visited Loch Raven seemed to feel that the state probably could effectively spend more money to give Superintendent Elbert L. Fletcher better personnel in operating the school. They believe that the vocational education program could stand much improvement.

Ferrier Holds 3-Stroke Edge In Greenbrier

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Jim Ferrier of San Francisco pulled away to a three-stroke lead at the half-way point of the 72-hole Greenbrier Open today by finishing with a burst of three straight birdies.

He slowed down compared to yesterday's 64 but again beat par by three strokes with a 67, the lowest score posted on the second 18. This gave him a 36-hole total of 131.

It put him three up on Sam Snead, his closest pursuer among the 30 pros playing the "Old White" course. Snead also had a 67 for the second straight day over his home course.

Ben Hogan, defending titleholder, moved into third place by shooting a 69 in back of a starting 68, for 137. Only three others bettered par. Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Al Brosch of Garden City, L. I., each had 68 and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., turned in a 69.

Turnesa and Brosch were tied with Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., with 138 and Boros was deadlocked next with Clarence Doser of Scarsdale, N. Y., at 139.

U. S. Walker Cup Team Grabs 2-0 Lead In Britain

Halve Two Foursomes, Eight Singles Today

BIRKDALE, Eng., May 11 (INS)—United States golfers rallied brilliantly today to sweep two scotch foursomes and halve two others in Walker Cup play with Britain on the sunny, windswept old Birkdale course.

The Americans — led by their 37-year-old captain, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and national amateur champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester—gained a 2-0 lead in their bid for their 12th victory in 13 cup matches.

Eight singles matches tomorrow finish the competition, and today's outcome makes the stars and stripes a prohibitive favorite.

But the United States had to work for everything it achieved tomatches at the 18-hole mark and the fourth was squared.

Turnesa, Urzetta Win

Turnesa, wily former U. S. and British amateur champion, and the youthful Urzetta salvaged the most important victory in the match the Americans feared most they would lose.

One down after 18 holes and all even after 27, Turnesa and Urzetta won five straight on the incoming nine with a spectacular series of two birdies, an eagle and two pars to defeat 1946 British amateur champ Jim Bruen and ex-professional John Morgan, 5 and 4.

Veteran Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Bob Knowles of Boston scored the other triumph one up, over Alex Kyle and Ian Caldwell.

The halves were achieved by the American pairs of Frank Stranahan-Bill Campbell and Charles Coe-Jim McHale.

Stranahan and Campbell came all the way from down at the end of 18 against Ronnie White and Joe Carr — only Britons to win a match last year. The Toledo, O., strongboy—who holds the British amateur title—and the former state assemblyman from Huntington, W. Va., were forced to settle for a standoff when they bogied the par-three 35th hole.

Coe, the 1949 U. S. amateur champion from Oklahoma City, and his Philadelphia partner came the closest to defeat. With British veterans John Langley and Cecil Ewing dormie one up, Langley cracked a spoon shot into a ditch and the Americans won the final hole.

White and Carr shot the most consistent golf of the day against Stranahan and Campbell, making the double tour of the 6,843-yard-pocked course in 72-75-147, one down at noon to hit a four-under-par 70 in the homestretch.

Today's Pairings

Tomorrow's pairings find ex-British titleholder Max MacCready subbing for Bruen and Harold Paddock of Cleveland and replacing Knowles. McKay And Conley Post High Averages In City Dux Loop

Eddie Records 172.7 And "Pie" Has 170.6; League Dinner Sunday

Eddie McKay of Spa Bar and Ed "Pie" Conley of Club Recreation were the high average bowlers in the Men's City League for the 1950-51 season and will receive awards at the league's annual dinner and dance Sunday at the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall.

The dinner will get under way at 6:30 followed by the dance starting at 9.

McKay pace the American Division of the league by spilling 12,097 maples in 70 gave for an average 172.7. John Bender turned in an average of 182.2 in the same circuit but was only in 46 games. To qualify for the prizes a bowler had to compete in 56 or two-thirds of the 84 games.

Billy Sites of the Diamond earned the high game prize with a score of 296. Bender and Cecil Grimes turned in sets of 715 and 629 but they were not eligible for the prizes because they lacked the necessary games. McKay had a 655 but he was entitled to only one prize. This award goes to Tom Dentinger who was in 73 games and posted a 615 set.

Conley is the only bowler in each division of the league to participate in all of the 84 games. He topped the National Division with an average of 170.6, topping 14,335 pins.

Fred Cimmino of Harbaugh's qualified for the National's high game prize by posting a 265. Tom McGeady of the Club turned in a 628 for high set. The averages:

Cartier Beats Gene Hairston

Gets Split Decision In Scrap At Garden

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS)—Walter Cartier, knocked down for a nine count in each of the first two rounds, bounced back like a rubber band tonight to win an upset split decision from middleweight contender Gene Hairston in the 10-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden.

Getting stronger and stronger as the first progressed, Cartier floored his favored foe in the final round, and the count on Hairston had reached eight when the bell ended the fight.

Despite the finish and the fact that he ordered three rounds taken away from Hairston, deaf mute swinger from the Bronx, Referee Mark Conn still voted him the winner, five rounds to four with one even.

However, Judge Harold Barnes voted 5-4-1 the other way, and Judge Bill Healey made it 6-4 in favor of Cartier, young Manhattan hopeful. Hairston, a 7-5 favorite, weighed 161 pounds to Cartier's 160.

It was the second meeting between the pair, and Cartier's second victory over Hairston.

Jockey R. J. Martin Starts Suspension, Riles Is Reinstated

BALTIMORE, May 11 (AP) — A ten year suspension started today for Jockey Robert J. Martin-accused of betting against his own horse — and one of six years ended for Jockey Scott D. Riles who was involved in a "fix."

Martin, who had been set down 26 times in six years as a jockey, was charged with betting on a horse, other than his own mount, last April 10. The Maryland Racing Commission held a hearing yesterday, then decided, after all his previous suspensions, Martin should have learned the rules, and suspended him for 10 years.

His agent, Chick Lang, had his licenses suspended indefinitely.

Today marked the return to racing for Jockey Riles. He was ruled off Maryland tracks indefinitely in 1945 for helping to "fix a steeplechase race at Pimlico on Nov. 30 of that year.

Testimony at the time showed the fix occurred when a New Yorker identified as "John" offered to bet $2,500 for the jockeys of Mamie's Lad if the favorite, Gala Reigh, was pulled.

Riles is the third jocky of those involved to be returned to the saddle.

Twelve To Start In Gallant Fox Handicap Today

Greek Ship, Cochise Head Classy Field

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS) — Twelve colts and fillies were named today to start in the $60,000 added Gallant Fox Handicap at a mile and three sixteenths at Jamaica tomorrow.

Rain today made it certain there will be a muddy track for the race tomorrow which means that at least one horse will be scratched.

Three Rings, a colt which never sticks his head out of the stable if the track is the least bit off, never starts unless the going is lightning fast.

Greek Ship and Cochise, high weights in the field at 126 pounds, probably will be co-favorites. Greek Ship will have the peerless Eddie Arcaro in the saddle while Orvie Scurlock will ride Cochise.

The manner in which the weights are published makes this take as wide open as the Kentucky Derby was. But turf experts agree it is a far classier field than the one which raced in the Derby.

If all 12 start, the race will have a gross value of $71,400, of which the winner's share will be $49,700.

The field, with weights and jockeys follows:

(a) Renew	105	Green
Thelma Berger	105	Stuart
Lotowhite	116	McCreary
Steel Blue	109	Mehrtens
Lone Eagle	108	No Boy
Cochise	126	Scurlock
First Nighter	102	Wall
(a) On The Mark	107	Green
Three Rings	123	Atkinson
County Delight	119	Guerin
Palestinian	123	No Boy
Greek Ship	126	Arcaro

Bruce, Beall Clash Today

Dates Set For Other Postponed Contests

Rain washed out the Bruce-Beall baseball game at Frostburg yesterday but an effort will be made to play the game today at 2 o'clock at Beall High Field, Coach Ed Finzel of the Mountaineers, announced last night.

Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw ace, and Bobby Raines, Bruce righthander, are expected to be on the firing line. Both are undefeated.

Beall leads the Bi-State Conference with a 6-0 record. Bruce holds second place with four wins and two defeats.

Barton High School's game with LaSalle High School, rained out yesterday, has been rescheduled for Monday at 4 p. m. in Barton.

The Central-Hyndman tilt has been reset for Thursday, May 17, at 4 p. m. at the Midland Ball Park.

All Central home games will be played at Midand at 4 p. m. for the remainder of the schedule instead of the Lonaconing ball park which is being dug up for the construction of the new Lonaconing school.

Bruce will play Central at Midland on Tuesday, May 15 at 4 p. m.

The Keyser-Romney and Circleville-Petersburg games in the Potomac Valley Conference also were rained out yesterday.

Top Woman Rider Pilots Winner In Powderpuff Derby

BALTIMORE, May 11 (AP)—Mrs. Wantha Davis, the nation's top woman jockey, rode The Procurator to a 12-length victory today in the Pimlico Powderpuff Derby.

The pretty brunette from Duncan, Okla., handled her mount flawlessly in the special race for women riders, climaxing the Pimlico Ladies Day program.

Mrs. Davis, a 32-year-old farm housewife who rides as a hobby, had little trouble from her leading rival, Joyce Goldschmidt of Baltimore. Miss Goldschmidt's mount, Sagahash, was outclassed and finished last in the six-horse field.

Short circuit with Betty Bosley up was second in the mile-and-sixteenth even and Rustum, ridden by Mrs. Charles R. Lewis, was third.

There was no betting on the powderpuff, but trophies were given to Mrs. Davis and the winning owner-trainer, B. Frank Christmas.

Snead's 134 Is 2nd At The Halfway Mark

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 11 (AP)—Jim Ferrier of San Francisco pulled away to a three-stroke lead at the half-way point of the 72-hole Greenbrier Open today by finishing with a burst of three straight birdies.

He slowed down compared to yesterday's 64 but again beat par by three strokes with a 67, the lowest score posted on the second 18. This gave him a 36-hole total of 131.

It put him three up on Sam Snead, his closest pursuer among the 30 pros playing the "Old White" course. Snead also had a 67 for the second straight day over his home course.

Ben Hogan, defending titleholder, moved into third place by shooting a 69 in back of a starting 68, for 137. Only three others bettered par. Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Al Brosch of Garden City, L. I., each had 68 and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., turned in a 69.

Turnesa and Brosch were tied with Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., with 138 and Boros was deadlocked next with Clarence Doser of Scarsdale, N. Y., at 139.

The pros will be joined tomorrow and Sunday by 93 amateurs in pro-amateur competition. Among them will be the Duke of Windsor with a handicap of 18, the highest.

U. S. Walker Cup Team Grabs 2-0 Lead In Britain

Halve Two Foursomes, Eight Singles Today

BIRKDALE, Eng., May 11 (INS)—United States golfers rallied brilliantly today to sweep two scotch foursomes and halve two others in Walker Cup play with Britain on the sunny, windswept old Birkdale course.

The Americans — led by their 37-year-old captain, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., and national amateur champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester—gained a 2-0 lead in their bid for their 12th victory in 13 cup matches.

Eight singles matches tomorrow finish the competition, and today's outcome makes the stars and stripes a prohibitive favorite.

But the United States had to work for everything it achieved tomatches at the 18-hole mark and the fourth was squared.

Turnesa, Urzetta Win

Turnesa, wily former U. S. and British amateur champion, and the youthful Urzetta salvaged the most important victory in the match the Americans feared most they would lose.

One down after 18 holes and all even after 27, Turnesa and Urzetta won five straight on the incoming nine with a spectacular series of two birdies, an eagle and two pars to defeat 1946 British amateur champ Jim Bruen and ex-professional John Morgan, 5 and 4.

Veteran Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., and Bob Knowles of Boston scored the other triumph one up, over Alex Kyle and Ian Caldwell.

The halves were achieved by the American pairs of Frank Stranahan-Bill Campbell and Charles Coe-Jim McHale.

Stranahan and Campbell came all the way from down at the end of 18 against Ronnie White and Joe Carr — only Britons to win a match last year. The Toledo, O., strongboy—who holds the British amateur title—and the former state assemblyman from Huntington, W. Va., were forced to settle for a standoff when they bogied the par-three 35th hole.

Coe, the 1949 U. S. amateur champion from Oklahoma City, and his Philadelphia partner came the closest to defeat. With British veterans John Langley and Cecil Ewing dormie one up, Langley cracked a spoon shot into a ditch and the Americans won the final hole.

White and Carr shot the most consistent golf of the day against Stranahan and Campbell, making the double tour of the 6,843-yard-pocked course in 72-75-147, one down at noon to hit a four-under-par 70 in the homestretch.

Today's Pairings

Tomorrow's pairings find ex-British titleholder Max MacCready subbing for Bruen and Harold Paddock of Cleveland and replacing Knowles. It will be Urzetta vs. MacCready, Stranahan vs. Carr, Coe vs. White, McHale vs. Langley, Campbell vs. Ewing, Turnesa vs. Kyle, Braddock vs. Caldwell and Chapman vs. Morgan.

Bruen sprained his wrist on today's first 18 but refused a substitute suggested by Turnesa.

Moose-Centerville Game Is Postponed

Manager Joe Geatz of the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose team last night announced postponement of the Centerville-Moose game scheduled here today because no fields are available.

It was the third postponement for the Moose team which has failed to play a league game to date.

The Moose team will leave at 12:30 p. m. for its game at Moorefield.

Centerville, incidentally, was handed a double knockout this week, as its scheduled game with the Cumberland Black Sox here tomorrow also has been postponed.

McKay And Conley Post High Averages In City Dux Loop

Eddie Records 172.7 And "Pie" Has 170.6; League Dinner Sunday

Eddie McKay of Spa Bar and Ed "Pie" Conley of Club Recreation were the high average bowlers in the Men's City League for the 1950-51 season and will receive awards at the league's annual dinner and dance Sunday at the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall.

The dinner will get under way at 6:30 followed by the dance starting at 9.

McKay pace the American Division of the league by spilling 12,097 maples in 70 gave for an average 172.7. John Bender turned in an average of 182.2 in the same circuit but was only in 46 games. To qualify for the prizes a bowler had to compete in 56 or two-thirds of the 84 games.

Billy Sites of the Diamond earned the high game prize with a score of 296. Bender and Cecil Grimes turned in sets of 715 and 629 but they were not eligible for the prizes because they lacked the necessary games. McKay had a 655 but he was entitled to only one prize. This award goes to Tom Dentinger who was in 73 games and posted a 615 set.

Conley is the only bowler in each division of the league to participate in all of the 84 games. He topped the National Division with an average of 170.6, topping 14,335 pins.

Fred Cimmino of Harbaugh's qualified for the National's high game prize by posting a 265. Tom McGeady of the Club turned in a 628 for high set. The averages:

Cartier Beats Gene Hairston

Gets Split Decision In Scrap At Garden

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS)—Walter Cartier, knocked down for a nine count in each of the first two rounds, bounced back like a rubber band tonight to win an upset split decision from middleweight contender Gene Hairston in the 10-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden.

Getting stronger and stronger as the first progressed, Cartier floored his favored foe in the final round, and the count on Hairston had reached eight when the bell ended the fight.

Despite the finish and the fact that he ordered three rounds taken away from Hairston, deaf mute swinger from the Bronx, Referee Mark Conn still voted him the winner, five rounds to four with one even.

However, Judge Harold Barnes voted 5-4-1 the other way, and Judge Bill Healey made it 6-4 in favor of Cartier, young Manhattan hopeful. Hairston, a 7-5 favorite, weighed 161 pounds to Cartier's 160.

It was the second meeting between the pair, and Cartier's second victory over Hairston.

Jockey R. J. Martin Starts Suspension, Riles Is Reinstated

BALTIMORE, May 11 (AP) — A ten year suspension started today for Jockey Robert J. Martin-accused of betting against his own horse — and one of six years ended for Jockey Scott D. Riles who was involved in a "fix."

Martin, who had been set down 26 times in six years as a jockey, was charged with betting on a horse, other than his own mount, last April 10. The Maryland Racing Commission held a hearing yesterday, then decided, after all his previous suspensions, Martin should have learned the rules, and suspended him for 10 years.

His agent, Chick Lang, had his licenses suspended indefinitely.

Today marked the return to racing for Jockey Riles. He was ruled off Maryland tracks indefinitely in 1945 for helping to "fix a steeplechase race at Pimlico on Nov. 30 of that year.

Testimony at the time showed the fix occurred when a New Yorker identified as "John" offered to bet $2,500 for the jockeys of Mamie's Lad if the favorite, Gala Reigh, was pulled.

Riles is the third jocky of those involved to be returned to the saddle.

Injured Auto Racers To Receive Benefits

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Auto racing drivers injured permanently in races sanctioned by the American Automobile Association will receive lifetime disability benefits, the association announced today.

Disability benefits heretofore have been limited to $40 a week for ten weeks.

The association said the new program will continue the $40 a week payments for ten weeks and in addition provide $25 a week payments so long as the driver remains disabled.

FORT SMITH, Ark., May 11. (AP)—Defending champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth and Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., advanced to the finals of the Southern Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

They'll tangle in a 36-hile showdown tomorrow at Hardscrabble Country Club.

Miss Faulk defeated Bea McWane, Birmingham, 4 and 3.

Twelve To Start In Gallant Fox Handicap Today

Greek Ship, Cochise Head Classy Field

NEW YORK, May 11 (INS) — Twelve colts and fillies were named today to start in the $60,000 added Gallant Fox Handicap at a mile and three sixteenths at Jamaica tomorrow.

Rain today made it certain there will be a muddy track for the race tomorrow which means that at least one horse will be scratched.

Three Rings, a colt which never sticks his head out of the stable if the track is the least bit off, never starts unless the going is lightning fast.

Greek Ship and Cochise, high weights in the field at 126 pounds, probably will be co-favorites. Greek Ship will have the peerless Eddie Arcaro in the saddle while Orvie Scurlock will ride Cochise.

The manner in which the weights are distributed makes this take as wide open as the Kentucky Derby was. But turf experts agree it is a far classier field than the one which raced in the Derby.

If all 12 start, the race will have a gross value of $71,400, of which the winner's share will be $49,700.

The field, with weights and jockeys follows:

(a) Renew	106	Green
Thelma Berger	105	Stuart
Lotowhite	116	McCreary
Steel Blue	109	Mehrtens
Lone Eagle	108	No Boy
Cochise	126	Scurlock
First Nighter	102	Wall
(a) On The Mark	107	Green
Three Rings	123	Atkinson
County Delight	119	Guerin
Palestinian	123	No Boy
Greek Ship	126	Arcaro

Bruce, Beall Clash Today

Dates Set For Other Postponed Contests

Rain washed out the Bruce-Beall baseball game at Frostburg yesterday but an effort will be made to play the game today at 2 o'clock at Beall High Field, Coach Ed Finzel of the Mountaineers, announced last night.

Enardo Arnone, Beall southpaw ace, and Bobby Raines, Bruce righthander, are expected to be on the firing line. Both are undefeated.

Beall leads the Bi-State Conference with a 6-0 record. Bruce holds second place with four wins and two defeats.

Barton High School's game with LaSalle High School, rained out yesterday, has been rescheduled for Monday at 4 p. m. in Barton.

Rain washed out everything yesterday, including the city battle between Fort Hill and Allegany at Campobello and Hyndman and Central at Lonaconing.

The Central-Hyndman tilt has been reset for Thursday, May 17, at 4 p. m. at the Midland Ball Park.

All Central home games will be played at Midand at 4 p. m. for the remainder of the schedule instead of the Lonaconing ball park which is being dug up for the construction of the new Lonaconing school.

Bruce will play Central at Midland on Tuesday, May 15 at 4 p. m.

The Keyser-Romney and Circleville-Petersburg games in the Potomac Valley Conference also were rained out yesterday.

County Schools To Get State Building Fund

Members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning signed papers by which $342,650 will be obtained from the state to be used towards paying for the new schools being built.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, met with the board yesterday to have the papers executed so that the money can be obtained within the next few weeks.

Under the $20,000,000 general public assistance loan of 1949 for new schools, Allegany county is eligible for $927,180 from the state fund. The money being requested is the portion for which the county has become eligible by reason of having spent three-fourths of its total outlay for new schools. So far, the county has expended $1,027,950 for new schools.

Two large schools, one at Mt. Savage and another at Lonaconing, are in the current program. The Mt. Savage school is underway and the Lonaconing building is expected to be started soon.

Kopp said the $342,650 to be obtained from the state is an outright grant.

Both the Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools are costing well over $1,000,000 each.

Local Accountant Joins Celanese

J. Kenneth Morgan, Mastopa Drive, LaVale, a practicing certified public accountant will join the accounting department of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation May 16 as assistant plant accountant. Arthur F. Happe is plant accountant.

Morgan has transferred his local accounting practice to his Washington associate, W. Baldwin Buchanan, C.P.A., who is well known in Cumberland. Arthur Crum has been appointed resident manager of the firm, with offices at 59 Pershing Street.

Prior to establishing a business in Cumberland in 1949, Morgan worked as a public accountant with James A. Councilor and Company, Washington, taught accounting at Benjamin Franklin University, and served four and a half years in the Air Force.

Jury Is Dismissed In Preston County

R. Doyne Halbritter, Preston county, W. Va., prosecutor, announced that a petit jury has been dismissed and that no more trials would be heard on charges growing out of the dispute between the United Mine Workers and non-union coal operators in the Preston county coal fields.

Dismissal of the jury followed the dropping of felony charges by the state against four pickets who were allowed to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts.

Arnold Jennings and John Hartman were fined $100 and costs on a charge of assault and battery on Claude Lee, February 16, at the Borgman Coal Company. They were fined by Judge Harlan Calhoun, of Moorefield, sitting on the bench for Judge C. P. Wilhelm who was absent because of a death in his family.

Fined $50 and costs were Dexter Strawser and Kenneth Grimm for assault and battery, March 9, on Ressie Goff, an employe of the Tunnelton Co-operative Coal Company. Strawser and Grimm were originally indicted on the felony charge of intimidating Goff in an attempt to keep him from working.

Not identified as a picket, Clyde Shahan did not contest a charge of spreading nails on the highway and was fined $30 and costs.

Armor Coating Will Be Used In Repairing Mill Run Road

It has been decided by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to have an armor coating applied to the Mill Run Road in order to have the best surface possible.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission wrote the board regarding the cost of armor coating of a bituminous material.

Members of the board explained that surface treating by the bituminous material will seal the roadway and provide a high type thoroughfare.

Cost of the surface treating work is estimated at $4,096.30, and of this sum the federal government will pay approximately half as the Mill Run Road is being built as a federal aid project.

The Mill Run Road runs from a point near Barton towards the Garrett county line. Besides the number of coal mine companies which use the road to transport truck loads of fuel there are a number of farms and residences in the area.

Members of the board said that the cost of maintenance of this road has been so high that hard-surfacing it will save the county money in time.

Members of the board this morning also accepted the low bid of the Ankeney Company to furnish a steel filing case for use in Juvenile Court. The firm bid $79.30.

The other two bidders were the Cumberland Office Supply Company, which offered bids of $94.50 and $82, and the Marquis Company which bid $93.75.

The board also renewed the lease on the Navy and Marine Corp Reserve Armory land on McKaig's Hill.

Shortages Hit Celanese Plant

Sales of the Celanese Corporation of America for the first quarter of 1951 continued to be curtailed due to a shortage of raw materials, according to Harold Blancke, president.

He said the plant of a subsidiary, Columbia Cellulose Company Limited, commenced production on April 16, and by the second half of this year the shortage of cellulose should be considerably alleviated.

"The recent issue of convertible preferred stock in the amount of 1,000,000 shares," Blancke continued, "was successfully concluded. As part of the offerings 112,471 shares of 7 per cent second preferred stock were received on subscriptions or in exchange, leaving a balance of 35,708 shares of that issue outstanding. The first preferred stock, $4.75 series, has been called for redemption.

"The cash proceeds from the sale of the convertible preferred stock, after deducting commissions and expenses, and the value of the 7 per cent second preferred stock surrendered amounted to approximately $81,000,000. After providing for the redemption of the first preferred stock, approximately $37,000,000 was added to the company's funds."

Celanese reported net income before federal income taxes of $20,238,196 for the first quarter of 1951, compared with $17,187,886 for the same quarter in 1950. The additional federal taxes on income, however, outstripped the increase in profits and the net income after taxes, for the first quarter of 1951 was $8,285,196 against $9,856,886 for 1950.

The six-day week was made necessary due to orders for truck tires for military uses. About 600 to 650 men are affected by the longer work week. The six-day week is in force in the truck tire building, preparation, curing and finishing departments.

Citation Runs 4th On Coast

Special Touch Wins Hollywood Park Race

INGLEWOOD, May 11 (INS)—Calumet Farms' Citation failed in his attempt to add to his huge winnings today as he came in fourth in the six-furlong Premier Handicap, opening day feature of Hollywood Park's 50-day race meet.

It was the first time in his career that he had finished out of the money.

The sprint was won by Special Touch, ridden by Jockey Willie Shoemaker, the J. N. Crofton horse who has been feuding with the mighty "Cy's" runing mate, Coaltown, at the recent Bay Meadows meet.

Special Touch's win was in a way a bit of revenge over the Calumet Farm's two speedsters Coaltown won two out of three from Special Touch at Bay Meadows and the win gives the Crofton horse an even break.

Coaltown and Special Touch share the six-furlong track record at Hollywood Park, 1:09 1/5. The time today was 1:10.

Manyunk was second and Bullreigh Jr., galloped in third, ahead of mighty "Cy." The mutuels gave Special Touch's backers $5.50, $4.90 and $3.30. Manyunk paid $4.90 and $3.30 and Bullreigh Jr.'s show was worth $7.40.

UMW Board Demands Pay-Price Curbs End

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' executive board called today for wiping out all wage and price controls when the Defense Production Act expires June 30.

It said in a resolution that efforts to stabilize prices and wages were "entirely unworkable and unnecessary."

Extension of the production act, which provides authority for wage and price controls, is now being considered by congressional committees.

Strike Sanction Is Received By Union

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America (CIO), received notification yesterday that the URCLPWA executive board has voted to sanction strike action by the local against the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company if such action is necessary as a last resort to effect a settlement with the company.

Contract negotiations between the company and the union are being held on a continuous basis.

The union presented the company its 60 day notice of intentions of cancelling the present pact on May 4, as required by the Taft-Hartley Law. This would make July 4 the earliest date for a work stoppage, union officials said.

University To Extend Summer Sessions

The University of Maryland will augment its regular summer school program by adding an additional session, Dr. H. C. Byrd, university president, announced yesterday.

The previously scheduled session, beginning on June 26 and terminating on August 3, will be extended to include classes up to and including September 15.

Registration for the extended summer courses will take place on Saturday, June 23.

"This extended program embracing 16 academic hours of freshman subjects," said Dr. Byrd, "will enable high school graduates to enroll for a full semester of their academic program, including Air Force ROTC."

Six Student Nurses Injured In Mishap Near Paw Paw

Six student nurses at Memorial Hospital were slightly injured in an accident near Paw Paw, W. Va., Thursday at 8 p. m. Two of them were admitted to the hospital.

Hospital officials reported that the car, driven by Joan Coyle, 18, this city, crashed into a watering trough when the front wheels locked as she attempted to turn it around at a roadside parking and recreation area.

Admitted were the driver, who suffered a lacerated face and was X-rayed to determine the extent of other injuries, and Mary Lou Combs, 19, of Parsons, W. Va., with a fractured left ankle.

Treated were Delores Smith, 19, this city, facial lacerations; Jean DeWitt, 17, the Dingle, right leg injury; Dorothy Jean Grove, 18 Westernport, facial lacerations, and Donna Hayhurst, of Gormania, W. Va., neck injury.

All of the student nurses, except Miss Combs, were able to resume their normal duties at the hospital today.

Rail Unions Warn Of "Serious Threat"

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Three rail unions today warned of a "serious new threat to the nation's defense transportation program."

The unions said the threat stemmed from the carriers' rejection of their latest peace offer.

Because of Army operation of the railroads since they were seized last August as part of the dispute, the unions said, "the administration has foreclosed us against striking."

But a union spokesman said there was a definite threat to the morale of those who ran the trains. This dissatisfaction could affect the efficient operation of the railroads, the spokesman said.

County Schools To Get State Building Fund

Members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners this morning signed papers by which $342,650 will be obtained from the state to be used towards paying for the new schools being built.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, met with the board yesterday to have the papers executed so that the money can be obtained within the next few weeks.

Under the $20,000,000 general public assistance loan of 1949 for new schools, Allegany county is eligible for $927,180 from the state fund. The money being requested is the portion for which the county has become eligible by reason of having spent three-fourths of its total outlay for new schools. So far, the county has expended $1,027,950 for new schools.

Two large schools, one at Mt. Savage and another at Lonaconing, are in the current program. The Mt. Savage school is underway and the Lonaconing building is expected to be started soon.

Kopp said the $342,650 to be obtained from the state is an outright grant.

Both the Mt. Savage and Lonaconing schools are costing well over $1,000,000 each.

Local Accountant Joins Celanese

J. Kenneth Morgan, Mastopa Drive, LaVale, a practicing certified public accountant will join the accounting department of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation May 16 as assistant plant accountant. Arthur F. Happe is plant accountant.

Morgan was graduated from Allegany High School and received bachelor and master degrees from Benjamin Franklin University. He is a certified public accountant in both Maryland and the District of Columbia. He holds a commission as captain in the Air Force Reserve.

Morgan has transferred his local accounting practice to his Washington associate, W. Baldwin Buchanan, C.P.A., who is well known in Cumberland. Arthur Crum has been appointed resident manager of the firm, with offices at 59 Pershing Street.

Prior to establishing a business in Cumberland in 1949, Morgan worked as a public accountant with James A. Councilor and Company, Washington, taught accounting at Benjamin Franklin University, and served four and a half years in the Air Force.

Jury Is Dismissed In Preston County

R. Doyne Halbritter, Preston county, W. Va., prosecutor, announced that a petit jury has been dismissed and that no more trials would be heard on charges growing out of the dispute between the United Mine Workers and non-union coal operators in the Preston county coal fields.

Dismissal of the jury followed the dropping of felony charges by the state against four pickets who were allowed to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts.

Arnold Jennings and John Hartman were fined $100 and costs on a charge of assault and battery on Claude Lee, February 16, at the Borgman Coal Company. They were fined by Judge Harlan Calhoun, of Moorefield, sitting on the bench for Judge C. P. Wilhelm who was absent because of a death in his family.

Fined $50 and costs were Dexter Strawser and Kenneth Grimm for assault and battery, March 9, on Ressie Goff, an employe of the Tunnelton Co-operative Coal Company. Strawser and Grimm were originally indicted on the felony charge of intimidating Goff in an attempt to keep him from working.

Not identified as a picket, Clyde Shahan did not contest a charge of spreading nails on the highway and was fined $30 and costs.

Armor Coating Will Be Used In Repairing Mill Run Road

It has been decided by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to have an armor coating applied to the Mill Run Road in order to have the best surface possible.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission wrote the board regarding the cost of armor coating of a bituminous material.

Members of the board explained that surface treating by the bituminous material will seal the roadway and provide a high type thoroughfare.

Cost of the surface treating work is estimated at $4,096.30, and of this sum the federal government will pay approximately half as the Mill Run Road is being built as a federal aid project.

The Mill Run Road runs from a point near Barton towards the Garrett county line. Besides the number of coal mine companies which use the road to transport truck loads of fuel there are a number of farms and residences in the area.

Members of the board said that the cost of maintenance of this road has been so high that hard-surfacing it will save the county money in time.

Members of the board this morning also accepted the low bid of the Ankeney Company to furnish a steel filing case for use in Juvenile Court. The firm bid $79.30.

The other two bidders were the Cumberland Office Supply Company, which offered bids of $94.50 and $82, and the Marquis Company which bid $93.75.

The board also renewed the lease on the Navy and Marine Corp Reserve Armory land on McKaig's Hill.

Shortages Hit Celanese Plant

Sales of the Celanese Corporation of America for the first quarter of 1951 continued to be curtailed due to a shortage of raw materials, according to Harold Blancke, president.

He said the plant of a subsidiary, Columbia Cellulose Company Limited, commenced production on April 16, and by the second half of this year the shortage of cellulose should be considerably alleviated.

"The recent issue of convertible preferred stock in the amount of 1,000,000 shares," Blancke continued, "was successfully concluded. As part of the offerings 112,471 shares of 7 per cent second preferred stock were received on subscriptions or in exchange, leaving a balance of 35,708 shares of that issue outstanding. The first preferred stock, $4.75 series, has been called for redemption.

"The cash proceeds from the sale of the convertible preferred stock, after deducting commissions and expenses, and the value of the 7 per cent second preferred stock surrendered amounted to approximately $81,000,000. After providing for the redemption of the first preferred stock, approximately $37,000,000 was added to the company's funds."

Celanese reported net income before federal income taxes of $20,238,196 for the first quarter of 1951, compared with $17,187,886 for the same quarter in 1950. The additional federal taxes on income, however, outstripped the increase in profits and the net income after taxes, for the first quarter of 1951 was $8,285,196 against $9,856,886 for 1950.

Kelly Departments Continue 6 Day Week

A six-day week in departments at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on truck tire production is in its third week and officials of the firm said that so far as is known the schedule will extend indefinitely.

The six-day week was made necessary due to orders for truck tires for military uses. About 600 to 650 men are affected by the longer work week. The six-day week is in force in the truck tire building, preparation, curing and finishing departments.

Citation Runs 4th On Coast

Special Touch Wins Hollywood Park Race

INGLEWOOD, May 11 (INS)—Calumet Farms' Citation failed in his attempt to add to his huge winnings today as he came in fourth in the six-furlong Premier Handicap, opening day feature of Hollywood Park's 50-day race meet.

It was the first time in his career that he had finished out of the money.

The sprint was won by Special Touch, ridden by Jockey Willie Shoemaker, the J. N. Crofton horse who has been feuding with the mighty "Cy's" runing mate, Coaltown, at the recent Bay Meadows meet.

Special Touch's win was in a way a bit of revenge over the Calumet Farm's two speedsters Coaltown won two out of three from Special Touch at Bay Meadows and the win gives the Crofton horse an even break.

Coaltown and Special Touch share the six-furlong track record at Hollywood Park, 1:09 1/5. The time today was 1:10.

Manyunk was second and Bullreigh Jr., galloped in third, ahead of mighty "Cy." The mutuels gave Special Touch's backers $5.50, $4.90 and $3.30. Manyunk paid $4.90 and $3.30 and Bullreigh Jr.'s show was worth $7.40.

UMW Board Demands Pay-Price Curbs End

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The United Mine Workers' executive board called today for wiping out all wage and price controls when the Defense Production Act expires June 30.

It said in a resolution that efforts to stabilize prices and wages were "entirely unworkable and unnecessary."

Strike Sanction Is Received By Union

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America (CIO), received notification yesterday that the URCLPWA executive board has voted to sanction strike action by the local against the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company if such action is necessary as a last resort to effect a settlement with the company.

Contract negotiations between the company and the union are being held on a continuous basis.

The union presented the company its 60 day notice of intentions of cancelling the present pact on May 4, as required by the Taft-Hartley Law. This would make July 4 the earliest date for a work stoppage, union officials said.

University To Extend Summer Sessions

The University of Maryland will augment its regular summer school program by adding an additional session, Dr. H. C. Byrd, university president, announced yesterday.

The previously scheduled session, beginning on June 26 and terminating on August 3, will be extended to include classes up to and including September 15.

Registration for the extended summer courses will take place on Saturday, June 23.

"This extended program embracing 16 academic hours of freshman subjects," said Dr. Byrd, "will enable high school graduates to enroll for a full semester of their academic program, including Air Force ROTC."

Six Student Nurses Injured In Mishap Near Paw Paw

Six student nurses at Memorial Hospital were slightly injured in an accident near Paw Paw, W. Va., Thursday at 8 p. m. Two of them were admitted to the hospital.

Hospital officials reported that the car, driven by Joan Coyle, 18, this city, crashed into a watering trough when the front wheels locked as she attempted to turn it around at a roadside parking and recreation area.

Admitted were the driver, who suffered a lacerated face and was X-rayed to determine the extent of other injuries, and Mary Lou Combs, 19, of Parsons, W. Va., with a fractured left ankle.

Treated were Delores Smith, 18, this city, facial lacerations; Jean DeWitt, 17, the Dingle, right leg injury; Dorothy Jean Grove, 18, Westernport, facial lacerations, and Donna Hayhurst, of Gormania, W. Va., neck injury.

All of the student nurses, except Miss Combs, were able to resume their normal duties at the hospital today.

Rail Unions Warn Of "Serious Threat"

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Three rail unions today warned of a "serious new threat to the nation's defense transportation program."

The unions said the threat stemmed from the carriers' rejection of their latest peace offer.

Because of Army operation of the railroads since they were seized last August as part of the dispute, the unions said, "the administration has foreclosed us against striking."

But a union spokesman said there was a definite threat to the morale of those who ran the trains. This dissatisfaction could affect the efficient operation of the railroads, the spokesman said.

Compton Enters Mayorality Race In Keyser

Will Vie Against Lester H. Oates

KEYSER, W. Va.—A contest for the post of mayor of Keyser was assured late yesterday when Chester J. Compton, local insurance salesman, filed his signed petitions as a mayorality candidate with City Clerk A. A. Jordan.

Compton will compete against Lester H. Oates, present councilman. Mayor John C. Freeland will not seek reelection.

Jordan reported that a fifth candidate for the single councilmanic post at stake appears likely. G. L. "Granny" Martin, retired railroad engineer, took out petitions yesterday and said he would file them before the deadline.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, May 22, and the general election on Tuesday, June 5.

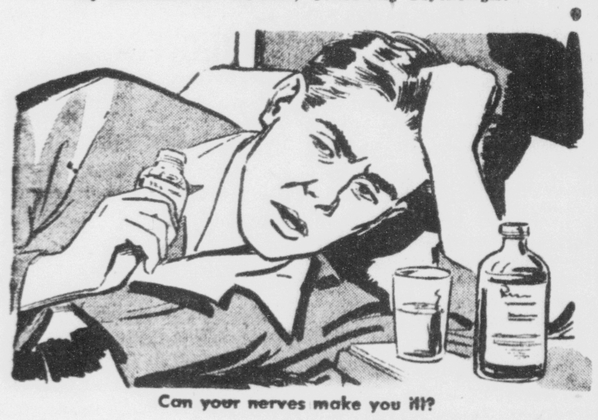
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist



Can your nerves make you ill?

Answer: Not indirectly, says Dr. H. Waldo Bird in the Mental Health Bulletin, Detroit. All that your nerves do is to carry messages and commands between your mind and your body. But the nervous system is twofold, and the involuntary ("sympathetic") nerves which control organs like your heart and stomach are channels through which emotional energy is conveyed from the mind to the body. When the mind develops an overcharge of an emotion like fear, the result may be a bodily disturbance such as palpitation of the heart of nausea, and chronic emotional disturbance may cause chronic illness.

Do "mother's boys" make business leaders?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wladimir Eliasburg. In business, as elsewhere, authority depends more on the willingness of the subordinate to obey than on the leader's will to command. Everyone has in him both a desire to assume responsibility and an urge to lean on others, and which of these impulses predominates in any given person depends on his early relations with his parents. The man who becomes a leader is the one who has freed himself from the "mother-image," which implies dependence, and who dares to emulate his father by doing things "on his own."

Have reading difficulties an emotional basis?

Answer: Yes, writes H. C. Gunzburg in Mental Health (London). The best approach to the problem of the child who cannot learn to read is to study "the relationship between his emotional and social adjustment and the reading situation." Teaching boys of 14 to 16 to read is largely a matter of making them feel secure and "wanted," since they think of reading as something demanded of them by the world which they have found unfriendly and against which they accordingly wish to rebel. But it is hard to find reading material easy enough to inspire confidence in such boys which does not seem "babyish" to them.

HOLLYWOOD, May 11.—(INS)—"Candida," which Katharine Cornell and so many other great actresses played on the stage, is Olivia De Havilland's choice for summer stock. Yes, Livvy's going to do summer stock for ten weeks.

I talked with her at the Beverly Hills Hotel and she said, "I'm leaving next week after I do two radio shows, to do stock. I did it a few years ago and thoroughly enjoyed it, and I'm looking forward to playing 'Candida'."

She told me that she and Marcus Goodrich had left the baby in the east because they are here such a short time.

I wish Livvy would come back and make a picture—we miss her.

As soon as Ray Bolger closes in his stage play, "Where's Charley," he takes off for London to make the screen version of the same play for Warners.

What delights Ray and Director David Butler (who leaves for Europe with his wife Elsie next week) is that Steve Trilling signed Allyn McLerie for the role she plays on the stage in Hollywood. She's very attractive and this will probably be the first of a series she will do for Warners.

Right out of the blue Valentina Cortesa, Italian actress, and 20th said goodbye to their contract.

Valentina was supposed to come here to marry Richard Basehart. Whether or not she will still come to America, I don't know. She's in London finishing a picture and Richard flew there to see her to ask her to marry him.

The Cortesa girl is a charming actress but I suppose that 20th has nothing for her.

Dan Daily and brunette Socialite Neva Gilbert at the King's for dinner. Dan usually prefers blondes, but he's true to the socialites.

Philip Carey's new house in the valley was burglarized while he and his wife were out to dinner. Guess what was taken? Their new garbage disposal! What the thief left was Philip's valuable collection of guns and some jewelry belonging to Mrs. Carey.

Lois Andrews is being seen amost nightly with Bill Bishop. Their favorite spot is the Seven Seas Cafe.

Pat and Arthur Lake are off for New York with Stephen Slesinger about a "Blondie" deal. They were at the party Mrs. Huntington Hartford gave honoring Marion Davies.

Talked with Hyatt Dehn who told me he has just done over a new house he bought.

Greg Bautzer came in all by himself. I asked him if he was between dates.

It was sure nice to see Charles Lederer who was being congratulated on his story, "The Thing," which is a smash hit. His musical comedy, "Three Wishes For Jamie," opens on the 28th of May at the Philharmonic and that will be a night, believe me. Marion Bell is the prima donna. I am told it's so good that it's sure to have a New York run.

The Hartford house is the old John McCormick place and the party was held in the playhouse near the pool. It was done by Frank Lloyd Wright, and Majorie Hartford told me that Huntington had added the wood paneling himself so it wouldn't be all stone.

My Cinderella slippers fell off shortly after midnight so Connie and Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna and pretty Rosemary Pettit brought me home. I hated to leave—everyone was having so much fun.

Peggy Lee is selling her home here because her personal appearance dates and TV show replacing Perry Como will keep her in New York for months.

Mitzi Gaynor, who broke her toe and was out of "Golden Girl" for a few days, is now out again with a bad case of laryngitis.

Cesar Romero is off for New York tomorrow to do television. He'll make a guest appearance on the Jack Carter show.

Hear tell that Mary Louise Gray (Mrs. Larry), daughter of Mary Louise Figueroa, has a successful daily radio show in Mexico City.

Nancy Oakes writes that she visited Dolores Del Rio in her new home at Acapulco, and Carmen Figueroa. Nancy goes to Europe and will then return to Mexico City.

Spoke Jones gets back from Honolulu Monday and he'll stay put until the baby arrives the end of May.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Lough, second vice president; Mrs. Edgell Grayson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Bridgers, recording secretary; and Mrs. Paul J. Davis, treausrer.

One is William Edward Greenhorn, 18, a graduate of Piedmont High School who until his enlistment was employed at the Post Office in Piedmont. He lives at 53½ Jones Street, Piedmont. He enlisted for four years. The other is Norman Darrell Smiley, 17, Bloomington. He enlisted for a minority enlistment. Both men were transferred to the Naval Training Center at Bainbridge for their basic training.

Greg Bautzer came in all by himself. I asked him if he was between dates.

It was sure nice to see Charles Lederer who was being congratulated on his story, "The Thing," which is a smash hit. His musical comedy, "Three Wishes For Jamie," opens on the 28th of May at the Philharmonic and that will be a night, believe me. Marion Bell is the prima donna. I am told it's so good that it's sure to have a New York run.

The Hartford house is the old John McCormick place and the party was held in the playhouse near the pool. It was done by Frank Lloyd Wright, and Majorie Hartford told me that Huntington had added the wood paneling himself so it wouldn't be all stone.

My Cinderella slippers fell off shortly after midnight so Connie and Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna and pretty Rosemary Pettit brought me home. I hated to leave—everyone was having so much fun.

Peggy Lee is selling her home here because her personal appearance dates and TV show replacing Perry Como will keep her in New York for months.

Mitzi Gaynor, who broke her toe and was out of "Golden Girl" for a few days, is now out again with a bad case of laryngitis.

Cesar Romero is off for New York tomorrow to do television. He'll make a guest appearance on the Jack Carter show.

Hear tell that Mary Louise Gray (Mrs. Larry), daughter of Mary Louise Figueroa, has a successful daily radio show in Mexico City.

Nancy Oakes writes that she visited Dolores Del Rio in her new home at Acapulco, and Carmen Figueroa. Nancy goes to Europe and will then return to Mexico City.

Spoke Jones gets back from Honolulu Monday and he'll stay put until the baby arrives the end of May.

That's all today. See you Monday.

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

IF somebody were to come to me — I am not saying it is at all likely, but one has to be prepared for everything — and say 'My God, Wodehouse, you're wonderful!' — referring to my writing, not to my personal appearance, I would be obliged to reply: 'To a certain extent, my dear Smith or Follansbee or whatever the name may be, but only to a certain extent. All we authors, except John Crosby, have our limitations, and I have long recognized mine. I have never been able to master the art of writing letters to the papers. I get as far as 'To The Editor: Sir', and then I go all to pieces. Without wishing to wound, you have revealed my secret sorrow and touched an exposed nerve."

For I yearn to write letters to the papers. All authors do. Novelists are merely those who have failed as contributors to the correspondence column. Unable to make the grade, they drop down a rung on the ladder and write novels.

To test the truth of this, ask the man who has done both. Ask William Faulkner what it felt like to win the Nobel Prize. He yawns. But mention that you saw that letter of his in last week's "Variety," and watch his face light up. 'Pretty good I thought it was,' he says. 'Pretty good, didn't you think?', and he takes you off and stands you lunch.

The fact, however, that I can never be an executant does not prevent me having helpful views on the matter. I have made a close study of correspondence columns over a number of years, and to any young fellow who came to me for advice on how to make good in this most exacting of all branches of literature I would say: 'Write plainly on one side of the paper only. Condense your ideas. And above all do not be too ambitious at the start. Begin — as all the big men have begun — with the cuckoo.'

Nobody knows why, but editors have a weak spot for the cuckoo, and anyone who hears the first one is pretty sure of an entree to their columns. The only trouble is that what is known in the profession as 'cuckoo work' is not as simple as it seems. It calls for the most precise timing. If you don't get your letter in early enough, some rival forestalls you, and there is, oddly enough, no market whatever for the second man who hears the cuckoo. On the other hand, get it in too early, and it becomes merely silly. I mean, it is no use writing to the New York Herald Tribune on January the First and saying 'Sir. A very happy and prosperous New Year to you and all your readers. In this connection, it may be of interest that shortly before midnight last night, while out with the boys in Times Square, I distinctly heard the cuckoo.' The editor simply laughs, and not a nice laugh, either.

Still, the only thing is to keep trying, and I say once more 'Begin with the cuckoo.' And be very careful that it is a cuckoo. I knew a man who wrote to his daily paper saying that he had heard the first chaffinch, and the letter was suppressed because it would have given offense to certain powerful vested interests.

Another piece of advice I would give is this. As you become successful, watch yourself closely. Take care that letter writing does not grow upon you till it becomes a vice. In too many cases, I am sorry to say, the character of these letter writers deteriorates very noticeably as the result of their life work. As young men, they may have been mild and unassuming, but later they want to spend the whole of their time putting everybody right. They cannot see the simplest statement in print without seizing pen and paper and contradicting it — often with the greatest acerbity — in a letter beginning 'To The Editor: Sir. In your yesterday's issue you made the astounding statement that . . . .' and getting nastier right along. It is the old story of the tiger cub which, in its infancy satisfied with bananas, becomes a public menace once it has tasted blood and swallowed its first coolie.

Such men as these, of course, are letter writers who require a peg on which to hang their efforts. The noblest contributors to the correspondence column, the men at the very top of the tree, burst forth spontaneously, like a lark breaking into song.

To The Editor: Sir.

"I wonder how many of your readers are aware that an excellent lotion for the hair may be made of crushed prunes and salad oil . . ."

or

To The Editor: Sir.

"I am the seventh son of a seventh son, born on July 7, 1877, at seven in the morning. I am forty-seven around the waist and have seven Siamese cats . . . "

Practically all a lesser man can do when he comes across this sort of thing is to bow his head and say 'Hail to thee, blithe spirit' and let it go at that.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K G R S D S X V B B Y, K G R S D S X T X H S,
W M X W D X Y S L L G D E V G H G W Z X K U X H S
—A B Z L B Z.

By P. G. WODEHOUSE

IF somebody were to come to me — I am not saying it is at all likely, but one has to be prepared for everything — and say 'My God, Wodehouse, you're wonderful!' — referring to my writing, not to my personal appearance, I would be obliged to reply: 'To a certain extent, my dear Smith or Follansbee or whatever the name may be, but only to a certain extent. All we authors, except John Crosby, have our limitations, and I have long recognized mine. I have never been able to master the art of writing letters to the papers. I get as far as 'To The Editor: Sir', and then I go all to pieces. Without wishing to wound, you have revealed my secret sorrow and touched an exposed nerve."

For I yearn to write letters to the papers. All authors do. Novelists are merely those who have failed as contributors to the correspondence column. Unable to make the grade, they drop down a rung on the ladder and write novels.

To test the truth of this, ask the man who has done both. Ask William Faulkner what it felt like to win the Nobel Prize. He yawns. But mention that you saw that letter of his in last week's "Variety," and watch his face light up. 'Pretty good I thought it was,' he says. 'Pretty good, didn't you think?', and he takes you off and stands you lunch.

The fact, however, that I can never be an executant does not prevent me having helpful views on the matter. I have made a close study of correspondence columns over a number of years, and to any young fellow who came to me for advice on how to make good in this most exacting of all branches of literature I would say: 'Write plainly on one side of the paper only. Condense your ideas. And above all do not be too ambitious at the start. Begin — as all the big men have begun — with the cuckoo.'

Nobody knows why, but editors have a weak spot for the cuckoo, and anyone who hears the first one is pretty sure of an entree to their columns. The only trouble is that what is known in the profession as 'cuckoo work' is not as simple as it seems. It calls for the most precise timing. If you don't get your letter in early enough, some rival forestalls you, and there is, oddly enough, no market whatever for the second man who hears the cuckoo. On the other hand, get it in too early, and it becomes merely silly. I mean, it is no use writing to the New York Herald Tribune on January the First and saying 'Sir. A very happy and prosperous New Year to you and all your readers. In this connection, it may be of interest that shortly before midnight last night, while out with the boys in Times Square, I distinctly heard the cuckoo.' The editor simply laughs, and not a nice laugh, either.

Still, the only thing is to keep trying, and I say once more 'Begin with the cuckoo.' And be very careful that it is a cuckoo. I knew a man who wrote to his daily paper saying that he had heard the first chaffinch, and the letter was suppressed because it would have given offense to certain powerful vested interests.

Another piece of advice I would give is this. As you become successful, watch yourself closely. Take care that letter writing does not grow upon you till it becomes a vice. In too many cases, I am sorry to say, the character of these letter writers deteriorates very noticeably as the result of their life work. As young men, they may have been mild and unassuming, but later they want to spend the whole of their time putting everybody right. They cannot see the simplest statement in print without seizing pen and paper and contradicting it — often with the greatest acerbity — in a letter beginning 'To The Editor: Sir. In your yesterday's issue you made the astounding statement that . . . .' and getting nastier right along. It is the old story of the tiger cub which, in its infancy satisfied with bananas, becomes a public menace once it has tasted blood and swallowed its first coolie.

Such men as these, of course, are letter writers who require a peg on which to hang their efforts. The noblest contributors to the correspondence column, the men at the very top of the tree, burst forth spontaneously, like a lark breaking into song.

To The Editor: Sir.

"I wonder how many of your readers are aware that an excellent lotion for the hair may be made of crushed prunes and salad oil . . ."

or

To The Editor: Sir.

"I am the seventh son of a seventh son, born on July 7, 1877, at seven in the morning. I am forty-seven around the waist and have seven Siamese cats . . ."

Practically all a lesser man can do when he comes across this sort of thing is to bow his head and say 'Hail to thee, blithe spirit' and let it go at that.

Frederick the Great is said to have been responsible for potato culture in Prussia. He had seed potatoes distributed free and compelled the peasants to cultivate them.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K G R S D S X V B B Y, K G R S D S X T X H S,
W M X W D X Y S L L G D E V G H G W Z X K U X H S
—A B Z L B Z.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: INSTRUCT THE PLANETS IN WHAT ORBS TO RUN, CORRECT OLD TIME, AND REGULATE THE SUN—POPE.

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who aided and comforted us in our recent sad bereavement, the death of our husband and father, Ernest R. Evans. Especially do we thank the pall-bearers, those who donated the use of their cars and those who sent floral tributes, and the minister, Rev. Randolph Keefe, Jr., for his comforting words.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE DISTRIBUTION

WHENEVER one member of the other side has made an extreme jump into a high suit contract, especially if he had previously passed, it is wise to stop, look and listen to your thoughts before deciding to double him. Such a bid betokens possession of a terrifically long suit, together with extreme shortage elsewhere in the hand. So there is great danger that any high cards of your pair in some side suit may be ruffed before you can score them.

	♠ 10 6 ♥ K J 10 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ A K 7 6 3
♠ A 8 5 2 ♥ A 9 6 3 ♦ Q ♣ Q 9 4 2	N W E S	♠ K Q J 7 4 3 ♥ Q 8 4 ♦ 10 ♣ J 8 5
	♠ 9 ♥ 7 5 2 ♦ A K J 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
5 ♦	Dbl.

West made that double quick as a flash. Having passed with a hand just under opening bid strength and having heard his partner make an overcall, he felt that this contract would be a cinch to beat. But he later decided that, if he had thought a bit longer, he probably would not have doubled.

He scored his spade A and then led the 2, the J being ruffed by South. One round of trumps proved enough to clear out the defenders' singletons. The club A and K brought one heart discard. A third club was ruffed. Dummy was re-entered with the diamond 9 and a fourth club ruffed, establishing the 7. Now the diamond 8 furnished another entry and the club 7 was used to discard a second heart.

South didn't care now who had the heart A. But he had played right. If the clubs had been so bunched that one hand held five, he still could have led toward the heart K hoping West held the A, as he did.

The guiding principle for West should have been the odds he laid. With a probability of setting the contract only one trick, he could increase his side's score only 50 by doubling. On the other hand, if the contract be made, as it was, the double would increase the declarer's score by 150. So he was betting 3 to 1 he would beat the contract, an unwise gamble.

Your Weekend Question

What are the several advantages of making a sound business double of a low bid by your opponents, in preference to going on with your own side's bidding?

Last Minute Selling Forces Stock Prices Down Sharply

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP) — Sellers rushing into the stock market at the last moment today forced prices down sharply.

Rails took a hard pounding and posted some major losses. Motors and steels also were hit hard in some of the fastest trading of the day.

Overall the losses ran to more than $3 a share at the outside with minus signs in the $1-$2 range frequent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 80 cents to $95.80. The fall was the widest since March 28.

The railroad component of the average had the worst slide, off $1.20, while the industrial average lost 90 cents. Utilities, on the other hand, resisted and trend and advanced 10 cents.

Limits of the fall are clearly shown by the fact that 585 issues today had minus signs as compared with 624 on the downside yesterday when price concessions were much smaller. Advances came to 308 as against 289 yesterday. The total number of issues traded widened a little to 1,156 against 1,145 yesterday.

Of the 15 most active issues, only one closed higher, Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, 12th most active up ½ at 7½.

Montana-Dakota utilities topped the most active list off ⅝ at 18⅞ with 28,500 shares traded. That was regarded as a profit-taking reaction from its 2¼ rise of yesterday.

Others in order were General Motors off 1¼ at 51½, Chrysler off 1 at 77, Southern Co. off ⅛ at 11⅜, and Warner Bros. off 1 at 12⅛.

American Telephone off ⅛ at 155⅝ made one of its not to frequent appearances on the list in eighth place. It was followed by U. S. Steel off ⅜ at 44.

Trading rose to 1,640,000 shares as against 1,650,000 shares the previous day.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE DISTRIBUTION

WHENEVER one member of the other side has made an extreme jump into a high suit contract, especially if he had previously passed, it is wise to stop, look and listen to your thoughts before deciding to double him. Such a bid betokens possession of a terrifically long suit, together with extreme shortage elsewhere in the hand. So there is great danger that any high cards of your pair in some side suit may be ruffed before you can score them.

	♠ 10 6 ♥ K J 10 ♦ 9 8 4 ♣ A K 7 6 3
♠ A 8 5 2 ♥ A 9 6 3 ♦ Q ♣ Q 9 4 2	N W E S	♠ K Q J 7 4 3 ♥ Q 8 4 ♦ 10 ♣ J 8 5
	♠ 9 ♥ 7 5 2 ♦ A K J 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
5 ♦	Dbl.

West made that double quick as a flash. Having passed with a hand just under opening bid strength and having heard his partner make an overcall, he felt that this contract would be a cinch to beat. But he later decided that, if he had thought a bit longer, he probably would not have doubled.

He scored his spade A and then led the 2, the J being ruffed by South. One round of trumps proved enough to clear out the defenders' singletons. The club A and K brought one heart discard. A third club was ruffed. Dummy was re-entered with the diamond 9 and a fourth club ruffed, establishing the 7. Now the diamond 8 furnished another entry and the club 7 was used to discard a second heart.

South didn't care now who had the heart A. But he had played right. If the clubs had been so bunched that one hand held five, he still could have led toward the heart K hoping West held the A, as he did.

The guiding principle for West should have been the odds he laid. With a probability of setting the contract only one trick, he could increase his side's score only 50 by doubling. On the other hand, if the contract be made, as it was, the double would increase the declarer's score by 150. So he was betting 3 to 1 he would beat the contract, an unwise gamble.

Your Weekend Question

What are the several advantages of making a sound business double of a low bid by your opponents, in preference to going on with your own side's bidding?

Last Minute Selling Forces Stock Prices Down Sharply

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP) — Sellers rushing into the stock market at the last moment today forced prices down sharply.

Rails took a hard pounding and posted some major losses. Motors and steels also were hit hard in some of the fastest trading of the day.

Overall the losses ran to more than $3 a share at the outside with minus signs in the $1-$2 range frequent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 80 cents to $95.80. The fall was the widest since March 28.

The railroad component of the average had the worst slide, off $1.20, while the industrial average lost 90 cents. Utilities, on the other hand, resisted and trend and advanced 10 cents.

Limits of the fall are clearly shown by the fact that 585 issues today had minus signs as compared with 624 on the downside yesterday when price concessions were much smaller. Advances came to 308 as against 289 yesterday. The total number of issues traded widened a little to 1,156 against 1,145 yesterday.

Of the 15 most active issues, only one closed higher, Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, 12th most active up ½ at 7½.

Montana-Dakota utilities topped the most active list off ⅝ at 18⅞ with 28,500 shares traded. That was regarded as a profit-taking reaction from its 2¼ rise of yesterday.

Others in order were General Motors off 1¼ at 51½, Chrysler off 1 at 77, Southern Co. off ⅛ at 11⅜, and Warner Bros. off 1 at 12⅛.

American Telephone off ⅛ at 155⅝ made one of its not to frequent appearances on the list in eighth place. It was followed by U. S. Steel off ⅝ at 44.

Trading rose to 1,640,000 shares as against 1,650,000 shares the previous day.

Guard To Build Command Post Display Here

Aerial Program Set For Armed Forces Day

A field army headquarters or combat "command post", set up on the State Armory lawn, will be one of the feature displays during the city-wide Armed Forces Day program here May 19.

In addition to this impressive setup showing the organizational teamwork and equipment used to field army headquarters during actual combat a huge aerial program is also being planned, Lt. Col. L. M. Shropshire, commander of the 29th Division National Guard Units here said yesterday.

Aerial Show Planned

The aerial and headquarters displays will be only a part of the overall celebration. Brigadier General George H. Olmsted will be the principal speaker at a luncheon at the Elks home and a large 1½-mile parade also is scheduled for 3:30 p. m. Schools To Close For Half Day Monday For King Bros. Circus

Elephant Parade To Feature Show Here

Monday is Circus Day! And local elementary and high schools will be closed at noon to give the students a chance to see King Brothers Circus here that day. Two matinee and one evening performances are scheduled by the troupe which will arrive here early Monday morning.

The more the elephants, the bigger the circus, has long since been the rule by which the size of a circus was judged. In the old days, the days when circuses moved by wagon train, one or possibly two elephants were considered plenty. Today, a herd of five or six is nothing more than a beginning.

With the all-new and enlarged King Brothers Circus, scheduled to exhibit in Cumberland, Monday, May 14 at Taylor Field in South Cumberland, three great herds of performing elephants will be seen in what is conceded to be the most thrilling and spectacular elephant display in America. They are an outstanding feature and they serve to introduce three of Spangleland's most beautiful and talented "elephant girls"—Marion and June Cristiani, and Mary Lake—who present the powerful beasts in the rings.

A prior glimpse of the huge animal actors will be given circus fans show day morning when "The Parade Of The Elephants" is presented downtown at noon as a reminder of circus day.

Everything about this new circus of 1951 is of gigantic proportions. Great masses of stars and performers take part, and among them many of Spangleland's greatest attractions. It is, by far, the most outstanding circus program presented by King Brothers in years.

Heading the list of top-flight features are the world renowned Cristiani Family of somersaulting bareback riding champions, with Lucio, greatest of all riding comedians; Hugo Zacchini, the man who is actually shot from the mouth of a giant cannon; La Louisa, aerial star from France, the "Queen of Aerial Rhythm"; the Great Davisos, the high-in-the-air thriller; the Ortans Troupe, sensational springboard acrobats, featuring beautiful Ortans, billed as "the world's greatest lady acrobat"; Vicenti Barragan, aerial sensation; the Canistrelli Troupe, unsupported-ladder performers; the Sabatiny Troupe, thrilling flying-return stars and many, many others from among the 200 men and women arenic stars and performers listed under the King Brothers' banners this season.

Performances will be given at 1:30, 3:30 and 8 p. m. with the main gates opening at 1 and 7 p. m.

For the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Store, 16 North Centre Street.

Firemen To Hear Plans For State Pension System

Could Enter Under Previous Legislation

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, this week conferred with officials of the Maryland Employees Retirement System on details necessary to bring members of the Cumberland Fire Department into the state system under legislation passed in 1949.

Governor McKeldin recently vetoed a bill which would have provided that if the workers were taken into the state plan, employe contributions to the city plan would be returned to the men.

Gibson said it appears that the only difference in the plans would be that the previous legislation requires that money in the present Firemen's Pension Fund, including both city and employe contributions, must be turned over to the state system.

If funds are available in a local system, the money must be transferred to the state system to take care of those who are on pension.

Employe contributions, however, would be credited to each worker's individual account and, if he drops out of the system or dies prior to retirement, such funds are returned with interest to the employe or his survivors.

Such money, Gibson said, would purchase additional annuities for the men above what the city would provide by paying accrued liability for years of service.

The city's share in the present fund would be used for such accrued liability.

Gibson said officials of the firemen's association will confer with the members of the department on the subject.

All data needed by the state in incorporating the local pension plan into the state system plan have been forwarded to the state.

Cresaptown Fire Brigade Course Ends

Eighteen Students Qualify For Cards

Eighteen pupils of Cresaptown School received pocket cards yesterday certifying completion of the 1950-51 Fire Brigade course. The course, sponsored by the community's volunteer fire department, was under direction of Chief Arthur Winters, Assistant Chief Joseph G. Wenrich and several members of the department.

Wenrich said yesterday that the course, started last fall, consisted of eight drills conducted at the school during the past several months. Students from the eighth and ninth grades received practical experience in usage of the school's fire fighting equipment.

In commending the work of the "young fire fighters," Wenrich added that recently an outside drill was held with the department's booster hose. The students ran out 100 feet of the hose and had water running through the line in seven seconds. Chief Winters manned the pump while Wenrich timed the boys.

The students were very successful in completing the course, Wenrich continued, and are capable of handling minor fires at the school until the fire department arrives. The course is expected to become an annual affair and next fall a chief and two assistants will be chosen from the class. Ten students will participate from each of two grades.

Members of the Cresaptown Fire Department are especially grateful to Principal Myra Nefflin for her cooperation in making the course a success.

Students from the ninth grade receiving cards are Carl Bechie, Leroy Clem, James Clem, Ronald Turner, John Lease, James Moore, Thomas Galliher, Hayden Dawson, Eugene Pratt and Floyd Flannigan.

Eighth grade students include Kenneth McKinney, George Day, James Quartucci, James Keister, Robert Rotruck, Howard Lease, Gene Dawson and Gene Blubaugh.

Admission Tax Forms Available

Copies of Ordinance No. 1902, placing a five cent admission tax on all adult admissions to recreational events, shows or entertainments within the city are available for distribution at the City Clerk's office.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said the order passed May 7 provides that any firm, corporation or organization conducting any recreational event, show or entertainment in the city must collect the five cent on adult admissions and bring the tax collected to the City Clerk.

Ullery said report forms may be secured from the City Clerk's office.

The ordinance, effective May 15, was passed unanimously at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council. It provides that funds derived from the charges will be earmarked for the use of the City Recreation Department.

Officials estimate proceeds from the tax, receipts from Penn Avenue Field, Constitution Park pool and other functions sponsored by the city will allow the department to keep its budget for next year at the $20,000 mark.

Officials have estimated that the department should have an income of about $36,000 to $38,000. The current budget provided $39,000 for the department.

City Police Pay Hike To Become Effective June 1

Several members of the City Police Department last night took issue with a published statement that patrolmen are paid $245 per month by the city. They point out that patrolmen's present pay is $233 per month and will not be $245 until after a $12 per month pay raise becomes effective June 1.

At a recent session of the State Legislature the $12 pay raise law was passed effective June 1, and will be reflected in pay checks received June 15 by the patrolmen.

There is a shortage of policemen here. Only one man of six who took the recent Civil Service examination qualified as eligible for appointment.

Some city officials and members of the department believe that with Cumberland listed as one of the heaviest areas of unemployment, there must be some reason why more men do not apply for police appointments.

Records show that in 1938 there were 48 men listed on the department. In 1940 there were 44. Today, the department has but 43, with one man scheduled to leave within the next 10 days and three others preparing to retire or go into other employment.

The Civil Service Board does not call another examination for about six months, but officials point out that if an emergency arises from a shortage of police personnel, temporary appointments can be made if men can be found who want to serve.

These temporary officers would be required to meet regular qualifications. A policeman must be at least five feet, eight inches tall; and between the ages of 21 andd 35. Police may retire at half pay at age 60, but with approval of the Mayor and Council may remain on the force until age 65.

Equity Cases Filed

A number of equity cases have been filed the last several days in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint are titled Herbert C. Caldwell vs. Emma Caldwell, Helen J. Martin vs. John C. Martin, Harold F. Walter vs. Patricia L. Walter and Charles C. King vs. Nannie V. King.

WEATHER

The weatherman kept his promise and Cumberland received a drenching rain yesterday afternoon. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 61, a low of 52 and at 8:55 p.m. last night the temperature was 55. The total rainfall was .99 of an inch. The forecast for today is considerable cloudiness and cool.

Moose And Eagles Lodges To Observe Mother's Day

City Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz will be the principal speaker at Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, commemoration of Mothers' Day at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The local Eagles will pay tribute to all mothers by dedicating an initiation class to mothers.

The Eagles' role for Mothers' Day began 47 years ago when the late Frank Hering, of South Bend, Ind., then a Notre Dame University professor, made the first public plea for national observance in an address February 7, 1904.

The suggestion, made at a memorial service conducted by Indianapolis Aerie, was forwarded by Hering who later became national president of the Eagles. The observance was encouraged by the Grand Aerie and was placed upon the Eagle calendar long before general recognition of the event was made.

A Mothers' Day campaign was started in 1907 by Miss Ann Mae Jarvis, a Philadelphia woman, who suggested that the second Sunday in May, the anniversary of her mother's death, be set aside for the observance. Mothers' Day was put on the national calendar by Congress in 1914.

The War Mothers of America in 1929 placed a plaque at the site of the Hering home honoring the efforts of the Eagles' organization in behalf of the observance.

An annual Mothers' Day program will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, at its home on Beall Street.

Invocation will be given by Rev. Ernest Horning, O.F.M.Cap., and the address of welcome by Lonnie Jackson, governor of the lodge. The Mother's Day message will be delivered by Rev. Lee E. Sheaffer, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren Church, Potomac Park.

As in past years a feature of tomorrow's affair will be the presentation of awards to the oldest and youngest mother in attendance.

Among the selections to be played by the orchestra are "The Star Spangled Banner", "That Wonderful Mother Of Mine", "Tie Me To Your Apron Strings Again", "Tell Mother I'll Be There", "Baby Your Mother", and "My Mother".

Also included on the program will be several dance numbers. The entire audience will join in and sing "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Benediction will be given by Rev. Horning.

Master of Ceremonies will be Edward Rinner and program chairman is John R. Vernall. The program is open to the public.

Lt. Lilya said the gash was self inflicted with a razor blade about 10 a. m. in the bath room of his parent's home.

The detective bureau head reported that Rexrode came home Sunday from Pittsburgh where he was working on a construction job.

He was treated Thursday for an acute nervous condition by a local psychiatrist and had planned to return to Pittsburgh Monday.

Joint Meeting Planned On Area Sewage Plans

City To Confer With Sanitary Commission

A joint meeting of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be held in City Hall Monday at 10 a. m. to discuss possibilities for an area sewage treatment and disposal system.

Preliminary plans prepared for Cumberland's sewage treatment project includes two alternate plans.

One is designed to take care of the needs of Cumberland alone until 1970. It is estimated to cost about $1,350,000.

The second plan, designed to construct a plant capable of treating sewage from the Cumberland metropolitan area, would cost $1,480,000.

Officials said it is primarily to discuss the possibilities of the area plan that the meeting was called.

Hall To Attend

Representing the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be Dr. William E. Moseley, Mt. Savage, chairman; Herbert Heineman, Cresaptown, and Aden Miller, Lonaconing.

Dr. Moseley said George L. Hall, chief engineer for the State Department of Health, will also attend the meeting.

Dr. Moseley said the commission has contacted federal authorities on plans for a loan or advance to finance the planning work of a county sewage disposal and treatment system for the district.

He said he has made a brief study of the metropolitan district plan prepared by Regester and termed the plan logical.

Twenty Year Limit

Regester reported the $1,480,000 plan for the area would be adequate to serve the population of Cumberland's metropolitan area until 1970.

This cost does not, however, include the outlying future interceptor sewers and pumping stations which would be needed to tie other communities into the system here.

The second system would offer considerable economy in operating costs.

The annual per capita cost of the project to serve Cumberland alone was estimated at $2.60. A system taking care of the metropolitan area would drop the per capita cost down to $2.26.

Buchholtz Says Peddlers Must Secure License

Terms Competition Unfair To Taxpayers

A strict warning to unlicensed hawkers and peddlers operating in this city was issued yesterday by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will ask the Police Department to be vigilant in enforcing the city ordinance on license fees for hawkers and peddlers of fresh fruits and vegetables within the city.

He added that merchants and wholesalers who pay taxes and support the city should be protected from unfair competition.

If citizens cooperate by reporting possible violations, city officials will see that proper action is taken, Buchholtz said.

The ordnance requires that all peddlers secure a license from the city clerk.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said there have been a number of complaints recently concerning unlicensed peddlers and reported only a few permits have been issued this month.

The law provides that persons who are not bona fide growers or producers and who sell fresh fruits, vegetables or other country produce in the city, either retail or wholesale, must obtain a license from the City Clerk.

Rates vary from $25 a day to $200 a year.

Persons who are bona fide growers of the produce offered for sale must procure an identification card from the City Clerk for a 50-cent fee.

The ordinance does not require license fees from persons engaged in interstate commerce.

Elephant Parade To Feature Show Here

Monday is Circus Day! And local elementary and high schools will be closed at noon to give the students a chance to see King Brothers Circus here that day. Two matinee and one evening performances are scheduled by the troupe which will arrive here early Monday morning.

The more the elephants, the bigger the circus, has long since been the rule by which the size of a circus was judged. In the old days, the days when circuses moved by wagon train, one or possibly two elephants were considered plenty. Today, a herd of five or six is nothing more than a beginning.

With the all-new and enlarged King Brothers Circus, scheduled to exhibit in Cumberland, Monday, May 14 at Taylor Field in South Cumberland, three great herds of performing elephants will be seen in what is conceded to be the most thrilling and spectacular elephant display in America. They are an outstanding feature and they serve to introduce three of Spangleland's most beautiful and talented "elephant girls"—Marion and June Cristiani, and Mary Lake—who present the powerful beasts in the rings.

A prior glimpse of the huge animal actors will be given circus fans show day morning when "The Parade Of The Elephants" is presented downtown at noon as a reminder of circus day.

Everything about this new circus of 1951 is of gigantic proportions. Great masses of stars and performers take part, and among them many of Spangleland's greatest attractions. It is, by far, the most outstanding circus program presented by King Brothers in years.

Heading the list of top-flight features are the world renowned Cristiani Family of somersaulting bareback riding champions, with Lucio, greatest of all riding comedians; Hugo Zacchini, the man who is actually shot from the mouth of a giant cannon; La Louisa, aerial star from France, the "Queen of Aerial Rhythm"; the Great Davisos, the high-in-the-air thriller; the Ortans Troupe, sensational springboard acrobats, featuring beautiful Ortans, billed as "the world's greatest lady acrobat"; Vicenti Barragan, aerial sensation; the Canistrelli Troupe, unsupported-ladder performers; the Sabatiny Troupe, thrilling flying-return stars and many, many others from among the 200 men and women arenic stars and performers listed under the King Brothers' banners this season.

Performances will be given at 1:30, 3:30 and 8 p. m. with the main gates opening at 1 and 7 p. m.

For the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Store, 16 North Centre Street.

Firemen To Hear Plans For State Pension System

Could Enter Under Previous Legislation

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, this week conferred with officials of the Maryland Employees Retirement System on details necessary to bring members of the Cumberland Fire Department into the state system under legislation passed in 1949.

Governor McKeldin recently vetoed a bill which would have provided that if the workers were taken into the state plan, employe contributions to the city plan would be returned to the men.

Gibson said it appears that the only difference in the plans would be that the previous legislation requires that money in the present Firemen's Pension Fund, including both city and employe contributions, must be turned over to the state system.

If funds are available in a local system, the money must be transferred to the state system to take care of those who are on pension.

Employe contributions, however, would be credited to each worker's individual account and, if he drops out of the system or dies prior to retirement, such funds are returned with interest to the employe or his survivors.

Such money, Gibson said, would purchase additional annuities for the men above what the city would provide by paying accrued liability for years of service.

The city's share in the present fund would be used for such accrued liability.

Gibson said officials of the firemen's association will confer with the members of the department on the subject.

All data needed by the state in incorporating the local pension plan into the state system plan have been forwarded to the state.

Cresaptown Fire Brigade Course Ends

Eighteen Students Qualify For Cards

Eighteen pupils of Cresaptown School received pocket cards yesterday certifying completion of the 1950-51 Fire Brigade course. The course, sponsored by the community's volunteer fire department, was under direction of Chief Arthur Winters, Assistant Chief Joseph G. Wenrich and several members of the department.

Wenrich said yesterday that the course, started last fall, consisted of eight drills conducted at the school during the past several months. Students from the eighth and ninth grades received practical experience in usage of the school's fire fighting equipment.

In commending the work of the "young fire fighters," Wenrich added that recently an outside drill was held with the department's booster hose. The students ran out 100 feet of the hose and had water running through the line in seven seconds. Chief Winters manned the pump while Wenrich timed the boys.

The students were very successful in completing the course, Wenrich continued, and are capable of handling minor fires at the school until the fire department arrives. The course is expected to become an annual affair and next fall a chief and two assistants will be chosen from the class. Ten students will participate from each of two grades.

Members of the Cresaptown Fire Department are especially grateful to Principal Myra Neffiin for her cooperation in making the course a success.

Eighth grade students include Kenneth McKinney, George Day, James Quartucci, James Keister, Robert Rotruck, Howard Lease, Gene Dawson and Gene Blubaugh.

Admission Tax Forms Available

Copies of Ordinance No. 1902, placing a five cent admission tax on all adult admissions to recreational events, shows or entertainments within the city are available for distribution at the City Clerk's office.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said the order passed May 7 provides that any firm, corporation or organization conducting any recreational event, show or entertainment in the city must collect the five cent on adult admissions and bring the tax collected to the City Clerk.

Ullery said report forms may be secured from the City Clerk's office.

The ordinance, effective May 15, was passed unanimously at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council. It provides that funds derived from the charges will be earmarked for the use of the City Recreation Department.

Officials estimate proceeds from the tax, receipts from Penn Avenue Field, Constitution Park pool and other functions sponsored by the city will allow the department to keep its budget for next year at the $20,000 mark.

Officials have estimated that the department should have an income of about $36,000 to $38,000. The current budget provided $39,000 for the department.

City Police Pay Hike To Become Effective June 1

Several members of the City Police Department last night took issue with a published statement that patrolmen are paid $245 per month by the city. They point out that patrolmen's present pay is $233 per month and will not be $245 until after a $12 per month pay raise becomes effective June 1.

At a recent session of the State Legislature the $12 pay raise law was passed effective June 1, and will be reflected in pay checks received June 15 by the patrolmen.

There is a shortage of policemen here. Only one man of six who took the recent Civil Service examination qualified as eligible for appointment.

Some city officials and members of the department believe that with Cumberland listed as one of the heaviest areas of unemployment, there must be some reason why more men do not apply for police appointments.

Records show that in 1938 there were 48 men listed on the department. In 1940 there were 44. Today, the department has but 43, with one man scheduled to leave within the next 10 days and three others preparing to retire or go into other employment.

The Civil Service Board does not call another examination for about six months, but officials point out that if an emergency arises from a shortage of police personnel, temporary appointments can be made if men can be found who want to serve.

These temporary officers would be required to meet regular qualifications. A policeman must be at least five feet, eight inches tall; and between the ages of 21 andd 35. Police may retire at half pay at age 60, but with approval of the Mayor and Council may remain on the force until age 65.

WEATHER

The weatherman kept his promise and Cumberland received a drenching rain yesterday afternoon. The weather station at Constitution Park recorded a high of 61, a low of 52 and at 8:55 p.m. last night the temperature was 55. The total rainfall was .99 of an inch. The forecast for today is considerable cloudiness and cool.

Moose And Eagles Lodges To Observe Mother's Day

City Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz will be the principal speaker at Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, commemoration of Mothers' Day at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The local Eagles will pay tribute to all mothers by dedicating an initiation class to mothers.

The Eagles' role for Mothers' Day began 47 years ago when the late Frank Hering, of South Bend, Ind., then a Notre Dame University professor, made the first public plea for national observance in an address February 7, 1904.

The suggestion, made at a memorial service conducted by Indianapolis Aerie, was forwarded by Hering who later became national president of the Eagles. The observance was encouraged by the Grand Aerie and was placed upon the Eagle calendar long before general recognition of the event was made.

A Mothers' Day campaign was started in 1907 by Miss Ann Mae Jarvis, a Philadelphia woman, who suggested that the second Sunday in May, the anniversary of her mother's death, be set aside for the observance. Mothers' Day was put on the national calendar by Congress in 1914.

The War Mothers of America in 1929 placed a plaque at the site of the Hering home honoring the efforts of the Eagles' organization in behalf of the observance.

An annual Mothers' Day program will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, at its home on Beall Street.

Invocation will be given by Rev. Ernest Horning, O.F.M.Cap., and the address of welcome by Lonnie Jackson, governor of the lodge. The Mother's Day message will be delivered by Rev. Lee E. Sheaffer, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren Church, Potomac Park.

As in past years a feature of tomorrow's affair will be the presentation of awards to the oldest and youngest mother in attendance.

Among the selections to be played by the orchestra are "The Star Spangled Banner", "That Wonderful Mother Of Mine", "Tie Me To Your Apron Strings Again", "Tell Mother I'll Be There", "Baby Your Mother", and "My Mother".

Also included on the program will be several dance numbers. The entire audience will join in and sing "May The Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Benediction will be given by Rev. Horning.

Master of Ceremonies will be Edward Rinner and program chairman is John R. Vernall. The program is open to the public.

Lt. Lilya said the gash was self inflicted with a razor blade about 10 a. m. in the bath room of his parent's home.

Joint Meeting Planned On Area Sewage Plans

City To Confer With Sanitary Commission

A joint meeting of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be held in City Hall Monday at 10 a. m. to discuss possibilities for an area sewage treatment and disposal system.

Preliminary plans prepared for Cumberland's sewage treatment project includes two alternate plans.

One is designed to take care of the needs of Cumberland alone until 1970. It is estimated to cost about $1,350,000.

The second plan, designed to construct a plant capable of treating sewage from the Cumberland metropolitan area, would cost $1,480,000.

Officials said it is primarily to discuss the possibilities of the area plan that the meeting was called.

Hall To Attend

Representing the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission will be Dr. William E. Moseley, Mt. Savage, chairman; Herbert Heineman, Cresaptown, and Aden Miller, Lonaconing.

Dr. Moseley said George L. Hall, chief engineer for the State Department of Health, will also attend the meeting.

Dr. Moseley said the commission has contacted federal authorities on plans for a loan or advance to finance the planning work of a county sewage disposal and treatment system for the district.

He said he has made a brief study of the metropolitan district plan prepared by Regester and termed the plan logical.

Twenty Year Limit

Regester reported the $1,480,000 plan for the area would be adequate to serve the population of Cumberland's metropolitan area until 1970.

This cost does not, however, include the outlying future interceptor sewers and pumping stations which would be needed to tie other communities into the system here.

The second system would offer considerable economy in operating costs.

The annual per capita cost of the project to serve Cumberland alone was estimated at $2.60. A system taking care of the metropolitan area would drop the per capita cost down to $2.26.

Buchholtz Says Peddlers Must Secure License

Terms Competition Unfair To Taxpayers

A strict warning to unlicensed hawkers and peddlers operating in this city was issued yesterday by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz said he will ask the Police Department to be vigilant in enforcing the city ordinance on license fees for hawkers and peddlers of fresh fruits and vegetables within the city.

He added that merchants and wholesalers who pay taxes and support the city should be protected from unfair competition.

If citizens cooperate by reporting possible violations, city officials will see that proper action is taken, Buchholtz said.

The ordnance requires that all peddlers secure a license from the city clerk.

Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, said there have been a number of complaints recently concerning unlicensed peddlers and reported only a few permits have been issued this month.

The law provides that persons who are not bona fide growers or producers and who sell fresh fruits, vegetables or other country produce in the city, either retail or wholesale, must obtain a license from the City Clerk.

Rates vary from $25 a day to $200 a year.

Persons who are bona fide growers of the produce offered for sale must procure an identification card from the City Clerk for a 50-cent fee.

The ordinance does not require license fees from persons engaged in interstate commerce.
